Our Second Reading this weekend is from St. Paul to the community at Corinth. Corinth was very diverse and being a large, commercial town, experienced the difficulties of blending this diversity into a cohesive community. The problem is nothing new. We face the same challenges in our own parishes and larger community. How do so many people with differing ideologies come together and form a singular identity?

The advice and wisdom of St. Paul is very practical. From the start, he acknowledges the differences that exist. His concerns were not for the social or physical differences but rather for the spiritual. As he pointed out in Galatians 3:28, he was not concerned about gender, nationality or social status. He was solely focused on the spiritual unity of the Church. He makes his case this weekend that our oneness, our unity, evolves from the fact that we are all guided by the same Spirit.

This raises two important points for us today. First, we have to acknowledge that we are made up of individuals who have unique talents and gifts. We come from a variety of social backgrounds and ethnic origins. Our political and philosophical views cover the entire spectrum from conservative to liberal. Some have a very casual attitude toward religion and others adhere to their practices stringently. Our people are also at varying stages in their lives. We have parents with young children and parents whose children have moved out. We have people with demanding careers and people who have retired. Some are quite healthy, and others are dealing with serious health issues. I could go on, but I think you see my point. So, the first action required is tolerance. As we acknowledge these differences we should do so in a non-judgmental way. Instead, we should look at how these differences help to make our community a fuller, richer place to experience God at work among us.

The second point is to examine what our own gifts are. This is a tough step for many people. To honestly evaluate who we are and what we can truly do takes some time and prayer. Don't worry, it isn't bragging. Just being able to recognize what your gift is can be a first step in contributing to the richness of our community life. Remember, St. Paul is very clear that there are many spiritual gifts. These gifts are not the same for every person. So, what are yours?

After recognizing the various gifts in our community and identifying your own, we come to the final question. What are you doing with it? How do you use your gift? To receive a gift and then not use it is a sign of ungratefulness. God gave you your particular gifts to be used. By acknowledging that we are all led by the same Spirit and by using the varying gifts we possess, we form a singular response to God of our gratitude. We really do become One Church.

God bless,
Deacon Dave

GOSPEL MEDITATION

ENCOURAGE DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

God delights in you. How do you feel when you hear that? Delight usually comes with an exuberant flow of joy that seemingly arises from one's toes with the expression of great glee. Reflecting upon the deep measure of joy God has in us can be a source of joy for ourselves. Delight is infectious. A very young brother and sister were playing on the beach when the all too familiar ice cream truck made its daily rounds. The boy shook with excitement and delight as he took his sister's hand and exclaimed, “The ice cream man is here, isn't it great!” As they ran off toward the truck, one could hear the girl reply, “Yeah, I can't wait!” The experience of a child's delight in something so simple as ice cream, lifts our spirits from our burdens and transports us to the lighter, more innocent side of life.

Life is not meant to be a burden. Believe it or not, God actually wants us to be happy! In fact, the wedding feast at Cana shows us that God even puts His blessing on our happiness. It is okay to celebrate the wonder of ourselves and others. Life is good. It is always interesting to note that Jesus saves the good wine until last. You would think it would be the other way around. The superb quality of Jesus' wine points to the superior quality of life we find in Christ. It is not a life of burdens but a life of wonder and delight!

In Christ, we are lifted from the superficial and mundane to a life of purpose, hope, and love. God is with us through the long haul, through the challenges and sorrows as well as the successes and accomplishments. In spite of the fact that we often wander from the path, God's celebratory delight in us remains. As spouses are asked to remain faithful to each other through whatever life brings, God remains faithful too. This promise remains through this life and into the next. All we have to do is take the advice of Jesus' mother to heart when she says, “Listen to him.” This wisdom saves us from foolishly giving in to the illusion that we can make better wine than Jesus.
