A NOTE FROM OUR PASTOR

We all have our favorite Christmas songs, but not all Christmas classics have a history in the way that “The Twelve Days of Christmas” does. You’ve probably heard the song. It’s one of the most popular Christmas songs in America, but many people don’t realize that it has Catholic roots!

Though some scholars believe that the song is of French origin, the first printed appearance of the song was in the English children’s book “Mirth Without Mischief”. If you haven’t heard of it, that’s probably because it was published in 1780. It wasn’t until 1909 that British composer Frederic Austin penned the version of the lyrics that we are all familiar with today.

There’s a theory floating around claiming that during a time when Christians were persecuted for worshiping openly, the song was used to secretly convey Christian ideology. The religious wars in sixteenth century England made it dangerous to be Catholic. Many people practiced their faith in secret. As the legend goes, Catholic families courageously developed unique ways to secretly pass the faith onto their children, such as through “The Twelve Days of Christmas.” The well-known song was used to teach children about the Catholic Church. Although the lyrics may sound like nonsense, the song actually contains hidden references.

A partridge is a bird that is known to sacrifice its life for its offspring. This bird represents Jesus, who is willing to give his life for us. The pear tree symbolizes the Cross. Did you know that turtle doves often mate for life? Because of this, they are seen as symbols of love, fidelity, and connection. In “The Twelve Days of Christmas,” the two turtle doves represent the Old and New Testament, which are deeply connected and meaningful. The three French hens signify the three theological virtues: faith, hope, and love (or charity). The four calling birds are the four gospels and/or the four evangelists. The five golden rings are the first five books of the Old Testament. The six geese a-laying are the six days of creation. The seven swans a-swimming are the gifts of the Holy Spirit, and/or the seven sacraments. The eight maids a-milking are the eight beatitudes. The nine ladies dancing are the nine fruits of the Holy Spirit. The ten lords a-leaping are the Ten Commandments. The eleven pipers piping are the eleven faithful apostles. The twelve drummers drumming are the twelve points of doctrine in the Apostle’s Creed.

Want to know another fun fact about “The Twelve Days of Christmas” tune? All those gifts, when added up in 2024 would cost a whopping $ 201,972.66—up from $ 197,071.09 in 2023. And while that might seem intense, you have to remember that the real reason the final number is so eye-popping is because the gifts are cumulative—you give each previous gift again with every subsequent gift, bringing the total number of gifts to 364! To sum up:
Happy Twelve Days of Christmas!

OD NASZEGO PROBOSZCZA

Wszyscy mamy swoje ulubione kolędy, ale nie wszystkie klasyczne utwory bożonarodzeniowe mają historię taką jak „Dwanaście dni Bożego Narodzenia”. Prawdopodobnie słyszeliście ten utwór. To jedna z najpopularniejszych kolęd w Ameryce, ale wiele osób nie zdaje sobie sprawy, że ma ona korzenie katolickie!

Chociaż niektórzy naukowcy uważają, że piosenka ma francuskie pochodzenie, po raz pierwszy pojawiła się w angielskiej książce dla dzieci „Mirth Without Mischief”. Jeśli o niej nie słyszałeś, to prawdopodobnie dlatego, że została opublikowana w 1780 roku. Dopiero w 1909 roku brytyjski kompozytor Frederic Austin napisał wersję tekstu, którą wszyscy znamy do dzisiaj.

Istnieje teoria, że w czasach, gdy chrześcijanie byli prześladowani, utwór „Dwanaście dni Bożego Narodzenia” był używany do tajnego przekazywania ideologii chrześcijańskiej. Wojny religijne w szesnastowiecznej Anglii sprawiły, że bycie katolikiem stało się niebezpieczne. Wiele osób praktykowało swoją wiarę w tajemnicy. Jak głosi legenda, rodziny katolickie opracowały unikalne sposoby, aby potajemnie przekazywać wiarę swoim dzieciom, takie jak „Dwanaście dni Bożego Narodzenia”. Znana piosenka była używana do nauczania dzieci o Kościele katolickim. Chociaż tekst może brzmieć jak bezsens, piosenka w rzeczywistości zawiera ukryte odniesienia.

