Usher Help Needed! Are you looking for a quick way to help out our parishes? Consider signing up as an usher! We are looking for several volunteers to assist at all our parishes. Ushering is a great way to meet new people in the community and is a small time commitment for busy families. You will only be scheduled once or twice a month at your convenience. If you are interested in helping, please contact Aana Freihammer 218-822-4040 aana.freihammer@duluthcatholic.org

Birthright Our Brainard Lakes area is blessed to have a wonderful pregnancy support service which offers help for our mothers before and after the birth of their baby. Birthright has helped in this capacity for many years and is grateful for the material and financial support of wonderful pro-life people. Our help is offered to everyone who needs support, no questions asked, and free of charge. Our volunteers receive training which equips them to assist those in need. If you are interested in joining us please call our office at 218-829-8470. Also let us know if you can help in our fair booth this summer.

Francis Catholic School The Saint Francis School Band Program is in need of school instruments for families. If you or someone you know has the following instruments to donate it would be greatly appreciated! We are in need of clarinets, trumpets, and alto saxophones. Please drop off at school office.

Pray for our youth! Our teens will be heading to Steubenville on July 7th! Steubenville is a high energy youth conference in which teens encounter Jesus through dynamic speakers, amazing worship music, the Sacraments, Mass, reconciliation, small group discussion and fellowship with other teens! These teens will return from this trip stronger in the faith, clearer about their future as Christians, and even more prepared to live as a follower of Christ! Please pray for their safety and openness to what God has to offer them.

OUR CHILDREN. OUR FAITH. OUR FUTURE.

From Father Michael Garry

This weekend we celebrate our nation's historic declaration "that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be free and independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved" (Declaration of Independence). As we reflect on our nation's founding, we would all do well to reread the Declaration of Independence. It's very short, just a page or two, and a good reminder of where our country came from. Most of it is an enumeration of a couple dozen grievances our representatives had against the British government. But this raises the question for us today: to what did they appeal to claim the actions of the British monarch were unjust? They did not appeal to supreme courts, the decisions of judges, or the law of the land—those were precisely what were at issue. They had to appeal to something else, to some higher law and law-giver, in order to argue that the laws they were under were in fact unjust and illegitimate. In the Declaration of Independence our founding fathers appealed to "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God". If we are going to preserve this union we must once again learn to appeal to "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" in our civil discourse. Enshrining something in law doesn't change its moral quality; it is moral or immoral regardless of its legal status, as we saw at our nation's founding. Another example of something enshrined in law but morally reprehensible is abortion. We are especially grateful on this Independence Day that the controversial Supreme Court decision Roe vs. Wade was overruled just over a week ago. So we know what makes something legal or illegal, but what make something moral or immoral? By what standard is morality to be judged by? Many today, either explicitly or implicitly, hold to a crass moral relativism, which states that all morality is relative to each person's private fancy. But this is obviously no way to govern a nation. The only objective measure is the laws of nature and of nature's God.
