From the Pastor's Desk

Praised be Jesus Christ! Did you know that bicycles have been around for just over two hundred years? While a lot has changed in terms of design, the basic concept of riding around on two wheels is alive and well and still appeals to people of all ages. One of the realities of having two hip replacements before the age of 49 was that it was time to find a more gentle way to exercise. Thanks to generous friends, I picked out a bike in March and so a new adventure began.

Wausau is a pretty safe place to bike and thanks to the advice of parishioners, I've found some very nice routes. The trail along the east side of the Wisconsin River is nice and I used it every time I attended a Woodchucks game. When Father McGuire was here back in July, we stopped at Briq's and he impressively wiped out a dish of ice cream in record time. Other routes include the Mountain-Bay trail and the Cedar Creek trail. The latter is probably my favorite in town as it combines tranquility and breath-taking vistas. I've only done the Mountain-Bay trail once and my goal is to someday do the whole thing. But that won't happen this year.

Father Dan Thelen taught me a number of useful tips when riding a bike. One was the reality that you need to bring some food for long rides, as the body burns a lot of calories and needs fuel to keep going. When we were riding together in late August, I really hit the wall at mile 30 and realized later that I was starving. Father Dan likes energy bars and he said he always carries them as well as plenty of water. Another tip Father suggested is mapping out the route before you start. He prefers to avoid the heavily travelled roads, not to mention staying away from gravel roads. These are things that make the trip more enjoyable as well as less likely to result in an accident. Given that Father Dan put on over 7,000 miles last year alone, it's probably safe to say that he knows what he's talking about.

Another reality about biking is the pace one prefers to go. This is where riding with people will show that some are more compatible as companions than others. Early on, my gauge suggested that I usually averaged 11-12 miles per hour. However, when riding with Father Dan, we were in the 14-15 mph range. Father Dan said that when he rides by himself, he averages more like 17-18 mph. And he knows a guy who averages 20 mph! We're each comfortable at different speeds and traveling with someone who prefers a similar pace is crucial to enjoying the trip together. There's a life lesson in this reality, but I'll leave that up to you to ruminate on at your leisure.

Hills, they're a challenge for any biking enthusiast. The first hill I almost didn't make it up was on South 12th Avenue by John Muir school. Even hiking up that hill is a challenge, and it has stairs at the top to make it a bit more navigable. I was in the lowest gear possible and even then, I had to zig zag a bit to maintain sufficient momentum to get to the top. That day I headed north to County U and took it as far west as Highway 107 north of Marathon City. It didn't take me long to realize that U stands for "undulate." There are a lot of hills in Marathon County and County U was a kick in the pants as I rode up and down seemingly countless hills. I once rode up Townline and headed east on County N – that's a challenging route too, at least for the first five miles. Say what you will for hills, they certainly engage the cardiovascular system, which promotes a strong heart and lungs. Not to brag, but I did make it to the top of Rib Mountain in August. I was going to take it incrementally, but while riding up it the second time, when I arrived at the halfway point, I decided that I didn't want to come back again anytime soon. I decided to go until I couldn't go anymore, and while I was completely gassed by the end, I did make it up without stopping.

Sometimes people ask why I didn't go for the E-bike option that has become so popular. With all due respect, I'm way too proud at this point in my life to ride and E-bike in public. At the same time, I'm in favor of whatever it takes to get people outside and active. We age better when we keep moving, and the world God created ought to be enjoyed as it's a perpetual proof of His existence. While E-bikes are a wonderful fit for many people, my own skepticism comes from seeing people get overly dependent on such things. For example, years ago when GPS was a new thing, a friend of mine used it so often that certain parts of his brain atrophied. Heck, he had to strap his GPS to his head at night just to find his way to the bathroom and back! I'm exaggerating a bit, but the point remains. I'm getting older, but between my pride and my level of fitness, I'm not ready to embrace the blessing of owning an E-bike.

Okay, now a word or two about helmets. Sometimes people think of them as optional. Truly, they shouldn't be because our brains are so important and they're so vulnerable when we're riding a bike. When I drove a little motorcycle in Rome, it never occurred to me not to wear a helmet. Part of that is because I drive somewhat recklessly at times (please don't tell my Mom). The other part is that I'm not alone: a lot of other people are reckless drivers too. Wearing a helmet is just being a good steward of your health and of whatever future God might have in store for you. Our head is one of the most vulnerable parts of our body: take good care of it and strap on that helmet every time you get on your bike.

Wow, that felt good – I like being preachy sometimes. But let's end with a quote from our friend, Albert Einstein: "Life is like riding a bicycle. To keep your balance, you must keep moving." Because I came to biking later than others, I'm not too good at riding with my hands off the handlebars. I've learned early and often that biking is safe and fun if you maintain your balance. It's miserable and expensive if you don't. Einstein suggests we can say the same about the mystery of life. Where does balance come from? How do we sustain it? What happens when we lose it? Things to ponder the next time we're out on the road with the sun warming us and the scenery inspiring us. Happy trails to each of you as you pedal peacefully to fields of gold.

May God help us to find inner balance so we can serve Him and His people with courage and joy!

Your friend in Christ,
Father Martin

September 18, 2022 - 25th Sunday in Ordinary Time

“You cannot serve both God and mammon.” Merriam-Webster defines mammon as material wealth or possessions, especially having a debasing influence. While God does not take issue with our need to use money for the business of our lives, there can be a problem with the attitudes we bring to it. We can easily become so preoccupied and obsessed with money that it becomes the real “god” we worship. Do we serve mammon instead of God? In their book, Wealth, Riches and Money, Craig Hill and Earl Pitts outline symptoms of mammon’s influence in our lives. Some of these are worry and anxiety over money, money mismanagement, fear over “never having enough,” an “I can’t afford it” mentality, impulse buying, stinginess, greed, debt, and discontent.

Many of the things on that list can consume us to the point that we are distracted from what we really need to be doing. Many people spend an inordinate amount of time worrying about money and it becomes the source of their worst fears. If we are honest with ourselves, we need to admit that we place far more emphasis on our material securities than we ought. In fact, we have actually convinced ourselves that we cannot live without it. Are we that certain about the presence of God? Many of the world’s problems, especially those involving inequity and injustice, result from conflicts about money. Many equate money with happiness. Those successful in accumulating large amounts of it quickly realize just how wrong they are.

“Your ultimate allegiance is not to the government, not to the state, not to nation, not to any man-made institution. The Christian owes his ultimate allegiance to God, and if any earthly institution conflicts with God’s will it is your Christian duty to take a stand against it. You must never allow the transitory evanescent demands of man-made institutions to take precedence over the eternal demands of the Almighty God (Martin Luther King, Jr.)” This is the point Jesus is trying to make. Unfortunately, when we look around our man-made kingdoms are far more prevalent than God’s kingdom. When we start seeing greater evidence of justice, equity, dignity, respect, opportunity, gentleness, holiness, solidarity, honesty, simplicity, care for creation, and a decrease in ambition, then we will know that God’s kingdom is being served. We will be doing what we are supposed to do.

Becoming Bread: October 28th - 30th. Cost $220

Imagine for a moment the different ingredients that go into a loaf of bread. The different steps to make sure the bread turns out just right, including the kneading, waiting and going into the fire. The enticing aroma as it bakes and then finally sharing the bread with others around the table. Bread is nourishment around the world and God intends for us to be nourishment to each other. But first, we must allow ourselves to be nourished by God.

During our time together each participant will make their own loaf of bread! We will explore how they relate to our own lives, especially our faith journey in which we can become our true selves and be able to share ourselves and our gifts with our neighbor and the world around us; becoming bread for others.
