Gospel Reflection the 32nd Sunday in Ordinary

On December 10, 1979, a very petite holy woman known as Mother Teresa of Calcutta spoke these words in her Nobel Peace Prize Acceptance Speech, "But I am sure in the families and many of our homes, maybe we are not hungry for a piece of bread, but maybe there is somebody there in the family who is unwanted, unloved, uncared, forgotten, there isn't love. Love begins at home. And love to be true has to hurt. I never forget a little child who taught me a very beautiful lesson. They heard in Calcutta, the children, that Mother Teresa had no sugar for her children, and this little one, Hindu boy four years old, he went home and he told his parents: I will not eat sugar for three days, I will give my sugar to Mother Teresa. How much a little child can give. After three days they brought into our house, and there was this little one who could scarcely pronounce my name, he loved with great love, he loved until it hurt. And this is what I bring before you, to love one another until it hurts, but don't forget that there are many children, many children, many men and women who haven't got what you have. And remember to love them until it hurts."

Living authentically and walking with holiness always involves sacrifice. It has to hurt. Only actions springing from true and deep sacrifice demonstrate true integrity. Without sacrifice, even what is apparently a generous gesture can be nothing. It is no wonder that the widow who contributed from her poverty received great admiration from Jesus and the young child in our story above the interest of Mother Teresa. It is easy to make the houses of our lives look like they are in perfect order when in fact they are in shambles within. Religion can sometimes make this hypocritical masquerade easy to accomplish. We can find ourselves in all the right holy places, reciting all of the correct prayers, participating in community collections, and reciting the proper doctrines only to find ourselves empty, shallow, self-focused, and overly anxious about personal concerns.

The one who learns to discover their inner poverty, their spiritual poverty, is the only one who can truly place him or herself at the mercy of God. It is only when we allow ourselves to be empty that we realize Who we actually need to fill us. This is the real meaning of trust. Many of us are afraid to take the plunge. We allow ourselves to detach from only so much, always keeping a watchful eye on the protection of our securities. We understand the value of poverty, but we do not want to become too poor. As long as we are able to recognize this tension, our reluctance to let go and our struggle, we can continue our journey of humbly learning how to love so deeply that it hurts. God understands and waits. ©LPI

In November 1919, President Wilson proclaimed November 11 as Armistice Day, marking the end of the Great War. Today we know it as Veterans Day, when we recognize all who served our country in the Armed Forces. Here is a brief prayer which can be offered in their honor. Father, bless our veterans and all who serve our nation defending our freedom. For those who bravely gave their lives, grant them eternal rest. For those who are serving, give them courage. For those who served, we offer our gratitude. We ask this through Christ Our Lord. Amen.

A message from Deacon Norm Kocol:

When was the last time you did something for someone and experienced great joy? Over the past few years I've been bringing communion to those unable to get to church due to health reasons. It's an occasion that brings me great joy, taking Our Savior to those unable to attend mass.

John's gospel tells us of the importance of receiving the body, blood soul, and divinity of Jesus Christ. To fulfill that mission, we are looking to establish a homebound ministry to bring communion to the homebound. The training process is very short and the actual time to distribute communion is usually less than five minutes.

Many people who become homebound, permanently or temporarily, do not realize they can have communion brought to them, and it does not require a priest or a deacon. If you know of someone who desires to receive communion but is unable to, have them call the parish office. If you would like to participate in the homebound ministry, contact me directly at 815-388-4301.
