Reflection

Jesus is the good shepherd. He knows our needs and our limitations. He knows what path we're on and what path will take us where we should go. He knows each of us by name and treats us with gentleness and patience. All we need to do is to trust him and follow where he leads.

Reflection

In the Gospel of this Sunday, Jesus says to the disciples "I am the Good Shepherd; I lay down my life for the sheep." In this message, the Lord assures the sheep of his protection against dangerous enemies. There are many voices of these predators. For this reason, the Lord recommends the sheep to listen and respond to his voice alone. The Chief Shepherd continues to feed, heal, and seek out other sheep that do not belong to his fold through the Church. The Divine voice is to bring people into one flock, under one Shepherd. For the Church to succeed in this mission, she calls us to live true to our vocations as good shepherd. This explains that to live a faithful life as married, single or religious will serve to lead many people to Jesus. To be a good shepherd, one should put the interests of the sheep before his or her own interest. There are challenges in vocations, and in some extreme cases good shepherds are persecuted, misunderstood, hated, or killed. In all such hardships, the Chief Shepherd is always close to his faithful followers. On this day, let us remember to pray especially for vocations to the Priesthood and Consecrated Life in our Church.

Here at St. Colman, we will continue to follow the Diocese of Cleveland guidelines which are in direct compliance with State and Local regulations. Therefore, we will remain wearing masks at all times when in the church. We will sanitize our hands as frequently as possible. And we will continue our social distancing within the church.

We are doing a great job as a community! Together we have made remarkable changes that have led to lesser hospitalized cases of COVID-19 as well as quicker recoveries. We continue to pray for all, so that vaccines may be more readily available to everyone. In Jesus Christ, we are one body.
