From the Deacon’s Desk:

A time for going inward.
The change in the weather and our days are so dramatic as we move from August into September. Every year, friends and family notice during the Shawano County Fair (some call it the “world’s fair”), we get one of those nights where you truly feel the chill that makes it clear that summer is ending.
The days becoming shorter and darkness coming so much earlier than even just a few weeks ago. We start to think more about the warmth of a comfortable couch and a blanket than the busyness of our summer outdoor activities.

This time of transition in the seasons also is marked by some members of our parish family leaving for college and for students and teachers to come back into the classroom.

We have this sense of safety and comfort when we are inside, and we may find this to be a time when we might become a bit more reflective as we realize there is less of the year left than more of it.

This transition time between Summer and Winter; Fall is one of the most beautiful times in northern Wisconsin. This time in the Church calendar is also a time to maybe “go inside” a bit more as we transition towards the last part of the Liturgical calendar.

Let the shorter days and cooler nights be a time to look within ourselves, to reflect on how we might, through prayer, find a deeper humility and generosity toward others.

Deacon James Lonick
