From the Pastor's Desk

Praised be Jesus Christ! Maybe you already know that my Dad was once the manager of the Mets – the ones from Eastman, not New York. He loved baseball and was honored by his former players many years later. Among the gifts they gave, one sat on the piano for many years. It was a plaque that contained the following inscription: “To the coach who always knew what to give us to keep us loose.” On either side of the plaque were two little bottles of blackberry brandy. At some point my older brother got the joke and it was about that time that the brandy disappeared. I don't mean to be telling tales out of school, but that's how I remember it.

Human beings struggle with stress and finding ways to relax. These days there's a pill or a chemical for just about everything. The problem is that such things tend to come with strings attached. One of the mildest of all the saints didn't start out that way: Saint Francis de Sales had a short fuse and was anything but calm as a young man. His is the story of the power of God's grace and the impact that it can have in our lives. Saint Francis was committed to prayer – he never missed his daily Holy Hour. In the end, the thousands of hours he spent in prayer during his lifetime produced in his heart a seemingly peerless degree of charity which he showed to all, including the enemies of the Church. When Saint Francis claimed that “you attract more bees with honey than vinegar,” he was only sharing what had become a way of life for him.

How to relax, to calm down, to be peaceful? We live in such a fast-paced world that runs roughshod over our nervous system. And while the pace has certainly quickened, the anxiety that accompanies it is nothing new. Saint Francis, who died in 1622, had this to say about the topic: “Anxiety is the greatest evil that can befall a soul except sin. God commands you to pray, but He forbids you to worry.” And there you have it – Saint Francis claimed that prayer is the medicine for anxiety. The good news is that your insurance will cover it! It's free and God is available at all times of the day and night. Let's give one more listen to the wisdom of Saint Francis de Sales, who goes down in history as “the gentleman saint:” “Do not look forward in fear to the changes in life; rather, look to them with full hope that as they arise, God, whose very own you are, will lead you safely through all things; and when you cannot stand it, God will carry you in his arms. Do not fear what may happen tomorrow; the same understanding Father who cares for you today will take care of you then and every day. He will either shield you from suffering or will give you unfailing strength to bear it. Be at peace and put aside all anxious thoughts and imaginations.”

By the way, I should have begun by wishing you a Happy Divine Mercy Sunday! There are so many graces available to our fallen world and you and I can have a pivotal part in the salvation that God is offering His children. As was Saint Francis de Sales and Saint Faustina, we can be witnesses to the mercy of God. How many of us know the gratitude that comes from being forgiven and receiving the hope that comes when we get a second chance? As Saint Augustine put it many centuries ago, “Every saint has a past, every sinner has a future.” Divine Mercy is God's definitive response to evil and to the trainwreck that sin tends to make of our lives. He came to atone for our sins by His death and Resurrection, and in the Sacrament of Reconciliation He offers His personal gift of forgiveness. Many are afraid to confess their sins, which is another reason for us to truly pray for each other on Divine Mercy Sunday. Please join us from 1:00-3:00 p.m. today as we play our part in helping each other to trust in Jesus more and more.

In an attempt to tie up some loose ends, let's consider the various “faces of mercy” that we know in our lives. The saints are always role models for us and that's why we began with a discussion of Saint Francis de Sales. But not all of the saints are canonized. There are many saints presently living in our world, but they're seemingly only visible to God and to His friends. Do you know any “saints” who inspire you on a regular basis? In my life as a priest I know dozens of them, though I'd never tell them who they are . . . they inspire me with their courage, their faith, and especially their true love of God. These little saints are the faces of God's mercy – they remind us that good always triumphs over evil, and that in the end the light will dispel all darkness. Meeting them awakens our hearts to the possibility that maybe one day we could become a little saint. Receiving Our Lord's Divine Mercy is a huge step in that direction.

