Twenty-sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

"If they will not listen to Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded if someone should rise from the dead." Regardless of how the message of faith is received, a total conversion of mind and heart is needed for it to take root and have meaning. It is easy to become complacent and comfortable with all that life can afford us. Life can become "all about me," preserving my livelihood and protecting my securities. Often, this drive can become so strong that we eagerly strive to protect our self-interests at the expense of others. Other people are necessary only to the extent that they are "useful" to us and profitable.

Merriam-Webster defines entitlement as "the belief that one is deserving of or entitled to certain privileges." In a world that pretends to offer us so many necessities, this is perhaps the greatest contemporary sin. When we feel "entitled" to something, even if it is perceived necessary, our relationships can get skewed. Unless we adopt a global vision of entitlement wherein everyone is entitled to the same things, we risk becoming extremely self-focused and selfish. All we care about is defending our rights and protecting our turf. This impulse can be so strong that we pursue it even at the expense of another. Is this what God intends for his children?

Holding on to this myopic vision, the plight and station of others are off our radar and of no real concern to us. Relying on our own merits and becoming resilient to life's challenges, we replace the true and real God with the one we created ourselves. Jesus and the prophets before him have consistently reminded us of the dangers of wealth, ignoring the poor and the needy, and becoming too fiercely independent and arrogant. Yet, we conduct our lives as if that message has never been preached. We give our faith a nod and never consider for a moment that we may be wrong in terms of what we see as important. "The things that we love tell us what we are (attributed to St. Thomas Aquinas)." Ponder those words a bit and remember that when we leave this world and go to the next one, what we loved here is what we will look for there. What we sought here may not be there. ©LPi

Dear Parishioners,

We are happy to see that the main body of work for the church roofing project is complete! There are a few details that need attending to, that will be covered under warranty by ARC contractors. I'm grateful to the finance council, especially Gene Griffin for all his help in moving this big project along! We also see the beautiful new plants and paver landscaping that provide a welcome update to our properties, thank you especially to Jill Schuelke and Amy Starr, and anyone else who has helped in any way with making our church properties look beautiful! And thank you to ALL who donated to the capital campaign to make this all possible!

One other item I want to share: I was recently elected by the priests of Vicariate III, to serve a 3-year term on the Diocesan Presbyteral Council. The Presbyteral Council is a group of priests who represent the presbyterate and who are to be, as it were, the Bishop's senate. The council's role is to assist the Bishop, in accordance with law, in the governance of the diocese, so that the pastoral welfare of the people of the diocese may be most effectively promoted. These meetings take place roughly every 2 months on various Wednesday and Thursday mornings, so the occasion may come along where I am unable to celebrate our 9am daily Mass. Thank you for your understanding!

Gratefully,

- Fr. Matthew

Thank You

Annual Blessing of Animals will be Sunday, October 2nd.

We will gather to give thanks for all God's creatures, and to bless the pets you bring from home. We do this just before the Feast of St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of animals. He called them his brothers and sisters. St. Francis lived almost 1,000 years ago. He grew up in a rich family, but began to see that God wanted him to share his wealth. He did this in an extreme way. He gave all he had to the poor and went about teaching people about God. It gave him great joy to live this simple life, and many others joined him. They were called Franciscan Friars. Francis was known for his love of nature and animals. It is said that one day he was talking to some birds when they began to sing together. Then they flew into the sky and formed the sign of a cross.

Please make plans to attend with your pets right after Mass on Sunday, Oct. 2nd.
