From Father Matthew Miller

My brothers and sisters in Christ,

This Sunday, we celebrate the Baptism of the Lord, the final day of the Christmas Season. We can finally take down our Christmas trees, as Monday, January 10, begins the Season of Ordinary Time. We will be in Ordinary Time until Ash Wednesday.

Even though Easter is later this year (April 17), the interim time between Christmas and Lent is short; this year, 45 days separate the 2 seasons. The coming of Lent easily can catch us off guard, and we can often take up prayers and spiritual practices that are good, but may not necessarily stem from an honest assessment of our interior lives. How do we avoid such a gaffe? Well, we can start paying attention to our hearts now, in these next 45 days.

In these days, pay attention to where your heart is attached to created things. See what goes through your mind, what pervades your thoughts. Pay attention to how you spend your time. Be honest about any attraction to habitual sins. Ask yourself, "Would doing more of this make me a better person?" If the answer is no, then perhaps the Lord is inviting you to examine this behavior. As Christ says in the Gospel, "...where your treasure is, there your heart will be also." Ask yourself, what do you wish you would have done more of at the end of your life? What will you wish to have done less of? If we don't pray, if we don't allow the Lord to form our hearts in conversation with him, we'll never be able to accurately assess our interior life. If you don't pray every day, then start now.

If we pay attention to these things, then we will be prepared for Lent. Lent is a time of purification, a time where we lessen our attachment to created things, recognizing that we can't take them with us to heaven. As we, through God's grace, rid ourselves of what binds us to this earth, we further dispose ourselves to an intimate relationship with Christ.
