THE 10AM LIVE STREAM MASS

For the past year and a half, we have been live streaming our 10 am Sunday Mass. This was essential during the early days of the pandemic when we were all on lockdown and no one was allowed in church. Even as things slowly started to re-open and we were limited in the number of people who could attend Mass in person, the live stream still served an important purpose. We would routinely have anywhere from 75–150 people watching the Mass live or viewing the Mass later on their own.

However, as people have become vaccinated and we have scaled back restrictions in the church, we have seen our in-person Mass attendance return to near pre-pandemic levels. As a result, we have also noticed a simultaneous decline in our live stream viewership. For the past month, our viewership has been in the low teens to single digits. That's a good thing! We are glad that more people are attending Mass in person.

But the decline in live stream viewers has made us question whether or not it is worthwhile to continue streaming our 10 am Mass. After much deliberation, we have decided that we will continue to live stream the Mass as it does allow homebound parishioners the opportunity to attend Mass. And it has allowed parishioners who have moved away the opportunity to stay connected to St. Josaphat. It has also allowed us the opportunity to connect with people who have found our community online and have found a spiritual home at St. Josaphat. Some of these people have joined us for Alpha, Bible studies and other online activities.

As the old saying goes, “when God closes a door, he opens a window.” Covid might have reduced our ability to attend Mass in person for a brief period of time, but it has also opened up new opportunities to connect with people and spread the Gospel.

However, in light of the reduced viewership, we will be scaling back some of the features of our live stream Mass. Currently, we have been paying a company to set up the live stream, manage the camera for us and add in some other technical abilities. But given the low number of people engaging the Mass online, we can't justify that continued expense. So we will be returning to a simpler form of live streaming. It will be one steady shot for the entire Mass, without any adjusting of the camera angles and no frills. We won't need to pay anyone to monitor the camera. We can just turn it on and hit start. Our simplified live stream Mass will begin the weekend of August 8th.

For those who would like to watch a more professionally done presentation of a live stream Mass, I would encourage you to watch Cardinal Cupich's Sunday Mass from Holy Name Cathedral. It can be watched on ABC channel 7 at 9:30 am or from the Holy Name Cathedral YouTube page.

I would like to thank everyone that has had a hand in producing our live stream Mass. In the early days of production we had our teen office workers managing the cameras. I would especially like to thank Annika Swanson, Morgan Cain and Grace Collins. And I would like to thank Forge Productions for helping us improve the image and especially the sound quality of our live stream Mass for the past 6 months.

And thank you to all of the parishioners who joined us online for Mass during the pandemic. It was always great watching people in the comments section typing hello to each other and offering each other the Sign of Peace. It made the Mass feel like a true community celebration even when we couldn't be together. And I know it was helpful for many of you to maintain that connection to the parish and to each other.

As I said, we will continue to livestream our 10 am Mass and special liturgical celebrations into the foreseeable future. But I do look forward to seeing more and more of you in person as we move out of the pandemic and return to our normal Sunday Mass celebrations.

God Bless,

Fr. Francis

SCRIPTURE REFLECTIONS

AUGUST 1, 2021

It might surprise you when I tell you that I like bread. (Okay, look at me... maybe it's not so much a surprise.) With a few exceptions, a meal for me is not complete without it. I give some Asian meals a pass with one caveat—there's got to be some rice or some carbs there somewhere. Bread is what holds a meal together for me. There is nothing more heavenly (word intentionally used) than freshly baked bread, with its scent and feel as well as its taste, on the table with fresh butter or as a pizza or to wrap my fajitas in, or to soak up the gravy from a pot roast, or stuffed in a turkey, or to cover a hot dog Chicago-style, or pressed around prosciutto, genoa salami, sopressata, mortadella and some pickled peppers into a simple (?) sandwich. In the form of loaves, slices, sticks, pitas, tortillas, naan, made from wheat, rye or any of a number of other grains alone or combined, it not only sustains us but embraces all who are sharing it with us. The style of bread we eat and how it is served often reflects our heritage and traditions. Living in Chicago affords us almost endless opportunities to eat it in various forms, shapes, styles and tastes.

