Ave Maria, Regina Angelorum! Hail Mary, Queen of Angels!

This week - on Tuesday - we celebrate Saint John Paul II, a great contemporary saint who was influential in the Church and society.

Here are just 3 reasons to get to know this saint better:

3. He is an excellent teacher of the faith. His writings show the splendor of the faith and draw us to deeper conversion. He spent years of Wednesday general audiences giving us a beautiful and profound reflection on creation, now known as the Theology of the Body. These teachings are complemented by his book, Love and Responsibility, which I highly recommend. He wrote many great encyclical letters, including Evangelium Vitae on the Sanctity of human life (a great read for this month as we pray for a greater respect for human life,) Redemptor Hominis on Christ the “Redeemer of Man” (his first encyclical,) Veritatis Splendor which gives an excellent treatment of some moral teachings of the Church and shows forth the “Splendor of Truth,” Mulieris Dignitatem on the Dignity of Women (he also wrote a beautiful and well-known Letter to Women in 1995 that is well worth reading,) Dives in Misericordia on the mercy of God, Redemptoris Mater on the Blessed Virgin Mary, and Ecclesia de Eucharistia on the Eucharist - just to name a few really good ones!

2. He had a tremendous devotion to Mary, our patroness. When as a young child he lost his mother, he went to the church and asked Mary to be his mother. His entire life was consecrated to Jesus through her. When he was named a bishop, he took as his episcopal motto: Totus Tuus Maria - “Totally yours, Mary.” (It is a tradition for each bishop to choose a motto for his episcopacy, which gives an excellent treatment of some moral teachings of the Church and shows forth the “Splendor of Truth,” or Veritatem in Caritate.

1. He’s a Saint! He lives forever in heaven with our Blessed Lord Jesus Christ, worshiping God in praise and adoration with all the other saints and angels. Through our baptism, we are united to the entire body of Christ - those in heaven as well as the poor souls in purgatory and all Christians throughout the world. We pray to the saints as our brothers and sisters who already share in heavenly glory, that through their prayers we gain grace to lead holy lives and gain with them a place of eternal splendor.

Saint John Paul II, pray for us!

Have a great week!

~Fr. Zak

Your generous spirit in this ministry can truly be measured by our school families, parishioners and guests.
