Welcome to the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception!

On behalf of our bishop, the Most Reverend Thomas John Paprocki, our parishioners, deacons, and priests, we welcome you to the mother church of the Diocese of Springfield in Illinois.

The seat of the diocese was moved to Springfield from Alton in 1923. In the same year, "Old St. Mary's" church of Immaculate Conception Parish was named as the pro-cathedral of the new diocese until this cathedral church was built and dedicated in 1928. Currently, our diocese comprises twenty-eight counties in central Illinois, serving over 140,000 members of the Catholic faithful.

We hope that your visit to our Cathedral is one of grace and beauty and that you feel at home in the mother church. We also hope that you will find this edition of the Cathedral Weekly to be both informative and spiritually enriching. May God bless you and yours!

Diocesan Victim Assistance is available. For the Diocesan Victim Assistance Coordinator, please call 217-321-1155.

Please remember that if you or a loved one is in the hospital, a nursing home or home-bound, to contact the Parish Office or Sr. Francella at 217-522-3342 x 142.

Remember That You Are Dust

"YOU ARE DUST!" Those words still ring in my memory! They were the first three words a priest used in a Day of Recollection conference on Ash Wednesday my first year in the seminary. The enthusiasm with which he yelled those words were startling, to say the least. I honestly cannot remember anything else he had to say during his talk, but I will never forget those first three words.

These are the words that the Church's ministers will be speaking (hopefully in a less startling way) this coming Wednesday as we begin our Lenten journey of 40 days toward Easter. To be exact, the words the Church gives us are these: "Remember that you are dust, and to dust you shall return." It is a sobering reminder to one who receives the ashes, and I can tell you that it is likewise humbling to speak those words to others as I sign them with the ashes, an outward sign of our inner resolution to repentance.

This year, however, will be different from our experience of Ash Wednesdays in the past. We have grown accustomed to adapting certain aspects of our liturgies in the midst of a global pandemic, and Ash Wednesday is no exception. The Holy See has instructed that instead of saying the words for each person, the priest celebrant will say the words only once as he speaks to the entire congregation present. Then, after sanitizing his hands and donning a mask, he will distribute ashes to the faithful. Even that will take on a form unfamiliar to most of us. Instead of marking the forehead of each individual, the instruction is to impose ashes on the top of the head by sprinkling, which requires no touching of the person.

The fact of the matter is that this is actually how ashes have been traditionally imposed, and much of the world still imposes ashes through sprinkling. There is no outward sign that you have attended Mass, as those ashes are hidden from the view of others. After all, does not the Gospel for Ash Wednesday seem to support this:

But when you fast, anoint your head so that you may not appear to others to be fasting, except to your Father who is hidden. And your Father who sees what is hidden will repay you. (Matthew 6:17-18)

So instead of seeing this as a negative change, let us see it as an invitation to purify our motives when it comes to the beginning of our Lenten journey. The ashes we receive (and in fact everything we do during Lent) are not for others to see. Sure, Lent is a time for us to commit to living lives of more intentional charity toward others. But Lent is first and foremost about our relationship with the Lord, and our need to turn back to Him. We should be far more concerned about our hearts being open to receiving His healing mercy, a healing that takes place in the hidden relationship we have with Him. When the Father alone sees that hidden desire, He will bless us with the reward of His grace, a grace that will overflow in mercy toward others.

Father Alford is the Rector of the Cathedral and serves in the diocesan curia as the Vicar for Clergy, Consecrated Life, and Vocations.

Mortal and Venial Sin

As we try to grow in holiness through the reception of the Sacrament of Penance, it is helpful to know what we are confessing. There are two types of sins that we can commit: mortal and venial. While some may think that this language is too old-fashioned, it actually comes straight from scripture and is relevant to our spiritual life. Let's take a look at what the Apostle John wrote about mortal and venial sin.

"If anyone sees his brother sinning, if the sin is not deadly, he should pray to God and he will give him life. This is only for those whose sin is not deadly. There is such a thing as deadly sin, about which I do not say that you should pray. All wrongdoing is sin, but there is sin that is not deadly" (1 John 5:16-17).

The words "mortal" and "deadly" are synonyms. There are certain sins that we can commit that are deadly for our spiritual life. This means that when we commit a mortal sin, the divine life of God which was ignited in our soul through baptism is extinguished. The Church teaches that someone who dies in the state of mortal sin, that is, without ever repenting of that sin, has chosen to go to hell through their own free will. Most of the sins that we commit are considered "venial," which means small or slight.

To commit a mortal sin, three conditions must be fulfilled. First, the action done must be objectively very bad. It's impossible to compile an exact list of mortal sins, but it's commonly understood that the Ten Commandments are examples of grave or serious sins. St. Paul often lists sins in his letters, such as in his letter to the Galatians. "Now the works of the flesh are plain: fornication, impurity, licentiousness, idolatry, sorcery, enmity, strife, jealousy, anger, selfishness, dissension, factions, envy, drunkenness, carousing, and the like. I warn you, as I warned you before, that those who do such things shall not inherit the Kingdom of God" (Galatians 5:19-21.) While some mortal sins are obvious, like murder and adultery, some are actually not universally known. One example of this is that missing Mass on Sunday is a very serious sin for Catholics which could exclude them from the Kingdom of Heaven. Of course, during COVID time, most bishops have lifted the obligation to attend Mass. However, without a good reason such as sickness, Catholics are normally obligated to attend Mass on Sundays and Holy Days of Obligation. To miss Mass on Sunday is to directly disobey the Third Commandment: Keep holy the Lord's Day.

