A Message from Fr. Augusty

II Sunday of Lent - Genesis 22:1–2, 9–13, 15–18;

Romans 8:31–34; Mark 9:2–10

The apostles were seeing Jesus every day. They talked and ate with him. They were sleeping under the same roof at night or resting during the day under the shade of the same tree. They laughed together, shared with him all their concerns. Jesus was one with them though they knew him as their master. But something special happens on Tabor and their eyes were opened. All of a sudden they know who Jesus is. He is the Son of God. They see him immersed in the light, the color of his clothes were changed. His face is transfigured. Tabor becomes a place of a new manifestation of our Lord, a place of truth, a place of amazement, a place of joy, a place where the apostles wanted to stay forever. Yes, the air that they breathe there is really different than anywhere because it carries the very perfume of the presence of God. All is peace there, all is calm there and they feel heaven. They forget everything, the fear, the doubts, the weaknesses and the hardships of everyday. It is nice to stay there. They cannot think of anything else other than building a tent: Even they themselves feel transfigured and do not want to go back to their usual lives. Yes, this is what one feels when one is in the presence of the Lord. All that worries and troubles you disappears in the presence of God. You feel heaven within you because heaven is the presence of God. It is faith that brings heaven into oneself and where there is faith there is no fear, no worries and no anxieties!

But the Father said: “Listen to him!” And Peter, James and John, want to listen to Jesus. After the transfiguration everything returns to being as before and the Lord alone remains with them. The moment of Tabor is over and the journey that they now have to make is not easy because it takes them to another mountain, to Mount Calvary. This is a prototype of our lives too. There are times in our lives that everything is calm, quiet, the sun shines and love triumphs in us and in our relationships. Life seems like a walk in the spring and we may wish that this be the only season in our lives. But we must go forward; we must go down to the valley of real life, carrying the burdens of our lives on our shoulders, to reach where our Lord wants us to be. We are certain of one thing; there, near Calvary, is the garden of resurrection. We too will reach there following Jesus day after day. We will reach there and we do not have to plant anything there because he ensures that it is ready-made for us. He will never ask us to leave because we are at home. Yes, our life is a journey that has the experiences of Mount Tabor: a feeling that we have when we are in communion with our God. The force that comes from that communion gives us the strength to carry our crosses and to go down to the valleys of our lives and go up to the ‘Calvary’ of our lives. This communion is what is bringing us to the garden of the Resurrection.

But, if you're there on Tabor, thanks to this experience of God in your life, thank him and praise him. Bless his love that raised you and wrapped you in a new light. But be ready to leave that place because Jesus is the first to come down from that mountain. Do not even think of leaving that mountain all by yourself, remain close to him and remember that Tabor was good because he was there and it is his presence there that made the difference. Come down along with him and share with him the path of pain, misunderstanding, rejection, betrayal and death. Going down you will bump into many difficulties of everyday life, diseases, pain and death, but remember he is with you. The beautiful experience of Tabor will give you the strength to climb ‘Calvary’. Follow Jesus with courage! Enjoy the moments of Tabor with him. Enjoy every moment of the peace, the joy, and the light of being with Jesus. Being with Jesus is always good whether it is on Tabor or on Calvary because it is always good to be with one whom we love and one who loves us. His love can transfigure us and we can let others see him in us.

Prayer: Lord Jesus, after the call to repentance and conversion, today you let me foretaste the glory of the resurrection. Today you are taking me with you on Tabor and you are showing me your light that defeats all darkness. You who are greater than everything concealed in the form of a human being, you let me know that God can be concealed in me too. It assures me that you have prepared for me a future full of hope. It is true, it is already here. You make me taste a bit of heaven! Thank you Jesus! So today I ask only one thing: like on Mount Tabor, let me stand beside you! I know every day is a climb, is a walk with difficulty. But I would be unfair to you if I did not thank you for both this and for the moments of serenity and peace that you always give me. Jesus, by your presence in my life, you teach me to transform my weakness and my poverty. So, help me never desire anyone other than you or anyplace other than where you are. Every climb becomes easy if you are with me. Every place becomes a place of transfiguration. Every corner of darkness becomes a place of light if you stand beside me. Amen.

