Order of Christian Initiation for Adults

As we get closer to celebrating the Baptism of the Lord, let us recall our own Baptism. We have all received the call to go and baptize all nations. Pray for those who are considering if they, too, are ready to renounce Satan and all his works and empty promises. If there is someone you think would like to explore Baptism in the Catholic faith, ask him or her to contact Rebecca at reoffice@our-lady.org.

PASTORAL THOUGHTS...

The Feast of the Presentation is a familiar feast to many of us: it is the fifth joyful mystery of the Rosary and our gospel passage today is a familiar one, often depicted in art and stained-glass windows. The action of today's feast is simple: Joseph and Mary take the young Jesus to the temple to present him since he was the first-born son and offer the sacrifice of a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons. Every Jewish family at the time would have done this same action with their first-born son.

Simeon (whose name means "God has heard") was promised to not die before he was able to see the Christ—the Messiah who came to save all people. His prophecy was specific: he recognized who Jesus was and who he was to become and gave the news of Jesus' destiny to his parents. Both Mary and Joseph were amazed to hear not only of the child's destiny but that Mary herself would experience great anguish and pain. Simeon both proclaims that Jesus is the Messiah—the light and glory of all people—and that Mary's heart will be pierced in anguish and grief.

Simeon's great canticle, the Nunc Dimittis, is prayed each night during the Liturgy of the Hours at the office of Night Prayer: Now, Master, you may let your servant go in peace, for my eyes have seen your salvation. Every person who prays the Liturgy of the Hours says these words before going to sleep each night, as a reminder that each day we have seen the Lord and He has brought us salvation. In many Lutheran Churches, this prayer is sung after receiving communion, and while Lutheran communion is not the true body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, it nonetheless forms a good post-communion reflection. Simeon's prophecy teaches us who Jesus is, what He came to do, and finally to prepare for his coming at the end of time. This Sunday's first reading from the Book of Malachi offers us encouragement to prepare for Christ's coming: Prepare! Become repentant! Be compassionate! Prepare for the Lord's coming!

The sixth-century bishop of Jerusalem, Saint Sophronius, encourages us: Let us be shining ourselves as we go together to meet and to receive with the aged Simeon the light whose brilliance is eternal. Rejoicing with Simeon, let us sing a hymn of thanksgiving to God, the Father of the light, who sent the true light to dispel the darkness and to us all a share in His splendor.

Our Lady Queen of Heaven Patrons, Thank you for all of your support towards the Community Elves Program! We are truly blessed to have sponsors such as yourselves. You have created holiday magic for many children in our community. It is inspiring to see your church community come together for the whole community. You not only provide gifts for children, but winter jackets and hats to keep them warm too. Your caring hearts and hands spread joy and safety—Thank You!. Ariel Hildebrandt –Head Elf
