THE PEACE THAT JESUS GIVES!

Today's Gospel belongs to the farewell conversation of Jesus with his disciples at the Last Supper. Judas' exit during the meal to betray his teacher officially begins Jesus' passion. Jesus will be arrested and crucified. At this moment, he informs the disciples of his departure and tries to calm their troubled hearts. He promises an Advocate who will come to take his place. The Advocate will comfort and defend them in their adversities. He will be their guide and instructor in remembering and living out all that Jesus had taught them. Jesus enjoins them to keep his words as a sign of their love for him. This comes to him and make our dwelling with him." Jesus underlines the inseparable unity between him and the Father. He tells them that his words are the words of the Father and are therefore meant to be observed.

In this farewell conversation, Jesus leaves them a precious gift, peace. Peace in Hebrew is shalom. However, its concept also means wholeness, health, safety, prosperity, and permanence.

Jesus gives peace to the disciples in a more profound way. For the world, peace means cessation of hostilities; for Jesus, peace is the knowledge that God's will is being fulfilled. This was the experience of the early Christian communities in the First Reading. Dissention and controversy resulted from the teachings of some who taught the Christians in Antioch without the instructions of the Apostles, and the community life of the Gentile converts. Peace for these Christian communities did not mean the absence of conflict but being able to see the pattern of God's love working in one's life. Peace is being in touch with God's ways and having the firmness to do his will. This is what gives one's sense of wholeness and permanence in discipleship.

Time & Talent Auction final numbers have been completed and we have profited $14,662.27.

Thank you to ALL bidders, donors, area businesses, those that baked and donated desserts in memory of Mary Naumann and anyone who helped in the success of the 2022 St. Louis Time and Talent Auction. The Time & Talent Committee greatly appreciates the effort and contribution of so many! We are very blessed to have such outstanding support from this community!

Thank you very much,
