From the Pastor's Desk

Praised be Jesus Christ! Every now and again something crosses my desk that demands not only my attention, but yours as well. A friend shared a booklet that he gave his family for Christmas. In going through it, I found the following article, written by a Miss Alena Hall and titled, “9 Reasons not to Abandon the Art of the Handwritten Letter.” Without further ado, here it is – enjoy!

Nowadays we rarely pick up a pen and paper to communicate with one another, but it might not be wise for us to trade this long-standing, cultural practice entirely for the convenience of text messages and emails.

Research has shown that the general act of writing by hand can promote quite a few physical and mental benefits, from improving learning abilities to fostering a more positive outlook on life. And when it comes to writing that is used as a form of communication between two people, namely letters and postcards, the impact of such messages lasts far longer than any alternative version offered in our high-tech world. From the careful intentions of the sender to the value experienced by the receiver, no true match exists for this old-time, traditional means of conversation.

Whether you're trying to cultivate a little romance, nurture a friendship, or simply stay connected with loved ones while abroad, here are nine reasons you should still send a letter or postcard once in a while. (Just one editor's note: for the life of me, I only count eight reasons . . .)

They create lasting memories: Studies have revealed an association between writing by hand and brain development and cognition, increasing neural activity more than typing can. Just as learning by handwriting notecards and study guides proves more effective for students, the moments you commit to paper for others are more likely to stay stored in your own memory as well allowing you both to reflect back and appreciate them again in the future.

They show how much you care: In the days of oversimplified communication, receiving a “just to say hi” email can feel like a big deal. So imagine the powerful message you convey when you actually write out your thoughts for another person by hand, purchase a stamp, physically deliver your note to a mailbox and wait days for your special someone to receive it. Their beaming smile at your thoughtfulness will say it all.

They make you feel good: Aside from the residual satisfaction of knowing you're making a close friend's day with your efforts, science has linked expressive writing to better mood, reduced stress and improved overall sense of well-being. Similar to keeping a gratitude journal or writing about your future goals, sharing your genuine thoughts with another person can be quite the morale booster – not to mention a mini adrenaline rush as you drop the final draft into the mailbox. They make every word count. Postcards only offer so many square inches, forcing the sender to truly think about the message they want to share and how they want to phrase it. Unlike with a quick text or Facebook message, you only have one chance when you send a handwritten message, so you learn just how important it is not to let it go to waste.

They spark creativity: Taking to pen and paper utilizes the visual, motor and cognitive brain processes differently than when we recruit technology to help us out. It is also by nature more labor-intensive, requiring us to slow down and connect the mind with the hand, one word at a time. Together these factors can make the sensory experience of writing just what you need to get those creative juices flowing.

They require your undivided attention: By recruiting all of the senses to participate in the writing-by-hand process, little room is left for multitasking (or hyper-speed task switching). To write thoughtfully and coherently, we must focus on the present moment and contemplate – without side conversations or other to-do list items taking priority – the thought we're aiming to coherently convey to the person on the receiving end of the letter.

They require unplugging: Let's face it – we could all use a little extra screen-free time these days. By nature of sitting down to write a thoughtful note to a special someone, your thumbs won't be able to scroll your Facebook feed or type out a text message to another friend in demand of your attention. For those few minutes, you will live entirely in the present moment and in the thoughts you're putting on paper.

They honor tradition: There's something sacred (and romantic, in the broadest sense) about communicating in the way generations before us once did. We've all heard the stories: It's how your parents communicated with Santa Claus, it's how grandma and grandpa kept their love alive during wartime, it's how immigrant families and friends separated by their respective moves shared written snapshots of their new lives. Computers and smartphones may prove more efficient, but they can never take the place of this kind of sentimental history.

They're timeless: “A letter always seemed to me like immortality because it is the mind alone without corporeal friend,” – Emily Dickinson. Long after they are written and sent (and even after their senders and receivers are gone), letters and postcards remain to be read, appreciated and preserved. Whether displayed on museum shelves honoring famous historical figures or saved in a scrapbook between two old friends, letters protect the memories of lives lived in a way that technological communication cannot. They are tangible, personal, and real, in every sense of the word.

Makes you want to write more letters, doesn't it!

May God grant us the art of true and sincere communication, beginning with the way we pray!

Your friend in Christ,
Father Martin

5th Sunday in Ordinary Time

If I only knew then what I know now, how different life would be. This sentiment, expressed in myriad ways, is found on every human being's lips at one point or another. Life may have brought us to a vulnerable place where we see some of the poor choices we made and the effects they are having. Perhaps we fell into some destructive and dysfunctional relationships or behaviors and are finding how they held us captive. Our zeal and passion for life may have drifted away and we are waking up to the reasons apathy has taken hold. Life can be hard. In fact, some would describe their lives as a drudgery. They walk through each day with an anxious unsettledness, wondering when their restlessness will cease. There is a temptation to believe that what I see is all I will get. Mortality and hopelessness await the dawn. If I could only have known what would come in the future, I could have made better choices and avoided all of this misery!

Really? While we can certainly give into weakness, sin, impulsiveness, and idiosyncrasies that cause us to stumble over ourselves, life is really a journey. If we don't make the mistake of wallowing in the mire of self-pity and realize the new life God is calling us to, then there are thrills, adventures, surprises, and soul-searching graces we can surely miss. We are not tethered to our past nor are we bound to the ills life can bring upon us. We are never hopeless or helpless. The problem is that our myopic vision only allows us to see the misery and misfortune that is before us, not the potential that can come from choosing healthier and more life-giving options. Jesus came that we might have fullness of life. We need to learn how to reach for Jesus' hand and let him help us to our feet.