Kuropatwa to ptak, który jest znany z poświęcenia swojego życia za swoje dzieci. Ten ptak reprezentuje Jezusa, który jest gotów oddać za nas swoje życie. Grusza symbolizuje Krzyż. Czy wiesz, że turkawki często łączą się w pary na całe życie? Z tego powodu są postrzegane jako symbole miłości, wierności i więzi. W „Dwunastu dniach Bożego Narodzenia” dwie turkawki reprezentują Stary i Nowy Testament, które są głęboko powiązane i znaczące. Trzy francuskie kury oznaczają trzy cnoty teologiczne: wiarę, nadzieję i miłość (lub miłosierdzie). Cztery ptaki nawołujące to cztery ewangelie i/lub czterej ewangelści. Pięć złotych pierścieni to pierwsze pięć ksiąg Starożytności. Sześć gęsi składających jaja to sześć dni stworzenia. Siedem pływających łabędzi to dary Ducha Świętego, siedem sakramentów. Osiem dojących dziewcząt to osiem błogosławieństw. Dziewięć tańczących kobiet to dziewięć owoców Ducha Świętego. Dziesięciu skaczących mężczyzn to dziesięć przykazań. Jedenastu grających na dudach to jedenastu wiernych apostołów. Dwunastu bębniarzy to dwanaście punktów doktryny w Składzie Apostolskim.

Chcicie poznać kolejny ciekawy fakt na temat „Dwunastu dni Bożego Narodzenia”? Wszystkie prezenty razem wzięte kosztowałyby Cię w 2024 r. aż 201 972,66 USD (197 071,09 USD w 2023 r.). I chociaż może się to wydawać dziwne, musimy pamiętać, że prawdziwym powodem, dla którego ostateczna liczba jest tak oszałamiająca, jest to, że prezenty się kumulują – każdy poprzedni prezent należy dodać do każdego kolejnego prezentu, co daje całkowitą liczbę prezentów 364! Wesołych dwunastu dni Świąt Bożego Narodzenia!

LITURGICAL ABC

Who Is An Acolyte?

An acolyte is an assistant or follower assisting the celebrant in a religious service or procession. In many Christian denominations, an acolyte is any-one performing ceremonial duties such as lighting altar candles. In others, the term is used for one who has been inducted into a particular liturgical ministry, even when not performing those duties. The ministry of acolyte is an official ministry, while the term is also used in other circumstances.

The word acolyte is derived from the Greek word akolouthos, meaning an attendant, via Late Latin acolythus. In the Eastern Orthodox and Byzantine Rite Eastern Catholic Churches, the nearest equivalent of acolyte is the altar server. At one time there was a rank of minor clergy called the taper-bearer responsible for bearing lights during processions and liturgical entrances. However, this rank has long ago been subsumed by that of the reader and the service for the tonsure of a reader begins with the setting-aside of a taper-bearer.

The functions of an acolyte or taper-bearer are therefore carried out by readers, subdeacons, or by non-tonsured men or boys who are sometimes called “acolytes” informally. Also, the term “altar-boys” is often used to refer to young altar servers. Subdeacons wear their normal vestments consisting of the sticharion and crossed orarion; readers and servers traditionally wear the sticharion alone.

In recent times, however, in many of the North American Greek Orthodox Churches, for the sake of uniformity, readers have been permitted to wear the orarion (the bishop presents the reader, who is to serve on the altar, with the orarion). Readers do not cross the orarion while wearing it, the uncrossed orarion being intended to slightly distinguish a reader from a subdeacon.

Until 1972, the highest of the four minor orders in the Latin Church was that of acolyte. By his motu proprio Ministeria quaedam, Pope Paul VI replaced the term “minor orders” by that of “ministries” and the term “ordination” by “institution”. He kept throughout the Latin Church two now-titled instituted ministries, those of reader and acolyte. The two instituted ministries are not reserved solely for candidates for holy orders. Ministries are conferred by the ordinary: either a bishop or the head of a similar territory or, in the case of clerical religious institutes, a major superior. Institutions of acolytes not preparing for holy orders are in fact sometimes carried out.

