New! Adult Faith Formation Quads

This year OLQH will be doing things a little differently when it comes to Adult Faith Formation. We are turning towards creating small groups rather than large groups. A quad is a group of four people who journey together as disciples through weekly gatherings of fellowship, ongoing conversion, and learning. This 12-month path of accompaniment fosters growth through prayer, accountability, and authentic relationships. Each quad, with the help of the Director of Religious Education, chooses the topic they wish to study. If you are interested in joining a quad, please contact Rebecca at rzalar@our-lady.org or 715-423-125. Quads will officially begin in September.

Source & Summit is a collection of talks offered by the Augustine Institute that opens the door to understanding Vatican II's teaching regarding the source and summit of our Christian faith: the Eucharist. Each lecture reveals how the Eucharist is present throughout Scripture. With informative presentations led by Dr. Brant Pitre, Dr. Tim Gray, and Dr. Mary Healy, this series is an excellent tool for your parish's continued Eucharistic revival efforts.

Greetings from the Social Justice Committee:

Share your harvest: There is a small cart in the gathering area where you can share your produce. If you have extra, leave it, and if you can use it, please take it. It is one small way we can take care of each other.

Coat Collection: From mid-September to mid-October, we will be collecting gently used coats for the community. This can be men's, women's or children's coats. There should be no rips or holes, and the buttons and zippers should work so the coat can be closed. Please leave them in the bins near the entrances, and we will distribute them around the community. Thank you.

PASTORAL THOUGHTS...

God doesn't want slaves; He wants friends. He wants companions, and we all know how to be friends. We spend time with people who are our friends. We have common interests, and we pursue their good. That's what a friend does. That's what someone does who loves, and it's the same with the Lord. He has a plan for each of our lives, which will make us happy. That plan will actually bring us peace, fulfillment and joy. He doesn't want to force anyone to be his friend, but when you come to know Him not being His friend is well beyond absurd.

The fundamental thing for any of us, and all of us, is to press into the truth that this one, this Risen One, is Lord and the only authentic response to His awesomeness is to lay our lives at His feet and simply say, as Samuel said, "Speak, Lord, your servant is listening." We think we know better than God what is good for us. Unsurprisingly, He knows quite a bit better than we do. The arrogance of that thought is, of course, laughable in retrospect. But at the time, you really think you're in charge and don't realize that real freedom arrives when you allow Him to be in charge, when you realize you were made for Him, and will find real freedom in only Him.

I think there's a lot more idolatry around than people realize, and what I mean by that is, we make gods of things that are just not worthy of our dignity as sons and daughters of the living God. There are die-hard fans of the University of Michigan, and I'm sure it's the same in Wisconsin. People are deeply devoted to their teams, almost to the point of it being like a religion. It's important not to diminish anyone's enthusiasm, but no matter how great something may be, it can't replace God. I've heard many people say things like, "I have to take my kids to hockey on Sunday, so we can't go to church," or "I find my peace on the golf course, so I don't need to worship in the way God desires." These things like sports, wealth, and power may be good, but they're not the ultimate good. Our lives will be unfulfilled, and disordered if they're not subordinate to the ultimate good. We won't be free from anxiety, and we won't find true fulfillment. We were made for God. When we use ourselves for a purpose other than why we were made, things go awry. You can use a tea cup for a hammer but you won't long be drinking tea out of that shattered pottery.

Listen to this from 1 John 4:4: "You belong to God, children, and you have conquered them, for the one who is in you is greater than the one who is in the world." Think about that! The one who is in you, personally, is greater than the one who is in the world. That should blow us away. It captures the thought that we are in the embrace of the Father. We spend much time trying to live as if we can be happy without God, but it's a lie. It's a lie! We were made for God! God made us for Himself, and that's where we find our fulfillment. The critical thing is to be docile to the Father's plan and allow the Holy Spirit to remake us in the image and likeness of Christ. And so that's the major goal: my desire to make known God's plan for the Diocese of La Crosse and the men and women within it. This is not a new idea—it is what the Church teaches. But I think that's been obscured over the last decades for multiple and far more significant reasons than most superficial analyses allow.

We're in a battle here, and the battle is epic. It's cosmic. And it is very much between Heaven and Hell. And there's no battle here, in point of fact, except the truth for our hearts. And I want us, as the Diocese of La Crosse, not only not to be afraid but to be aware that we're in a battle and to realize that we're gambling for the entire prize. The victory is assured, but we have to, as my old rector, Archbishop Allen Vigneron of Detroit used to say, run out the clock with dignity. We don't have to worry because the power in us is greater than the power in the world. It's Jesus. It's the Father coming and making His dwelling in us. He can do amazing things, and we can do amazing things through Him, in Him who strengthens us.

+Bishop Gerard W. Battersby, Bishop of La Crosse
