4th SUNDAY OF LENT

Joshua 5:9a, 10-12 - In the three-year cycle of the Sunday readings, we only read from the book of Joshua two times: On this Sunday of Lent, and then on the twenty-first Sunday of year B. Joshua was Moses' successor in leading the Israelites to their promised land. The book of Joshua deals with the success of the Israelites in conquering the land that was promised to them. God's faithfulness to his people is the key message from the first reading. Israelites have entered the Promised Land.

There is the Passover celebration. God wants to enter into an intimate relationship with his people. Our reading also records the first celebration of the Passover since the Israelites left Egypt. They could not celebrate the Passover while they were in the desert. This celebration of their first Passover in the promised land implies that they now have the fruits of the land and they do not have to eat quail and manna. It is a celebration of a new life.

2 Cor 5:17-21 - Paul mentions the new creation (see also Is 65:17; 66:22; Jeremiah 31:31; Ezekiel 36:26), and the old, gives way to the new (Isaiah 43:18). He develops an argument of how God reconciles sinners to himself through the death of Christ. He contrasts (1) the present age of alienation with the age to come; (2) the age of fulfillment and the age of union with God. Reconciliation is the main theme's teaching in this reading.

Reconciliation ends enmity with God. Paul is an agent of this reconciliation. His ministry (diakonia or service) of reconciliation is also his proclamation of the word.

Lk 15:1-3, 11-31 - The prodigal Son. Often times when people read/hear this gospel, the first reaction is to think of the unfortunate situation of the bad boy, and possibly to condemn him. But there is much more for reflection. Paul, and all those who are involved in the work of evangelization, are messengers of this work of reconciliation. In a special way the first ambassadors of this reconciliation are the bishops and priests who administer the Sacrament of Reconciliation.

There are three main characters in the reading: the loving father, the prodigal son who goes away from home but returns, and the other son who stays at home. The prodigal son asks for his would-be inheritance. He gets it and goes to live a life of wastefulness. Then he suffers hunger and comes to his senses so much so that he repents of his actions and decides to come home and asks for forgiveness. He acknowledges his mistakes. On return, he is well received by his father who prepares a feast for him. The father is happy that his long-lost son has come home.

The second son stays at home, obediently working. But when he hears that his brother has returned, he refuses to go in the house to welcome him. He does not even recognize him as his brother, but refers to him as "that son of yours." He does not seem willing to forgive his brother. Even his father pleads in vain for the boy to come and feast with the others. The father! He is loving and does everything to please both boys. He loved the prodigal son and gave him the inheritance he asked for. Now he loves him, forgives him, and makes a feast for him. He also tries to reconcile the two boys, even though without success. He does anything to make his sons happy in all situations.

Now, which of those characters best represents me? Do I behave like the prodigal son? When I realize my mistakes, do I ask for forgiveness? Am I like the boy who stayed home, but I am never ready to forgive those who have done me wrong? Do I reject reconciliation with others? Am I like the father? Always willing to give, to help, to welcome, to reconcile? Do I listen?

THEME: Homecoming - People of God entered the Promised Land, and there, they kept the Passover. The prodigal son came home, and was received by the father: they reconcile.

PARISH COUNCIL OPENINGS

Do you want to make an impact on our parish? Do you feel like you have ideas for the parish but not sure how to get started? Do you care about Holy Family Parish and want to see it grow? Do you want to be part of determining how the money donated in the One by One campaign is used?

Please prayerfully consider becoming part of the parish council. The council meets once a month to discuss what we can do to grow the parish, bring people back to Mass, increase the Catholic faith in our community and provide programs for children, young adults and families. We need your input! Please contact Lori Paul at (715) 587-0009 or lapatwork@yahoo.com for more information or to discuss how you can be involved.