The motu proprio assigned to the instituted acolyte the functions previously reserved for the subdeacon, and declared national episcopal conferences free to use the term “subdeacon” in place of that of “acolyte”. The functions of the instituted acolyte are specified in the motu proprio: “The acolyte is instituted to serve at the altar and to assist the priest and deacon. In particular, it is his responsibility to prepare the altar and the sacred vessels and, if it is necessary, as an extraordinary minister, to distribute the Eucharist to the faithful.”

LITURGICZNE ABC

Kim jest akolita?

Akolita to asystent lub naśladowca pomagający celebransowi w nabożeństwie religijnym lub procesji. W wielu wyznaniach chrześcijańskich akolita to osoba wykonująca obowiązki ceremonialne, takie jak zapalenie świec ołtarzowych. W innych termin ten jest używany w odniesieniu do osoby, która została wprowadzona do określonej posługi liturgicznej, nawet jeśli nie wykonuje tych obowiązków. Akolitat jest oficjalną posługą, ale termin ten jest również używany w innych okolicznościach.

Słowo akolita pochodzi od greckiego słowa akolouthos, oznaczającego sługę, poprzez późnolacińskie acolythus. W kościołach wschodnich prawosławnych i obrządku bizantyjskiego najbliższym odpowiednikiem akolity jest ministrant. Kiedyś istniał stopień niższego duchowieństwa, odpowiedzialnego za noszenie świec podczas procesji i na wejście. Jednakże funkcja ta została dawno temu podporządkowana funkcji lektora, a nabożeństwo tonsury lektorskiej zaczyna się od wymienienia związku z tamtą posługą.

Funkcje akolity są zatem wykonywane przez lektorów, subdiakonów lub mężczyzn lub chłopców bez tonsury, których czasami nieformalnie nazywa się „akolitami”. Ponadto termin „ministranci” jest często używany w odniesieniu do młodych ministrantów. Subdiakoni noszą swoje zwykle szaty składające się ze sticharionu i skrzyżowanego orarionu; lektorzy i ministranci tradycyjnie noszą tylko sticharion.

W ostatnich czasach jednak w wielu północnoamerykańskich kościołach prawosławnych greckich lektorom zezwolono na noszenie orarionu (biskup wręcza lektorowi, który ma służyć przy ołtarzu, orarion). Lektorzy nie krzyżują orarionu podczas jego noszenia, ponieważ nieskrzyżowany orarion ma nieznacznie odróżniać lektora od subdiakona.

Do 1972 r. najwyższym z czterech niższych święceń w Kościele łacińskim był akolita. W swoim motu proprio Ministeria quaedam papież Paweł VI zastąpił termin „niższe święcenia” terminem „posługi”, a termin „święcenia” terminem „ustanowienie”. Zachował w całym Kościele łacińskim dwie obecnie funkcjonujące posługi: lektora i akolity. Posługi te nie są zarezerwowane wyłącznie dla kandydatów do święceń. Są one ustanawiane przez ordynariusza: albo biskupa, albo zwierzchnika podobnego terytorium, albo w przypadku instytutów zakonnych kleru, wyższego przełożonego. Ustanawianie akolitów, którzy nie przygotowują się do święceń, jest czasami faktycznie realizowane.

Na mocy motu proprio Ministeria quaedam papieża Pawła VI przydzielono akolicie funkcje wcześniej zarezerwowane dla subdiakona i ogłoszono, że krajowe konferencje biskupów mogą używać terminu „subdiakon” zamiast terminu „akolita”. Funkcje akolity zostały określone w motu proprio wyraznie: „Akolita jest ustanowiony, aby służyć przy ołtarzu i pomagać kapłanowi (prezbiterowi) i diakonowi. W szczególności jest jego obowiązkiem przygotowanie ołtarza i naczyń liturgicznych, a jeśli zajdzie taka potrzeba, jako szafarz nadzwyczajny, może rozdawać Eucharystię wiernym.”

