4th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

“Today this Scripture passage is fulfilled in your hearing.” - Luke 4:21

Vision Statement: “To offer every person in our community a life-changing encounter with Jesus.”

POPE FRANCIS

The Lovers, the Dreamers, and Me

Pope Francis has [often] spoken about the love of God.

But he has not spoken of a generic love for human beings, nor of theological concepts regarding divine love, but rather of God's love for each one of us, of His love for me, in this moment.

The Pope repeats this continually: God seeks you, precisely you! God always precedes you, always arrives first. And

He waits for you like the father of the Prodigal Son, and He embraces you in whatever situation you are in, as you are, full of limitations, in your sin.

It is a total love, a gratuitous love, one that fills your heart and relaunches you in life, and that no one can give to you except God. And the thought of a God so in love with you moves your heart, because you cannot imagine a love so great and so beautiful for you! Only by means of this experience of mercy do you begin to love yourself and to realize that, even in your littleness, you too can embrace the people around you in a new way, renewed by His loving presence.

Certainly you can always choose to believe or not to believe this, in this chance even if only glimpsed for an instant that presents itself to you and knocks on the door of your heart, because love does not impose itself, never obliges the other to say "yes."

But if you are already full from all that you do and or all that you have in life, and you do not look inside to see that need for the infinite that is inscribed in your heart, only with difficulty will you be able to see and to find something other than yourself. You will have already decided what is better for you, and eliminated the category of everything that does not depend on your own hands and your own will.

But, precisely in the most diverse circumstances that occur in life — certainly not by chance! — one receives the grace to verify that, if one begins to yield to His initiative and leaves space for "something Other" that one was seeking beneath all things and all relationships, one begins to sense that Christ corresponds to the infinite longing of one's own heart and renders all of life greater and more beautiful. If one allows oneself to be surprised and does not close the doors of one's heart, like an infant in the arms of its mother, one may begin to utter a timid "yes" before that newness of life one has glimpsed, and precisely on this timid "yes" the Lord begins to build.

We are the "dream of God" who, truly in love, wants to change our life. Through love. He only asks us to have faith to let Him do so. And thus we can only cry for joy before a God who re-creates us, says Pope Francis .

In a passage from Isaiah (65:17-21), the Lord tells us that He creates new heavens and a new earth, that is, "He re-creates things," Francis explains, also recalling that "we have spoken many times of these 'two creations' of God: the first, which was done in six days, and the second, when the Lord 're-makes' the world, destroyed by sin, in Jesus Christ." And, he emphasized, "we have said so many times that this second is more marvelous than the first." Indeed, the pontiff explains, "the first is already a marvelous creation; but the second, in Christ, is even more marvelous."

In his meditation, however, Francis pauses "on another aspect," beginning from the passage of Isaiah in which "the Lord speaks about what He is going to make: a new heaven, a new earth." And "we find that the Lord has much enthusiasm: He speaks of joy and says a word: 'I will rejoice in my people.'" Essentially, "the Lord thinks about what He is going to do, He thinks that He, He Himself will rejoice with his people." Thus, "it is as if it were a 'dream' of the Lord, as if the Lord 'were dreaming' of us: how beautiful it will be when we are all together."

Before I formed you in the womb
I knew you,
Before you were born
I dedicated you.
- Jeremiah 1:5 -

Further clarifying his rationale, Francis returns to "a metaphor that can help us understand: it is as if a young woman with her boyfriend, or a young man with his girlfriend, were to think: 'When we are together, when we get married...'" Thus, "God's 'dream': God thinks about each one of us, loves us, dreams of us, dreams of the joy that He will rejoice with us." And this is why "the Lord wants to 're-create us,' to make our hearts new, to 're-create' our heart in order to make joy triumph."

All this led the Pope to ask a few questions: "Have you ever thought: the Lord dreams about me? He thinks about me? I am in the mind, in the heart of the Lord? The Lord is capable of changing my life?" Isaiah also tells us, Francis adds, that the Lord "makes many plans: 'We will build houses, plant vineyards, and eat together': all those plans typical of one in love." After all, "the Lord shows Himself enamored of His people," even going so far as to say, "I did Continued on Last Page

GOSPEL MEDITATION THE POWER OF GOD AT WORK

St. Oscar Romero (1917-1980) was a "Salvadoran Roman Catholic archbishop who was a vocal critic of the violent activities of government armed forces, right-wing groups, and leftist guerrillas involved in El Salvador's civil conflict (Encyclopedia Britannica)." As a voice of the voiceless, he was an outspoken champion of the poor who were the ones most affected by the civil unrest and violence. His advocacy provoked several attempts on his life. Nonetheless, St.

Oscar Romero was convinced that before all else his faith in the resurrected Christ and the values of the Gospel trumped any earthly concern or worry. He walked with complete confidence and trust. On March 24, 1980, St. Oscar Romero was assassinated while celebrating Mass. Such is often the fate of those who challenge the socio-political agendas of the day.

We may look at the example of witness of St. Oscar Romero as something extraordinary. In one sense it is. Through the power of God, an ordinary human being did extraordinary things. But, in and of himself, St. Oscar Romero was simply a humble, loving servant of God. Oscar knew not only the power of love but the risk that comes when loving unconditionally. The beauty of God's message was able to shine in and through him because he was able to step out of the way and be a vessel. One can assume that for St. Oscar Romero, one's earthly life has no merit when faith, integrity, conviction, zeal and love are jettisoned. Fear and apprehension had no grip on this man who not only saw but spoke the truth.

Do we speak the truth? It makes us feel good to speak of God as love. But have we ever considered the ramifications of this radical message? There are assaults on human life occurring daily. More and more the value and worth of a human being is being reduced and minimized. We are becoming widgets in the production of life. In our whole simple humble ways, we too are called to be prophets. Knowing who you are and what is within your means to do, how can you make God's love real, stand up for what is right, and give witness to the sacredness of all that is around you? —LPI not choose you because you are the strongest, the biggest, the most powerful; but I chose you because you are the least of all." Moreover, "it could be said: the poorest of all. I chose you like this, and this is love."

The Pope indicates that "this will of the Lord continues, this desire of His to change our life. And we are able to say, if we hear this invitation of the Lord: 'You have changed my mourning into dancing,' which are the words that we prayed in Psalm 29. 'I will praise you, Lord, you have rescued me,' the Psalm also says, thereby acknowledging that the Lord is capable of changing us through love: He is in love with us."

"I don't believe any theologian can explain this: it cannot be explained," Francis remarks. Because this is something "we can only reflect on, feel and cry for joy: the Lord can change us." He then asks spontaneously: What do I have to do? The answer is simple: "Believe. Believe that the Lord can change me, that He can."

Faith, Francis explains "is giving space to this love of God; it is making room for the power, for the power of God, for the power of One who loves me, who is in love with me and who wants this joy with me. This is faith. This is believing: it is making room for the Lord to come and change me."

Truly, Francis says "the Lord can change us, He wants to change us, He loves to change us. And this, through love." And He only asks us for "our faith: in other words, to give space to His love so it may act and bring about a change of life in us."