Smiley Corner: Saint Peter greeted a taxi driver at the pearly gates and gave him a silk robe and a staff made from gold. Next in the line was a priest but he was disappointed when he was given a cotton robe and a staff made from wood. The priest complained, “How come the taxi driver gets something better than me?” Saint Peter replied, “When you gave your sermons, it made people sleep but when the taxi driver was doing his job, people prayed”

These are the people that signed up for the Matthew 9 Mission, for the days of 25-31 of every month. They will pray the rosary for vocations to the priesthood. If you would like to sign-up, call the office.

St. Katharine Drexel

This week we celebrate the feast of St. Katharine Drexel, the second US citizen born in the United States to be canonized. Katharine was born in Philadelphia in 1858 to a pious wealthy investment banker. Her mother died a few weeks after her birth, but her father remarried two years later. Born into high society, Katharine and her two sisters were highly educated by a private tutor, yet the family also distributed food and alms three times a week to the poor. As a young wealthy woman, Katharine's highly anticipated social debut came about in 1878. However, she watched her stepmom fight cancer for three years and finally succumb to the illness. This experience struck Katharine as she realized money could not prevent pain or death. She began to see life differently and wanted to help others. From her travels around the US, she noticed the plight and destitution of many Native Americans and African Americans and was determined to help. When her father died in 1886, he left Katharine and her two sisters a $15.5 million estate (modern day $400 million). At this point, the sisters started founding and funding educational institutions and missions for orphans, Native Americans, and African Americans. Katharine, still the high society socialite, received many marriage proposals, yet also desired to join a convent. In an audience with the Pope the sisters asked for missionaries to staff their missions, but the Pope looked at Katharine and suggested she be the missionary herself. After much discernment, Katharine entered a convent, shocking the society she left. The newspapers headlined "Miss Drexel Enters a Catholic Convent—Gives up $7 million." Shortly after entering the convent, Katharine established a new order, the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament for Indians and Colored People, now known as the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament. From there, the order courageously and tirelessly worked. Under Katharine's leadership, they established 145 missions, 50 schools for African Americans, and 12 schools for Native Americans. Xavier University of Louisiana, the only historically black Catholic college in the US is among those schools. The sisters focused on education and translated the Catechism and other works into different Native American languages. The sisters, however, did meet persecution. Shortly after moving into their first convent house, the sisters found a stick of dynamite in the yard.

Another time the sisters met persecution from the Klu Klux Klan. The KKK is very anti-Catholic and anti-African American, so they really hated the sisters. They threatened to tar and feather the pastor at one of Katharine's missions. The sisters prayed for protection for the pastor, and later a tornado came, destroyed the KKK headquarters, and killed two members. They never threatened the sisters again. After giving her life and fortune to God in defense of the poor and destitute, Mother Katharine Drexel died at age 96 in 1955. She was canonized in 2000 by Pope Saint John Paul II for her love of the Eucharist, perspective of the unity of all people, courage and initiative in addressing social inequality among minorities more than 100 years before the civil rights movement, her work for quality education for all, and her selfless service, including the donation of her inheritance, for the victims of injustice. The Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament continue their mission today, but on a much smaller scale with only 100 sisters left. We have much to learn from St. Katharine. First, do we recognize the true value of money, as a gift from God, entrusted to us, to be used for His ends? Do we realize money will not buy happiness, safety, invincibility, or heaven? Would we be willing to give up a high society, posh, millionaire lifestyle to stand up for the life and dignity of the destitute, vulnerable, and forgotten? The world thought Katharine was crazy for throwing everything away for God. If we are living a life that the world doesn't think is crazy, maybe we need to reevaluate our life and see if we are willing to live totally for God. St. Katharine Drexel, pray for us!

LENTEN WEEKDAY

Today's readings: Daniel 9:4b-10; Luke 6:36-38

Mercy me!

Pope Francis called mercy the "beating heart of the gospel." Mercy is forbearance, divine favor, compassionate treatment of the distressed and undeserving. It's another word for God's love. Consider showing devotion to it by reciting the Chaplet of Divine Mercy, a rosary-based prayer that was received by Saint Faustina, a Polish nun in the 1930s, through visions of Jesus. Divine Mercy Sunday is celebrated the week after Easter, but many make the Chaplet part of their regular Lenten practice by reciting it every day at 3 p.m. (the traditional hour of Christ's death). You can find the Chaplet on the USCCB website.

"Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful."

LENTEN WEEKDAY

Today's readings: Isaiah 1:10, 16-20; Matthew 23:1-12

Celebrate humble history

Women's History Month celebrates well-known women but also unsung heroines. How appropriate, then, that today is the feast of Agnes of Bohemia, a lesser-known saint. First cousin of Elizabeth of Hungary—and descendent of Good King Wenceslaus—Agnes came upon her vocation naturally. She built a hospital for the poor, a Franciscan friary, and a monastery for Poor Clare nuns. When she also became a nun and was urged to become abbess, she referred to herself only as "senior sister." She continued to cook for her sisters and mend the clothing of lepers rather than live a royal life. Celebrate the unsung heroines in your life.

"Whoever exalts himself will be humbled; but whoever humbles himself will be exalted."

MEMORIAL OF KATHARINE DREXEL, RELIGIOUS FOUNDER

Today's readings: Jeremiah 18:18-20; Matthew 20:17-28

We have work to do

Katharine Drexel (1858-1955) is a saint for our time. Born into a successful Philadelphia banking family, she used her wealth to improve the lives of others. Her Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament devoted their lives to education of Native and African Americans, building more than 100 schools in cities, rural areas, and on reservations. Though Katharine and her sisters at times faced criticism, endured racist taunts, and were threatened by the Ku Klux Klan, they remained steadfast in their mission. Patron saint of racial justice and philanthropy, Saint Katharine epitomizes the sacrifice of the Blessed Sacrament. How will you commit your own life to making the world more just?

"Can you drink the chalice that I am going to drink?"

March 4, 2021

MEMORIAL OF CASIMIR

Today's readings: Jeremiah 17:5-10; Luke 16:19-31

Grace under pressure

Saint Casimir seemed destined for riches and power, but this patron saint of Poland, called the Peacemaker, took a different path. Born in 1458 to the king and queen of Poland, he was a devout, ascetic child. At age 14 his father had him lead an army to install himself as king of Hungary, but with an overpowering enemy and troops beginning to desert, Casimir instead returned home. His furious father exiled him, but Casimir would never again take up arms. Rejecting violence when those around you embrace it can take great inner strength. Cultivate an inner compass that can pursue peace despite pressure.

"Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD, whose hope is the LORD."

March 5, 2021

LENTEN WEEKDAY; DAY OF ABSTINENCE

Today's readings: Genesis 37:3-4, 12-13a, 17b-28a; Matthew 21:33-43, 45-46

Pray for besieged people everywhere

Prayer is our life with God. Sometimes we carve out a particular time during the day, and sometimes there are specific words, images, or experiences that help us be more aware of or express our relationship with God. And so of course during Lent prayer is one of the pillars, along with fasting and almsgiving, that help us turn to God. On today's 2021 World Day of Prayer, an ecumenical observance, we are invited to "Build on a strong foundation." This theme comes from the women of Vanuatu, an island hit by Cyclone Harold in 2020. Despite the perils they faced—and we've all faced in a year of pandemic—the message of today's prayer is one of confidence in God's steadfastness and the rock of faith. Unite in prayer for healing and recovery.

"The kingdom of God will be . . . given to a people that will produce its fruit."

March 6, 2021

LENTEN WEEKDAY

Today's readings: Micah 7:14-15, 18-20; Luke 15:1-3, 11-32

Sibling rivalry of biblical proportions

The Parable of the Prodigal Son could as easily be called the Parable of the Bitter Brother. The story might have ended with the celebration at the return of the repentant prodigal. But instead we are left to ponder the feelings of the "good son," the obedient one who followed all the rules but never got a party thrown in his honor. It's a very human story, reenacted in nearly every family in one form or another. "Mother always liked you best." "You were Dad's favorite." "All we ever did was bail you out of trouble." Will the bitter brother in the gospel story reconcile? Has bitterness or division in your own family been reconciled? Consider being the reconciler who brings it about. "Look, all these years I served you and not once did I disobey your orders; yet you never gave me even a young goat to feast on with my friends."

If there be a true way that leads to the Everlasting Kingdom, it is most certainly that of suffering patiently endured.