I am making myself hungry. So I better get to the point I'm trying to make. Today's scripture speaks of the bread from heaven that saved and then sustained the Chosen People in the desert. John tells us that people pursued Jesus, asking for the bread with which he fed the multitude in last week's gospel. Jesus lets them know that he is the bread of life. What that would come to mean more fully would be described in the account of the Last Supper when Jesus prays, "Take and eat of this for this is my body," before he makes the ultimate sacrifice of Good Friday and is victorious on Easter Sunday. Paul tells the Ephesians to put away their old ways and gather around the table of the Lord where we will all be fed and renewed.

When we gather to share the Eucharist at Mass, we are fed and so are empowered to take that presence of Jesus that feeds us to whomever is in need. Each of us will carry that bread of life colored by our own experiences. We bring our own faith, our histories, our struggles, our dreams, our doubts, our blessings which we shared at the altar in the Eucharist to those who hunger spiritually, emotionally or spiritually. We feed them with what we have been fed. And we always can and should come back for more. Pass the bread. "Body of Christ... Amen."

— Rev. Dominic Grassi

AUGUST 8, 2021

The song makes me quake inside even now. The first time I heard it, I was at a large conference. Still young in faith, I sang the chorus with my whole being as several thousand people processed toward the altar, "And I will raise you up, and I will raise you up, and I will raise you up on the last day." My ribcage swelled with elation. My mind floated into grandeur. My heart burned with the promise of eternal life. There was nothing so rich as the Bread of Life, here, present among us.

Strengthened by that food, I have walked for the forty years that have followed.

The song goes on: "You who come to me shall not hunger; you who believe in me shall not thirst." The internal quavering starts again: the vision so rich, the reality so imperfect. I want not to thirst. I want not to be hungry.

But I thirst. I hunger. That chasm between what could be and what is, that ache, that yearning for something more, trembles within me.

I walk down the steps. My thumb and forefinger dip into the ciborium, select a small round host and hold it up to the first young man in line: "The Body of Christ." People come forward in a stream. Hands extend in front of me: rough hands, manicured hands, flat hands, young hands, shrunken hands, eager hands.

"The Bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world," sings the congregation. Do we recognize the magnitude of what we are doing here? No? A little bit? I shiver again as we sing, "Yes, Lord, I believe, that you are the Christ..." And they keep coming. Palms unfolded, reaching for the Bread of Life, murmuring "Amen," "Amen," "Amen," to the grandeur in our midst.

— Dr. Karla J. Bellinger, "Living the Word"

2021 MISSIONARY COOPERATION PLAN

The weekend of August 7–8, the Archdiocese collects for over 104 Missionary communities around the world, to support their wonderful work of improving living conditions and sharing Jesus with those in need. Since missionaries are not able to visit us in person to talk about their work due to the global pandemic, we want to share information with you about just three of these groups:

ARCHDIOCESE OF CHICAGO

CONGREGATION OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

San Juan de la Maguana, Dominican Republic

Established a job training school: St. Michael the Archangel Technical Professional School offers courses in computer data processing, word processing, sewing, beauty salon training and baking. It is now one of the top three professional training schools in the Dominican Republic, and the only one that does not charge tuition.

FOUNDATION FOR CHILDREN IN NEED

interior villages of Southern India

Built several schools, boarding homes, a community health center and a home for the elderly. Provide free medical check-ups and medicine, as well as health education classes for teenage girls.

SISTERS OF ST. FRANCIS

Cuernavaca, Mexico

Dealing with widespread poverty, where children as young as five years old might have to sell gum or trinkets so they can have food for the day. The sisters provide pastoral care, prison ministry, emergency services and health care, as well as various forms of assistance to families—from a meal to a pair of shoes to a small interest-free loan. They also offer educational support and mentoring to children.

The local churches in these regions cannot support these ministries by themselves. So, if you are able, please donate! Each donation will be distributed evenly to all 104 participating mission causes.

Three ways to give:

- Text MISSION to 312-625-5666
- Put cash or a check (payable to St. Josaphat) in the collection basket during our 2nd collection on August 7–8
- Give online at www.WeAreMissionary.org/give