We need to allow God into our pain and heal our past. We have to wrestle with our histories, agonize and search and cry out for the Divine healing we need to restore our faith, hope, and love. Job could not see how his story would end or trust the guidance of the God who called him. We live in that same blindness and suffer from the same lack of confidence. Once we allow ourselves to be touched by God's healing power, we begin to see that all of the pieces of our lives are necessary parts of a greater whole. Along the way of our lives, God uses our omissions and failures to create new things and possibilities. When doors close, others open and we can be amazed by the joyful and unexpected surprises we receive. Once we know the power of God's creative, healing, life-giving, forgiving, and dynamic presence, it is no wonder we want to put ourselves at the service of others and show them what life can be.

Lenten Day of Prayer: The Psalms and Our Lenten Prayer Life. Presented by Deacon Peter Burek March 7th 9:00am - 4:00pm . Cost $65.

As Catholics, we are familiar with the Psalms largely as the reading (or song) that comes between two "other" readings at the mass. However, the Psalms were most likely the staple of prayer life for Jesus as a faithful Jew. How can we better understand and use these prayers, songs really, for our Lenten journey. Reflection on some of the Psalms that may be helpful in our desire to be more in touch with our proper posture before God. Can the Psalms contribute to, and be a component in our everyday Christian lives?

Guests will be asked to wear a mask or face covering in common areas except at mealtimes. We strongly encourage each guest to bring his/her own face covering; however, a limited number of masks will be available for those who do not have their own.

Registration begins at 9:00 am, with a continental breakfast from 9-10 am. The program runs from 10 am– 4pm and will include Liturgy of the Word and the noon meal. If you are unable to attend due to financial obstacles, please contact us regarding payment plans or other options. Register early by calling 715-443-2236

"Come, follow me"

When Peter encountered Jesus for the first time, he was busy doing his daily work, fishing. He was minding his own business, when Jesus approached him and asked him to put his nets out into the deep water for a catch. Although hesitant, he did as Jesus asked him and caught an over-abundance of fish! When they arrived back on shore, Jesus said to Peter, "Come, follow me..." and Peter did. In just the same way, the Lord continues to work in our world today, approaching us in our normal, daily lives and inviting us to consider following Him.

Have you ever considered following the Lord as a priest, like Peter? Do you know of a young man who you think the Lord may be calling to be a priest? Perhaps this is the Lord's invitation to follow Him. To begin the conversation or to inquire about what it means to be a priest, please contact me: Fr. Nate Kuhn, Director of Vocational Recruitment for the Diocese of La Crosse, 3710 East Ave. S. PO Box 4004, La Crosse, WI 54602; or by phone at: 608.791.2667. God bless you!

Lent is a Time for Giving

The Diocese of LaCrosse is asking all children, elementary through high school, to donate to the Missionary Childhood Association (MCA) through their Lenten Mite Box contributions beginning on Ash Wednesday. Mite boxes are distributed through Religious Education and Catholic Schools, and are also available by all entrances of the church for families that do not otherwise receive them. Mite boxes will be available starting this weekend and through Lent.

MCA was founded to encourage children to be children. Today MCA helps finance about 3,000 projects per year worldwide. Children in communities, orphanages, homes for the disabled, refugees, and those living on the streets are assisted by the generosity of children who wish to make the love of Jesus known everywhere. Schools affected by COVID related mandates worldwide will also need extra funds to continue the education of their students, especially in pervasive poverty.

This is a wonderful opportunity to help our kids connect to children across the world in the name of Jesus Christ and His Church. And to remind students that we are all asked to help one another, especially during the Lenten season. We ask parents to take an active role in this project and remind the children that every dollar can make a difference in the lives of other children.

Thank you in advance for contributing towards this worthy cause. Blessings to you and your families during this Lenten season.

Eucharistic Fair

Mar 13th

from 8am-12:00pm

We will begin with 8:00 Mass and then move to Simmons Hall

It's that time again when we begin planning the Eucharist Fair. This is an exciting day for all of the children preparing to receive the Sacrament of Eucharist in May and an opportunity for families to grow together in their Catholic faith as they experience many different activities throughout the morning.

Volunteers are needed for the Eucharistic Fair. Planning has already begun, and volunteers are needed to make this an awesome faith building and fun filled learning experience for children and parents. Please consider helping for part, or all, of the retreat. If interested, call Noel at 715-842-4543.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION REMINDER

ALL students in Religious Education are REQUIRED to attend

ASH WEDNESDAY MASS

at 6:30 pm on Wed, Feb. 17th

Students should arrive at 6:15 and go directly to their classroom for attendance. They will be taken to church with their Catechist. If students arrive late it is their responsibility to let the Catechist know they attended Mass.

Virtual students are also expected to attend Mass that day, but may choose the 8:00 am or 6:00 pm Mass. Regardless of the Mass chosen, please check in with Noel before or after Mass to be sure the student is marked as having attended.

We strongly encourage families to join their students at this Mass. However, if parents are unable to attend with their child, be aware that Mass may go longer than 7:30 pm. Please do not enter church and disturb the Mass as we will send out the children as soon as the Mass has concluded. Call Rel Ed with any questions or concerns at 715-842-4543.