One of the little saints that has been recently discovered and is now making the rounds in the movie theaters is a priest named Father Stuart Long. He had a very rough beginning to life and was far away from God before experiencing the personal love God has for us, especially when we're farthest from Him. Mark Wahlberg, the Catholic actor who plays Father Stu in the movie, had this to say: “Years ago the pastor of my parish shared with me the true story of Father Stuart Long. Stu was a man from Montana who'd been a state champion boxer, a failed actor, a butcher, and a troublemaker – he was a flawed man who eventually found himself, like so many of us, looking for a higher purpose. He found his purpose in the pursuit of faith, driven by a desire for a deeper relationship with God. His is a true redemption story.” Although Father Stu died of a disease similar to ALS at the young age of 50, his impact continues to be felt by all who knew him. That makes him a witness to God's mercy and to the power of His grace in our lives.

You, reading this, you're called to the same. The only real sorrow in our lives is that we're not saints . . . at least not yet. But it's not too late to start again. Please come to our Divine Mercy devotions today and join the ranks of those who are becoming the Lord's witnesses in our world. After all, Jesus Himself said, “Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy.”

May God's mercy wash away our sins, heal our shame, and teach us how to truly forgive others!

Your friend in Christ,
Father Martin

All are welcome! As you know, we're heading into an exciting chapter in our parish history. Growing means giving, and you're an integral part of this. Our upcoming campaign has invited many of you to a reception on Wednesday, April 27th in Simmons Hall. Unfortunately, some were left off the list due to data errors beyond our control. As a reparation, we want you all to come and enjoy some hors d'oeuvres as we present our hopes for whatever God has in store for us (adults only). If you're a member of Holy Name, you're very welcome to attend our reception on Wednesday, April 27th at 6:30 p.m. in Simmons Hall. All are welcome – unless you're not yet a member of Holy Name . . . maybe now is a good time to consider joining our parish?! Please come and enjoy some conviviality and a short presentation about our upcoming capital campaign.

April 24, 2022 - 2nd Sunday of Easter (Divine Mercy Sunday)

Even Thomas struggles to remove his boulder! Being very pragmatic and determined, he wants to see the risen Christ for himself! Thomas's boulder is heavy with mistrust. Many of ours are too. A certain amount of skepticism is good, as it can save us from being duped or misled. But we can become so skeptical of things that it erodes our ability to trust anything we see or hear. Skepticism can actually be a well-disguised defense mechanism that we use to prevent us from being hurt or perceived as a fool. Having too much ego protection is a real risk. Thomas, because of the boulder blocking his vision, could not even trust the word of his friends.

Boulders are hard to move. It's difficult to seek change or take a risk, especially when we are so afraid to be vulnerable or reluctant to trust another's word. When we are closed minded, overly pragmatic, unwilling to see things in a different way, stubborn or defensive, it is difficult to be surprised by God and stretched. We need to be less guarded, self-assured, and self-absorbed. God cannot break into the ordinary moments of our lives and inspire us when we cling to doubt. If we are going to discover resurrection faith, we have to believe that what the witnesses say is true, especially when they are credible. We also have to trust that the risen Christ is alive in us, too!

While the first witnesses to the resurrection have faded into history, there are many others who have come after them. They continue to inspire by walking the talk of faith. They are the martyrs who offer their lives for the Gospel, the simple holy people in our communities who cling so steadfastly to their faith, those who have touched despair and found new hope and the ones who, even in spite of ridicule, still pursue their hunger and thirst for God. They are our friends, acquaintances, biblical heroes, and saints, and many others who are convinced that they have seen the Lord! The risen Christ may not surprise us with the same kind of visit as he did the first disciples, but God finds other ways. All we have to do is open our eyes, remove whatever is preventing us from seeing and believing and exclaim: "My Lord and my God!"

Sign of Peace reinstated

We have permission to bring back the sign of peace, one of the Covid casualties for the past two years. We'll reinstate it on Mother's Day weekend (May 7th and 8th). Please know that the sign of peace can be expressed in a variety of ways, the handshake being but one of them. You can wave, bow, or simply smile and say "peace be with you." We're all over the board in terms of our comfort level regarding human contact. Please respect each other during this time – if the sign of peace becomes divisive, we'll really have mud on our faces.

We welcome the newly Baptized into our faith community
