FROM THE DESK OF FATHER LETONA

Greetings on the Solemnity of the Body and Blood of Christ, a.k.a. Corpus Christi!

How is this feast different from Holy Thursday? On Holy Thursday we celebrated and recalled the institution of the Holy Eucharist at the Last Supper, and thereby, the inauguration of the Holy Priesthood. On Corpus Christi, we remember the fulfillment of Christ's promise on the feast of the Ascension "behold I am with you always!" (Matthew 28:20).

"Christ Jesus, who died, yes, who was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who indeed intercedes for us, is present in many ways to his Church: in his word, in his Church's prayer, 'where two or three are gathered in my name,' in the poor, the sick, and the imprisoned, in the sacraments of which he is the author, in the sacrifice of the Mass, and in the person of the minister. But 'he is present . . . most especially in the Eucharistic species.'" (CCC #1373)

Why is Jesus most especially present to us in the Eucharist? Because in the blessed Eucharist "is contained the whole spiritual good of the Church, namely Christ himself." (CCC #1324) The Eucharist contains Jesus himself! It is the Lord himself in the Tabernacle, on the altar, and given to us in Holy Communion.

What does Communion mean?

"Holy Communion augments our union with Christ. The principal fruit of receiving the Eucharist in Holy Communion is an intimate union with Christ Jesus. Indeed, the Lord said: 'He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him.'" (CCC 1391)

One of the greatest causes of sorrow during the pandemic has been the self-imposed separation of Catholics from the Holy Mass and Communion. As your spiritual Father, I was supposed to feed you. But now I urge you to begin considering returning to the regular Sunday Holy Sacrifice and Holy Communion. Let our hearts and souls yearn for God, the Living God.

Some Quotes by the Saints on the Holy Body and Blood of Christ:

"I no longer take pleasure in perishable food or in the delights of this world. I want only God's bread, which is the Flesh of Jesus Christ, formed of the seed of David, and for drink I crave His Blood which is love that cannot perish."
St. Ignatius of Antioch

"From the Eucharist comes strength to live the Christian life and zeal to share that life with others."
Saint John Paul II

"The Eucharist bathes the tormented soul in light and love. Then the soul appreciates these words, 'Come all you who are sick, I will restore your health.'"
St. Bernadette Soubirous

"Put your sins in the chalice for the precious blood to wash away. One drop is capable of washing away the sins of the world."
Mother Teresa of Calcutta

"The greatest love story of all time is contained in a tiny white Host."
- Venerable Fulton J. Sheen

Lord Jesus, you were "broken and shared" so I may receive You in the Holy Eucharist. Give me the eyes to see the immense love contained for me in the sacrifice of Your Body and Blood. Help me to live in that same love today and always. Amen.

O Sacrament most Holy, O Sacrament Divine! All praise and all thanksgiving, be every moment Thine!

God bless you all, Father Robert Letona

Character Builds Families

How often do we find ourselves saving our favorite clothing (drink, book, movie, fragrance) for a 'special day' or 'another day'?

If this is something you find yourself doing more and more, let's take some time to really think about what that 'special day' looks like?

What needs to change in your life right now to have that 'another day' happen? Is a tiny adjustment that you could do today?

What if that day never comes? Then the clothing, drink, book, movie, fragrance ect will never be used, watch, read or enjoyed.

Let's today take a moment and think about all those items that have not been enjoyed because we have not made 'another day' that 'special day' happen.

Every day is special. Let's make it so by enjoying the small pleasure God has blessed our lives with.

"The Winegrowers of Heaven" between Rhône and Provence"