The second condition for something to be a mortal sin is that the person must have knowledge that the sin is serious. There are many things that we should know are wrong because of our instinct as human beings. However, some things are not so clearly understood or universally known. The example I used in the above paragraph is once again applicable. The unfortunate fact is that some Catholics do not know that they are required to attend Mass on Sunday. If someone truly does not understand this, through no fault of their own, then missing Mass would not be a mortal sin.

The third condition for an action to be a mortal sin is that it be completed with the full consent of someone's will. Sometimes through addictions or other outside influences, someone's ability to consent to an action can be substantially lessened, and thus would not be a mortal sin.

The only regular way for mortal sins to be forgiven is through the reception of the Sacrament of Penance. If we have committed a mortal sin, we should never receive Communion without first confessing this sin in the sacrament of Penance. This is to ensure that we receive the Eucharist worthily and avoid causing more spiritual harm to ourselves.

We should never despair of God's mercy, no matter how often we may fall into sin. He desires so much to have us reconciled to him. The point of discussing the reality of sin is not to make us despair or be discouraged but to help us to grow more intentionally in the spiritual life. Let us run into the Father's open arms of love and return to him with our whole hearts through the sacrament of Penance!

Father Dominic Vahling is a newly ordained priest. He serves as parochial vicar at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception and as co-chaplain of Sacred Heart-Griffin High School.

Seven Holy Founders: Victory in Numbers

Feast Day: February 17th (in 2021, Ash Wednesday trumps their celebration)

Florence, in the 1200s, is quickly becoming the richest and most powerful city on the Italic peninsula. It has begun minting its own currency, the Florin, which would dominate European markets for a century. But, the city is also divided. The city's most famous inhabitant, the poet Dante, would be exiled from his beloved city at the end of this century for his membership in the losing sect of the white-Guelphs. It would take centuries of street fighting, then bull-fighting, and now horse racing (the bi-annual palio still sends 10 horses careening around the central piazza of the city every year) to keep all the various sections of the city civil with each other.

But, we're here to meet seven gentlemen: Alexis, Amadeus, Hugh, Benedetto, Gherardino, Boufiglio, and Giovanni. If you did not know Florence was in Italy, their names might seal the deal! They are middle-aged merchants in Florence: two with families, two already widowers, the rest still leaving behind (or perhaps very content staying in) their well-to-do youth. They are Christians from their Italian heritage, but living during the morally troubled, heresy ridden, mid-1200s (probably a heresy you haven't heard much about: Catharism – basically saying that our bodies are bad. This comes around under different forms every century or two, and has been very wrong ever since ... oh, when God created us "very good"...). They are members of a guild of cloth merchants, which has made them friends, and made them traders of the wool fabric Florence was famous for.

They could have just as well become renowned and rich like another cloth merchant, Francesco Bernardone, almost did in Assisi just 50 years before. But, as the Magna Carta becomes the law of the land in England (1215); as the Mongols sweep in from Asia, defeating cities across Russia (1223), demolish Hungary and Poland (1241), capture Baghdad (1258), and threaten all of Europe; and, as Thomas Aquinas writes his Summa Theologicae (1265), our Lady chose these men for a very different path.

They decided to join a spiritual guild, the Confraternity of the Blessed Virgin – what we might now call a men's-group – joining their friendship by religious, not merely mercantile, bonds. They were guided by a holy priest, (maybe a Dominican priest, Pietro of Verona, who would later be martyred by those heretical Cathari) in any case his role was quickly overshadowed by advice from someone rather closer to God: our Mother Mary. She appeared to these seven normal, working, but praying men, and called them to the same thing she knows is essential for all of us: prayer, penance, perseverance in the faith.

They could have done that as merchants, maybe. But as they drew closer to God, and meditated more and more on the 7 sorrows of Mary, they found Florence to be louder, and less wholesome, and less rich than it seemed before. Piles of florins do not seem nearly as glamorous when God offers you heavenly treasure; business relationships seem pretty shallow when the Lord offers you His mother; and the busy-ness and delights of 13th century Florence paled in comparison to the offer of doing God's work.

And so, they began a penitential life. They provided for their families – however much that entailed – and then eventually formed a community and built a hermitage out in the mountains outside the city. They took up the black habit, the rule of St. Augustine, and became the Servites.

They also became saints.

Fr. Dominic Rankin has been entrusted with the work of chaplain of our diocesan men's group, the Legion of Valor now for almost 2 years. It is such awesome work to care, and lead, and pray with dozens of great men and fathers from around the diocese. We pray morning prayer together every morning. Many of the men see each other regularly in small-groups around the diocese. And we all join together in brotherhood and formation at least quarterly. That all sounds ordinary, but the same things made the seven-holy-servite-founders saints.
