From the Pastor's Desk

Praised be Jesus Christ! "The Necessary Mother" – that is the title of an article I read in First Things back in the spring of 2003. The fact that I still remember it is remarkable. It was written by a stay-at-home Mom (Sibyl Niemann) and her candor was as entertaining as it was revealing. What follows is the first part of her article:

"The baby was extra clingy today. At eighteen months, Monica has just this week cut two of her three emerging molars, which had been bulging and sore for weeks. She did not want to be put down and kept coming to grab my legs as I tried to make sandwiches for the older children, unload the dishwasher, fold laundry. Every time I nursed her, she looked intently into my face, willing me to quiet myself, unwind my attention from the rest of life, and give her the one thing in the whole world that no one else can give: my undivided, loving attention.

But today was a hard day. Last night I'd stayed up much too late reading (one of the habits of my pre-motherhood life that I have not been quite willing to give up), and got up several times to comfort Monica after the Tylenol wore off around 2 a.m. All morning the children quarreled, and mediating between the irrationality of three-year-old Jonah and the legalism of five-year-old Abigail had just about done me in. Of course, then there was the Trouble with the Fruit Drawer, which entailed moving the entire refrigerator just to get the door closed again. No amount of coffee helped me today.

By three this afternoon, as I drove over to pick up Abigail from kindergarten, I was neck-deep in self-pity. Why did I think that this was what I wanted? What was so bad about wearing panty hose and working for pay? Wasn't I accomplishing more? So much of my day is taken up with triviality, frustration, and minutiae!

When I got home, I realized I'd forgotten to take the meat out of the freezer. Then the cat threw up. But I did give Monica some more baby Tylenol, so that was good. And I did get a chance to brush my hair."

Wow, being a Mom is certainly not for the faint of heart! As you can imagine, I have very little babysitting experience. Once I took care of my Goddaughter and her little brother for a few hours. We began by playing and they were obviously enjoying whatever we were doing. But I started getting tired, so I suggested that we put a movie in and relax a bit. They weren't having any of that. All I remember is them plaintively crying, "No, Father Martin. We don't want to watch a movie. We want to play!!" That was the end of my babysitting career.

My dear Mom was a teacher through and through. But when my older brother Tom was born in 1971, Mom set her teaching aside and stayed at home with us kids. It wasn't long before there were five of us (Pete, the baby, was born in 1977). As any mother knows, being at home with little ones all day, every day, can be a lonely life. Dad was farming full-time as well as working 40 hours a week at 3M as a machinist (third shift). That Mom and Dad held it all together amazes me more and more as I get older. How did they do it? By the grace of God, they'd say, and there's simply no other reasonable explanation

Raising children has never been easy. As Niemann's article makes clear, children are needy by nature. Even as we grow older, we still depend on our parents for so much in terms of emotional support and good advice (not to mention, the financial challenges of life). And it never really ends for parents . . . after telling Mom that I hit a deer after visiting her a couple of weeks ago, she sent me a touching card with some money to help with the repairs. It was the kind of thoughtful thing that parents (especially Moms) do thousands of times in their lifetimes. Thankfully, as we get older, we no longer take such loving gestures for granted.

For those of you whose Moms are with the Lord, may you be consoled by memories that continue to warm your heart. And for those who are estranged in any way from your Moms, we pray for peace, healing and reconciliation. Finally, for those who cherish a close relationship with their Moms, may your joy and love radiate into our fallen world, bringing hope and joy to those in need.

After sharing the joys and sorrows of giving up her career aspirations to stay at home and raise her children, Sibyl concludes with these words:

"Yet I wish I could convey it. Like so many other full-time mothers I have learned the obvious: for my children, not just anyone will do. Even the best teacher, the kindest day care worker, cannot replace me, my attentive presence. No matter how closely someone may agree with me and my husband, she cannot guide and nurture our children as we can. No one else can parent our children. It is God's gift to me and to John, ours alone."

Not every Mom can stay home and raise her children. My Mom did, and I will forever be grateful for those years together. As we rejoice in the life God has given us, we thank Him for the Moms He chose to nurture us in the most vulnerable days of our lives. May God bless our Moms with His choicest grace, that they will forever know just how necessary they are, to Him and to us!

Happy Mother's Day to all Mothers, both biological and spiritual!