A Tragedy Around the Birth of Jesus

On December 28, we celebrate the Martyrdom of the Holy Innocents. In Sacred Scripture there is a reference to this in Matthew 2:16: "When Herod realized that he had been deceived by the Magi, he became furious. He ordered the massacre of all the boys in Bethlehem and its vicinity 2 years old and under, in accordance with the time he had ascertained from the Magi."

Why would I consider this a feast to even write about? After all we are celebrating Christ's birth still. I believe this feast is important because throughout time, children have been massacred whether by religious belief or conflict. Whether it be war, genocide, or forced servitude; in the name of a king or state, war or religious ideology, innocent children are killed unnecessarily. King Herod was the murderer in this case. We could probably deduce that King Herod was awaiting the Magi's report upon their return to him. Since they did not return a very swift and drastic decision after King Herod's realization that he most likely was deceived. He handed down an order to have every child newborn to two-years old in Bethlehem to be put to death, most likely in fear of the protection of his throne. These children are considered the first children to die for Christ. Given that Joseph and Mary were still in the vicinity, they fled to Egypt to protect Jesus from this terrible massacre after Joseph was told to go there in a dream.

This tragedy, though out jealousy and fear, by Herod to protect his throne was an entirely selfish move that should never have happened. On December 28, we should remember those who were sacrificed for Jesus. We should also be praying for those babies who come into this world that they unlike the Holy Innocents live long healthy lives building up the God's Kingdom on Earth. Throughout the world, many traditions surround this feast day. Families often go to church and pray for the health safety and welfare of children everywhere. Some places hold festivals geared toward children for the Holy Innocents are patron saints of Babies.

The Word is God!

Merry Christmas! Most people think of the Christ Child in the manger with Mary, Joseph, shepherds, sheep, and a donkey when they think of Christmas, as they should. This story is beautiful and has been burned into our brains since we were small children. We expect to hear it on Christmas Eve and Christmas morning, but that is only part of the message of Christmas.

When I was a young priest at the Cathedral in Belleville, I always got stuck doing the noon mass on Christmas Day, and that was a special blessing in disguise. You see the readings for the mass during the day are not the normal baby in the manger readings that we are used to. The Gospel is the first chapter of the Gospel of John. Since that time almost 25 years ago this has become my favorite Christmas reading. I encourage each of us to read and meditate on the first chapter of the Gospel of John his Christmas season. The first lines of that Gospel proclaim, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God!"

The Hebrew word for the divine word is DAVAR. This word means much more than the words written on a page. It can also mean talk or thing. The talk of God or the thing of God has always been present in a hidden way in our universe. The Word is God! And dwells among us!

We as Catholics believe the divine word is incarnate in that baby in the manger. That the divine Word that is eternal is always among us and always speaking or talking with us. We just need to listen and join in the dialog with the Word that is God!

This Christmas I have a challenge for the people of God gathered at St. Stanislaus Kostka. I know as Catholics we truly believe in the real presence of Christ in the Eucharistic elements in the form of bread and wine. I have been impressed with this community's reverence and devotion to the Eucharist in the tabernacle and the altar. Did you know that Christ is "really" present in our eucharistic celebration in other ways. The first chapter of the Gospel of John tell us of another real presence. The real presence of God in the word. The spoken word and sung psalms of our lectors, cantors, and clergy are the real presence of Christ in our world just as much as the Eucharistic elements. We need to find a way to believe that no matter what language the reading or psalm is, English, Polish, or Spanish that the Christ is truly present. We need to show the same reverence and devotion we have for the Eucharistic Elements to the proclaimed Word of God at our eucharistic gathering.

This Christmas let us believe in another real presence. Let us believe "In the beginning is the word, and the word is with God, and the Word is God! Merry Christmas!