The Benedictine monks of Barroux have revived a thousand-year-old tradition. They are about 30 men, lined up face to face in two rows, on either side of a path that crosses a plot of vines. They are young, vigorous and full of strength, and yet their smile is as disarming as that of children. Some of them wear a tonsure, the ancestral sign of their renunciation of the world. They are dressed in their traditional monastic habit. They are Benedictine monks from the abbey of Saint Madeleine du Barroux, whose church tower can be seen from a distance, on the heights overlooking the vineyards. At their feet are empty crates that will be filled in a moment with the first grapes of the harvest, sun-drenched clarettes. For the time being, the monks are meditating, singing the praise of God, before picking under the Provençal sun the new fruits of the vine, which the good weather has brought to maturity. "Ora et labora" ("Pray and work") is their motto: They work in silence with precise gestures and a regular, unflattering rhythm. They look up from time to time to thank God for such abundance. The hard work of the vineyard assures their subsistence; it also allows them to earn a path to heaven. As I contemplate this scene, I recall a phrase from Dom Gérard, the founder of the abbey: "Looking to heaven, the monks have designed the gardens of the earth." Here everything is in its place, in the tranquility of an order that brings joy and peace: rows of vines framed dry stone walls rub shoulders with fields of olive trees and scrubland where junipers, rosemary, holm oaks, honeysuckle and thyme cohabit. The Romanesque abbey fits into the landscape as one of its natural elements. The rocky aesthetics of the elegant Dentelles de Montmirail and the majestic Mount Ventoux complete the picture to give it a timeless accent. A scent of eternity rises from the earth. We are at the very place where Clement V, the first Pope of Avignon, planted the first pontifical vineyard at the beginning of the 14th century. Some 700 years later, nothing seems to have changed, as if this place was preserved from the fury of the world. The monks have revived an age-old tradition that associated the men of God with their peasant environment through performing the same labor. By proposing to the neighboring winegrowers that they join them in making great wines and thus ensuring them a decent income, they restored the soul of these monastic estates, which created around them an immense human poetry against which nothing could prevail. They opened a way of charity, "Via Caritatis," which gives its character to the wines they produce. The phrase, which the medieval historian Georges Duby applied to Cistercian art, is perfectly suited to define its nature: "It reaches what is most complex by what is simplest, the irrational by reason and sweetness by power." Vox rouge is a charming wine, full, powerful, round and fleshy. It is a quintessence of red fruits, an explosion of freshness and purity; Pax rouge is ample and generous. It combines elegance, character and finesse, with unctuous tannins melted in a bouquet of spices, mentholated fragrances and caramel; Lux red is a voluptuous wine that expresses both the suavity of the monastery and the majesty of the landscape in which it grew. Lux rosé is a masterpiece with its subtlety and bewitching aromas of rose petals; Lux white, marked by white flowers and almonds, combines density with finesse. These micro-vintages born from a 700-year-old treasure are available for the first time in the United States on the website www.viacaritatis.us. From their celestial balcony, the winegrowing monks of all times rejoice with us. (aletea.org)

Family Builder Idea:

When to introduce your child to the Bible?

When a child is born, everyone talks to him/her, regardless of the fact that a baby doesn't understand. But we're convinced that the more and the more clearly we speak to the baby, the sooner he'll/she'll start to understand and talk.

If this is true that we should introduce our children to the stories in the Bible early and frequently. This will increase their understanding of the Bible and of Jesus.

The spiritual meaning of the Bible is difficult to understand, so pray for the grace of understanding of the Holy Scriptures for both you and your child. If you want your child to understand the Bible, you shouldn't hide it from him, but rather make it more accessible. (aletea.org)

FORMATION IN FAITH:

Celebration of the Saints is a rich tradition in the Catholic Church.

June 9th Saint of the day is Saint Ephrem, Deacon and Doctor of the Church

Poet, teacher, orator, and defender of the faith, Ephrem is the only Syriac Christian recognized as a doctor of the Church. He took upon himself the special task of opposing the many false doctrines rampant at his time, always remaining a true and forceful defender of the Catholic Church.

Born in Nisibis, Mesopotamia, he was baptized as a young man and became famous as a teacher in his native city. When the Christian emperor had to cede Nisibis to the Persians, Ephrem fled as a refugee to Edessa, along with many other Christians. He is credited with attracting great glory to the biblical school there. He was ordained a deacon but declined becoming a priest. Ephrem was said to have avoided presbyteral consecration by feigning madness!

He had a prolific pen, and his writings best illumine his holiness. Although he was not a man of great scholarship, his works reflect deep insight and knowledge of the Scriptures. In writing about the mysteries of humanity's redemption, Ephrem reveals a realistic and humanly sympathetic spirit and a great devotion to the humanity of Jesus. It is said that his poetic account of the Last Judgment inspired Dante.

It is surprising to read that he wrote hymns against the heretics of his day. He would take the popular songs of the heretical groups and using their melodies, compose beautiful hymns embodying orthodox doctrine. Ephrem became one of the first to introduce song into the Church's public worship as a means of instruction for the faithful. His many hymns have earned him the title "Harp of the Holy Spirit." Ephrem preferred a simple, austere life, living in a small cave overlooking the city of Edessa. It was here that he died around 373.
