From the Pastor's Desk

Dear Parish Family,

Happy Solemnity of the Ascension of Christ! There are so many beautiful images of the Ascension. Most of them have us as observers, seeing Jesus hovering just about the earth as the disciples gaze at him for one last time. But my favorite image was created by Salvador Dali. Instead of us observing, we are active participants, standing with the disciples, looking up. And what do we see? Jesus' feet.

Have you ever thought of that? The last thing the disciples saw were the soles of his feet. And in Dali's painting those feet are calloused, dirty, and scarred. Dali intended that. He wanted to draw our attention to the many pilgrimages he made by foot during his life on earth – before and after his resurrection. The only time we know Jesus didn't walk was when he crossed the Sea of Galilee (although at least ONCE he did walk across the water) and when he entered Jerusalem at the start of what we commemorate as Holy Week. Jesus walked, miles and miles over rocky paths, flourishing and fallow fields, the cobblestone paths of Jerusalem. And most of it, if not all of it barefoot.

When Jesus ascended into heaven he took with them the marks of his work on earth – the callouses that would have developed as he traveled from town to town, tirelessly seeking the many others whose feet carried them through their own lives. He carried the scars from the wounds of the nails that pierced his feet as he hung upon the cross – as a symbol of the trials and sufferings of all people who had been redeemed by his death and resurrection. And he took dirt.

I remember as a child after being outside playing all day, returning home late in the day, running into the house and my mother's voice commanding us to wipe our feet, take off our shoes, even wash our feet before we tracked dirt into the house. But when Jesus returned to his Father, he took with him the dirt from which God formed our first parents, the dirt in which people toil, the dirt that we try so hard to clean up.

And what was Dali's inspiration and model? He went out and asked hard-working peasants – farmers, laborers, travelers, pilgrims, women, men, and children – and invited them into his studio where they were asked to stand on a thick pane of glass on a raised platform. There he stood looking up at their bare feet, studying them carefully, getting to know the people. And those feet that had walked the earth as Jesus did, became the feet of Jesus in the famous painting.

As Jesus ascended to heaven, I don't think that it was a coincidence that the last thing we see are his feet, because the last thing he tells us it so go out to all the nations to proclaim the Good News, to Baptize all nations, to seek the lost. We'll know that we are doing our job when our feet are tired, calloused, dirty, even scarred. And when we enter the kingdom, he will know we are his disciples when kneeling to wash our feet in welcome and see that the bottoms of our feet look like his. And we will hear him say, "Well done."

Peace,

Fr. Stan, OSST

Prayer for Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen
