Gospel Reflections... Reflect on your life

For all that we are living in the present moment, we can become overly stressed. The overwhelming situations that derive from work, family care, health, can generate very strong negative emotions. These are the challenges of the times that we live in, and that we have to face in order to live a happy life.

In these times of pandemic it is necessary to stop along the way and take some time to calmly reflect on the following aspects in order to strengthen ourselves for the time to come. For example, think about the following challenges faced with courage:

1. Memories of good deeds: What actions do you remember from the past year that fill you with joy, and that surely have pleased God?
2. Lessons learned: what mistakes did you make and that you later regretted and said: I shouldn't do this anymore, this was the wrong way to solve my problems?
3. Victories won: How many times did you say "no", which cost you a lot, and in the end this brought you a lot of happiness? How many times did you say yes, and now you are so glad you said it?

In your struggles against temptations, how many times did you say: this is a "peccadillo", it doesn't matter much, and so you fell into temptation? For example, you called "peccadillo" to bad temper, negative criticism, irritability, complaining, lack of love, hurtful words, gossip, envy, jealousy, bad thoughts, excessive worries, anxiety, etc.?

And then you fell for it, and then you repented with all your soul, and you have not known how to get out of that embarrassing situation, which has filled you with shame.

Fr. Sergio