Your friend in Christ,
Father Martin

May 8, 2022 - 4th Sunday of Easter

“Human beings, while capable of the worst, are also capable of rising above themselves, choosing again what is good, and making a new start.” (Pope Francis) We have a difficult time figuring out what is true and best for us. There are many voices talking and so many trying to get our attention. We wrongly convince ourselves that the true voice is the voice of progress, the one that speaks of contemporary wants and desires, enticing us with the latest trends and causes. We are taught, by listening to the voices around us, that truth is found in feelings and thought, and ideals must match current and popular human wants. Because we feel a particular way it must be true. Then, we find a shepherd who empathizes with us and affirms us. We follow that voice even though listening to that voice will render us powerless and lead us to harm. There are many with me in this procession to this pasture. I must be on the right path and listening to the right voice.

We are very confused. What can keep us safe and from harm? Where do we go to find life, love, and happiness? Jesus tells us that he is the way, the truth, and the life. The only way to get to Truth, who is God, is through him. There is no other way. The Church, the gate around God’s pasture of life, is charged with the mission of directing us where God desires that we go. In the midst of all of the conflicting voices around us, the voice of truth is often muffled in all of the noise, but it beckons us to a life of virtue and grace. Helping us understand who we are and where we have to be, it discerns the voice of God, providing us with the safety net we need to stay straight on our path to life eternal.

We have to trust the voice of God, the true Shepherd, even when it does not mirror what we want and what others may believe. Faith goes way beyond feeling and involves a radical trust in Someone who can lead us and form us. At day’s end, if we do not know to find our way home, we will be truly lost.

Mothers Day Rose Sale

Happiest of Mother's Day Greetings to all from Wisconsin Right to life!

Heartfelt thanks to all who helped make the rose sale a huge success this year! Your support helps us grow respect for human life in our community. You are so appreciated!

Honoring Mary in the Home

May altars and crowning Mary are for each Catholic home. If you do not have one, consider setting up a prayer corner in your home. No matter how simple it is. The main point is that it's a place designated for God, and more specifically, for spending time with Him. Just as we need a proper atmosphere to sleep, we also need a proper atmosphere to pray. For May, give Mary a special spot in your prayer corner. It can be a statue or picture or some representation of our Blessed Mother. Make it appealing and a real tribute to her beauty and virtue. Then, crown Mary with a crown made of flowers. We do this because Mary is our Mother – everyone's mother – and because she cares for all of us day-in-and-day-out without fail, interceding for us in even the tiniest matters. Gather your family and take 5 minutes to pray a decade of the Rosary, (one Our Father and 10 Hail Mary's). Visit diolc.org/deeper to download a simple prayer card.

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd is an approach to the spirituality of children that especially focuses on the child's relationship with God. It is rooted in the Bible, the sacred liturgy of the Church, and the educational principles of Dr. Maria Montessori. Dr. Maria Montessori's approach follows St. Thomas Aquinas' understanding that "all our knowledge has its origin in the senses." Children gather in an "atrium," a room prepared especially for them, which contains simple yet beautiful materials to help them absorb and respond to the most essential proclamations of the Catholic faith.

If an adult hears a beautiful passage from the Bible, the adult might take a Bible, find the passage, and read it slowly and think deeply about God's words. A child needs another way. In an atrium the child can ponder a biblical passage or a prayer from the liturgy by taking the material for that text and working with it – placing wood figures of sheep in a sheepfold of the Good Shepherd, setting sculpted apostles around a Last Supper table, or preparing a small altar with the furnishings used for the Eucharist. Some works of the older children include copying parables and moral maxims from the Bible, sequencing written prayers from the Rite of Baptism or the Mass, working with a time line showing the History of the Kingdom of God, or beginning to formulate what their special role and gifts are for fulfilling God's Plan.

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd is built on the foundations of the Word of God and the Liturgy. All presentations are based directly on liturgy or Scripture, without any additions or simplifications. The Word of God is not "taught" as in a traditional classroom, but is rather received and explored by the child, together with the catechist. It is also an intrinsically liturgical program, and exists with the aim of allowing the child to enter and participate in the life of the Church with a fuller understanding and joy. For this, the curriculum of the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd follows the cycle of the Liturgical Year, focusing on the feasts of Christmas, Easter, and Pentecost.

The CGS has been developed for children from Infants – 12 years-old/Confirmation.

Trained volunteers are needed, as this beautiful program continues to grow. Please contact Father Martin or Stacie Stanke if you'd be interested in receiving training, which will be offered in Wausau this summer. Volunteers are unanimous in their claim that they receive far more than they give. If God is nudging you, it's time to respond!
