Pastor's Corner

We congratulate our raffle winners from our Religious Education (R.E.) Program last Sunday. The only present candidate for first communion, although there are several candidates, won one of the baskets. The other two winners were participants of the "Living Stations of the Cross." The winners seem to send a message that in "communion with Jesus" blessings abound, though, at times, the blessings appear as luck.

The appearance of Jesus for the third time happened in the very center of the life of the apostles. As fishermen, they are back to their trade, as if, some of us will normally comment, "same all, same all." But more importantly, we enter this event with our acceptance of the fact that our daily work, divided into several activities, is our participation in God's ongoing work of creation/redemption. Second, we supply our parish with "the necessary goods" for other members to benefit, both physical and spiritual ones. Last, but not least, is our manner of allowing Jesus to be part of healing us and making us more whole in following Him through others. Can we identify these "three-fold goods" within the conversations among Jesus and "the Fishers of Men" then and now?

Let the first and second readings this Sunday from the Acts of the Apostles and Book of Revelation put us in a better way to celebrate the "goods" both physical and spiritual that we have identified so far in our participation to our Lenten and Easter activities 2022. We congratulate the parents and families of our candidates for First Communion and Confirmation in their selfless support to their children and even grandchildren. ALLELUIA, ALLELUIA, ALLELUIA!!!
