THE CHURCH'S TEACHING ON SUICIDE

Many of us have heard that suicide rates are increasing rapidly. The Church's teaching on suicide has evolved over the centuries. Insights into the workings of the human mind along with the great distresses of modern civilization have allowed the Church to more open to both the justice of God as well as the abundant mercy of God.

Below are the pertinent paragraphs from the Catechism of the Catholic Church. Please note paragraphs 2280 and 2281 reflect the traditional teachings on the justice of God, but paragraphs 2282 and 2283 reflect a more nuanced understanding of the Divine Mercy of God.

2280 Everyone is responsible for his life before God who has given it to him. It is God who remains the sovereign Master of life. We are obliged to accept life gratefully and preserve it for his honor and the salvation of our souls. We are stewards, not owners, of the life God has entrusted to us. It is not ours to dispose of.

2281 Suicide contradicts the natural inclination of the human being to preserve and perpetuate his life. It is gravely contrary to the just love of self. It likewise offends love of neighbor because it unjustly breaks the ties of solidarity with family, nation, and other human societies to which we continue to have obligations. Suicide is contrary to love for the living God.

2282 If suicide is committed with the intention of setting an example, especially to the young, it also takes on the gravity of scandal. Voluntary co-operation in suicide is contrary to the moral law.

Grave psychological disturbances, anguish, or grave fear of hardship, suffering, or torture can diminish the responsibility of the one committing suicide.

2283 We should not despair of the eternal salvation of persons who have taken their own lives. By ways known to Him alone, God can provide the opportunity for salutary repentance. The Church prays for persons who have taken their own lives.
