Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Today's Solemnity proclaims an essential dimension of our lives: mystery. The Christian experience is a spiritual experience, in which the senses are not deactivated, but transfigured by the Spirit, equipped to withstand the "tremendous" journey that is mystery.

Certainly, revelation reaches us through the senses. But then the senses must be purified, transcended, in order to penetrate the mystery that is God. Based on what is true, evident, we face the journey to what is veiled, hidden, out of our reach.

Revelation is not intended to explain ourselves to God, but to put us in touch with his mystery. And closeness itself does not make God within our reach. God, certainly, is not far away. But God is hidden.

God-for-us
Today's liturgy offers us some "clues" that point to the richness of the mystery of God and allow us to obtain divine light and heavenly food for an eternal existence.

Today's first reading, taken from the book of Deuteronomy, allows us to walk the path made by Israel: to reach God through the reading of the history of revelation, which documents precisely what God does for his people. He reveals himself by putting before us precise claims, concrete actions, unequivocal testimonies of his paternal love.
We might like to know who God is. But He, on the other hand, makes Himself known through how he cares for us. The God for us is the only face of mystery that we are allowed to see. God, in a sense, drops a piece of his mystery, revealing himself through our dependence on His Grace.

God-in-us
The God-for-us is also the God-in-us, as St Paul teaches in today's second reading. The same God who guides his people throughout history has made a home in the heart of man. And it is the Holy Spirit who destroys our past as slaves, sinners, broken and in need and reveals to us a secret that should overwhelm us with joy: we are children and heirs and we can call God "Abba, Father". In this way we are put before another paradox of today's mystery: the revelation of who we are and what we will be.

God-with-us
Today's Gospel allows us to intuit another dimension of the Trinitarian mystery: the God-with-us. St. Matthew seems to ignore the ascension. Jesus, in his perspective, has not left the earth to reach heaven. More than the departure, Matthew insists on speaking of Christ's presence in our midst. "I am with you every day, to the end of the world." And with that statement he ends his gospel.

And with this comfort, Christ sends his apostles to convert peoples and baptize them in the name of the Triune God. Through this missionary and evangelizing task, the Church must experience and manifest precisely the God-with-us.

And with this it indicates that the Trinitarian mystery is not an aesthetic reality, but dynamic. Indeed, there is a God who acts for us. A Holy Spirit that guides us to the Father. And Christ who entrusts his message in the footsteps of his apostles and disciples of all times.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, the Trinitarian mystery is not a reality that is confined to heaven. The God-for-us, the God-in-us, and the God-with-us touches us closely, is intertwined with our daily existence, leading toward a home with God in heaven forever. The mystery of the Triune God makes us alive, now and forever.

Gratefully yours in Jesus,

Fr. Paul Ybarra, C.S.C.
Pastor

Queridos Hermanos y Hermanas en Cristo,

La solemnidad de hoy proclama una dimensión esencial de nuestra vida: el misterio. La experiencia cristiana es una experiencia espiritual, en la que los sentidos no están desactivados, sino transfigurados por el Espíritu, equipados para soportar el "tremendo" viaje que es el misterio.

Ciertamente, la revelación nos llega a través de los sentidos. Pero entonces los sentidos deben ser purificados, trascendidos, para poder penetrar en el misterio que es Dios. A partir de lo que es verdadero, evidente, afrontamos el viaje hacia lo que está velado, oculto, fuera de nuestro alcance.

La revelación no pretende explicarnos a Dios, sino ponernos en contacto con su misterio. Y la cercanía en sí misma no hace que Dios esté a nuestro alcance. Dios, ciertamente, no está lejos. Pero Dios está oculto.

Dios para nosotros
La liturgia de hoy nos ofrece algunas "pistas" que apuntan a la riqueza del misterio de Dios y nos permiten obtener la luz divina y el alimento celestial para una existencia eterna.

La primera lectura de hoy, tomada del libro del Deuteronomio, nos permite recorrer el camino hecho por Israel: llegar a Dios mediante la lectura de la historia de la revelación, que documenta precisamente lo que Dios hace por su pueblo. Él se revela poniéndonos delante reivindicaciones precisas, acciones concretas, testimonios inequívocos de su amor paternal.
Nos gustaría saber quién es Dios. Pero Él, en cambio, se da a conocer a través de cómo se hace cargo de nosotros. El Dios para nosotros es el único rostro del misterio que se nos permite ver. Dios, en cierto sentido, deja caer una parte de su misterio, revelándose a través de nuestra dependencia de su gracia.

Dios-en-nosotros
El Dios para nosotros es también el Dios en nosotros, como enseña San Pablo en la segunda lectura de hoy. El mismo Dios que guía a su pueblo a lo largo de la historia se ha instalado en el corazón del hombre. Y es el Espíritu Santo quien destruye nuestro pasado de esclavos, pecadores, rotos y necesitados, y nos revela un secreto que debería embargarnos de alegría: somos hijos y herederos y podemos llamar a Dios "Abba, Padre". De este modo, nos encontramos ante otra paradoja del misterio de hoy: la revelación de lo que somos y lo que seremos.

Dios-con-nosotros
El Evangelio de hoy nos permite intuir otra dimensión del misterio trinitario: el Dios-con-nosotros. San Mateo parece ignorar la ascensión. Jesús, en su perspectiva, no ha dejado la tierra para llegar al cielo. Más que de la partida, Mateo insiste en hablar de la presencia de Cristo en medio de nosotros. "Yo estoy con vosotros todos los días, hasta el fin del mundo". Y con esa afirmación termina su evangelio.

Y con este consuelo, Cristo envía a sus apóstoles a convertir a los pueblos y a bautizarlos en el nombre del Dios Trino. Mediante esta tarea misionera y evangelizadora, la Iglesia debe experimentar y manifestar precisamente el Dios-con-nosotros.

Y con ello indica que el misterio trinitario no es una realidad estética, sino dinámica. En efecto, hay un Dios que actúa por nosotros. Un Espíritu Santo que nos guía hacia el Padre. Y Cristo que confía su mensaje tras las huellas de sus apóstoles y discípulos de todos los tiempos.

Queridos hermanos y hermanas, el misterio trinitario no es una realidad que se limita al cielo. El Dios-para-nosotros, el Dios-en-nosotros y el Dios-con-nosotros nos toca de cerca, se entrelaza con nuestra existencia cotidiana, conduciendo hacia un hogar con Dios en el cielo para siempre. El misterio del Dios Trino nos hace vivir, ahora y siempre.

Agradecidamente vuestro en Cristo,

Padre Pablo Ybarra, C.S.C.
Párroco
