Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

The mystery of the Incarnation is one that is complex. It's a mystery how any divine being would want to become human. Further, how can someone be fully human and fully divine? In God, nothing is impossible. We cannot fully comprehend the mystery, but we can still enter into it.

Even if we cannot answer the question, it still happened, God took on human flesh and entered the world as a child and grew to walk among us. Yet, within Jesus, is the revelation of who God is, what God wants, and a visible manifestation of God's desire for humanity. Jesus came in time to share God's favor to humanity, bringing tidings of good news to all people, beginning with the poor and humble.

Through his incarnation and by the way he lived, the way he died, and in the way he rose from the dead Christ modeled for us how we should be human and provided the way for us to return to the father.

In this Celebration of Christmas, this is one small installment in the greatest story ever told, and God's plan for our salvation taking his first steps. Perhaps these lyrics of O Little Town of Bethlehem sum it up:

“Yet in thy dark streets shineth, the everlasting light
The hopes and fears of all the years are met in thee tonight.”

In this celebration of Christmas, we come to receive this great gift of God's love for us. Our response, then is to make Christ incarnate to the world through our lives.

Let us reflect on this great moment: that the simplicity of his birth be honored, that his humility be exalted, and his poverty be embraced in the poor among us. Let us open our hearts to be transformed into a new Bethlehem that we may make Christ present in our flesh by our love and through our charity.

Adored and Loved be Jesus,

Rev. Jason Nesbit, C.S.V.
