From Father Michael Garry

For years I have felt we Catholics offer far too little formation on the sacrament of Marriage. I'm happy to say that we at least have the ball rolling on a new ministry for divorced Catholics, which is scheduled to begin sometime this fall. Given the sheer number of divorced Catholics and the scarcity of quality Catholic resources divorced Catholics can turn to, there is perhaps no ministry more needful in our day. I look forward to seeing where this ministry goes; please pray for its success and anointing by the Holy Spirit. Another serious need we have is ongoing marriage formation after the wedding day. The institution of marriage is under attack from more or less every angle. Fewer people than ever are pursuing a sacramental marriage, and among those who are pursuing it, few are equipped to get the most out of the sacrament. We don't just want surviving marriages, we want thriving marriages! But what are we doing to help couples cultivate a thriving marriage? We have in our area a number of groups called Teams of Our Lady (TOOL). TOOL is an international lay movement designed to enrich marriage spirituality and make good marriages better. Groups are 5-7 couples. They meet once a month, rotating from one home to another. They share a simple meal, prayer, and a light study topic. They also have "endeavors" each month, which couples do together to enrich their marriage. For struggling marriages (but also for marriages looking to improve in general) I have often recommended Retrouvaille (pronounced "retro-vi"). Retrouvaille is another international program that is intended for marriages in crisis or even on the brink of divorce, but can also be beneficial for any marriage. In Minnesota, there are Retrouvaille retreats in St. Cloud and at a couple locations in the twin cities. At the retreat, couples hear the stories of other couples who were on the verge of divorce. They learn practical tools to effectively communicate with each other and find a path toward healing. It is not a group-sharing event. As important as the retreat weekend itself is, equally important are the post session meetings which help couples maintain good habits and rebuild trust. Of those who have attended the weekend, 96% of couples say it was time well spent. These and other programs are available but unfortunately often go unknown. I would love to offer more to married couples here in our area. As your pastor, part of my discernment in taking the next step is hearing from people—what are your interests desires, who is willing to help, etc? The topic is wide open as far as I am concerned. Let's all pray that the Holy Spirit will guide us together as we go forward. If you'd like to offer me some feedback, you can email me at fr.michael.garry@duluthcatholic.org.
