Jingle All the Way
One of the things that changed in the Mass following Vatican Council II was that bells were no longer required to be rung by the servers during Mass. At that time many parishes therefore stopped using them. Other parishes continued to use them. Here St. Isidore uses them but St. Therese does not.

Because nearly all of the younger priests are very traditional in their outlook, bells are becoming "in" again, although they are still not required. So we will start using the jingle bells at St. Therese Masses starting at Easter. We will use them only at the Elevation of the Host and of the Chalice (as at St. Isidore). It may take a while for the servers to get used to this, but do not worry: they are not required.

St Therese Religious Education
If you are not comfortable having your children attend in person classes you can continue online classes. Please let Sandy know 920-655-3560 if you choose to continue online classes.
