

St. Therese of Deephaven Catholic Parish

St. Therese Parish and School is a powerful Catholic witness, committed to vibrant growth by living out Jesus Christ's call to "Go and make disciples" (Matt 28:19) through our sacramental life, prayer, catechesis, fellowship, evangelization and financial stewardship.

2ND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

There was a wedding at Cana in Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. Jesus and his disciples were also invited to the wedding. When the wine ran short, the mother of Jesus said to him, "They have no wine."

A Message from Father Andrie

St. Paul's Powerful Letter

Our readings this weekend return to Ordinary Time. Our second reading picks back up with St. Paul's First Letter to the Corinthians that began before the season of Advent. We will hear from this letter in our second reading until Lent begins (March 2).

When I read this letter, I think, "Wow! There were serious problems in that Christian community. The problems we face today are really nothing new." When reading through the letter, it feels like we are presented with all the dirty laundry in the community.

For example, before Advent we heard about divisions in the community. There were divisions or schisms with various claims of who follows whom (e.g., Paul, Apollos, Cephas, or Christ). In response, Paul calls them to be united of the same mind and same judgment (1 Cor. 1:10).

The word "united" (v. 10) in Greek has the sense of "mending," such as mending a net. Paul, then, exhorts the Christian Corinthians to be "mended" in their unity. Their divisions, in his view, are akin to tearing holes in a net so that it has little impact of catching fish (cf Lk 5:10).

Today, we are well aware that living in a community (a family) can cause friction. Sometimes this wears us down and causes friction. This is also true in a parish setting. Division results from the mentality of "our ministry" versus "their ministry." In the beatitudes, Jesus says, "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God" (Mt 5:9). One imitates Jesus when he or she looks for ways of building bridges and strives to build unity. Peacemakers will be rewarded for "mending the net."

Furthermore, early in the letter Paul presents himself as a model for the Christian Corinthians. He came not strutting about as a peacock asserting his rights, but rather in "weakness and fear and much trembling." Although greatly learned and accomplished, Paul presented the gospel in simple language. He did so to show that the gospel advances not by slick marketing, but by the power of God (1 Cor. 2:5).

Moreover, Paul reminds the Corinthians that his message is the wisdom of God, a wisdom predetermined before the ages (1 Cor. 2:7). For Paul the wisdom of God is the cross of Christ. While Christ crucified is a stumbling block to Jews and folly to Gentiles, it is the power of God and wisdom of God to those who are called (1 Cor. 1:23-24).

For Paul and those with faith, the cross is God's power and wisdom. It's power in that we see pure love. Jesus' arms are outstretched and His heart is completely given for you. It's power in that the gift of the Holy Spirit is poured out on those who respond in faith to His Love. In chapter three, Paul will remind the Christian Corinthians that they have received this Spirit (1 Cor. 3:16-17). If Paul were before us today, he would say the same thing to us! You have this gift!

In our reading today, Paul begins to counter the divisive behavior and boastful attitudes he hears about in the Corinthian Church. The diversity of spiritual gifts, forms of service, and different workings in the Church are a gift from God. God is extremely generous in the diversity of gifts that He bestows on His Church! Each gift is meant not for drawing attention to yourself, but for building up the Church. And ironically, the more you share your gift(s) with others, the more you grow in it.

Finally, Paul will conclude his letter by reflecting on Jesus' Resurrection, including its meaning and implications. Christ's Resurrection is both the foundation and first fruits of our resurrection. If Christ has not been raised from the dead, we remain in our sins and our hope of eternal life with God is dashed. Insightfully, Paul says, "If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are the most pitiable people of all" (1 Cor. 15:19).

Paul begins the letter by reflecting on the cross and concludes the letter with an exhortation on the Resurrection. Jesus' cross and Resurrection, then, frames the whole letter. In Paul's mind, all the problems facing the Christian church in Corinth can be resolved by putting on the mind of Christ and drawing from His cross and Resurrection.

Goldy the Peacemaker

For us today, we would do well to keep this in mind! How often I have read through this letter thinking and praying, "Lord, give me the mind of Christ. Help me draw from Jesus' love on the cross and give me a greater outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Fan into flame the Holy Spirit you have given me in baptism!" I invite you to take some time to read through this beautiful letter. In doing so, ask for God's power and wisdom as you work to resolve the challenges the Church faces today.

~St. Thérèse, pray for us!

Deacon John's Note

We Were Made to Need Each Other

Do you ever wonder why God didn't give us all the exact same talents when we were born? I mean it would only seem fair that all of us get to start out with the same gifts and talents, right? But in St Paul's letter this week (1 Cor 12:4-11), we hear that each of us are given different talents. This was actually God's intended plan from the very beginning. God purposely created us with different talents for a reason. Why is that?

In God's eyes, the human community is a family, or a team. He didn't create us so that we could be completely independent of others. Rather, God created us so that there would be a healthy dependence on each other. He is constantly creating opportunities for all of us to be in a position of need. God also creates opportunities for us to help each other.

Last weekend Kelly wanted a serving bowl that was on the top self of our kitchen cupboard that she couldn't reach. She asked our son-in-law if he would get the bowl down for her, which he willingly did for her. We all should be willing to provide help, and as importantly, ask for help (my struggle). Not asking for help can deprive others from doing God's work, through serving our neighbor. This is all part of God's plan for us to work together as His family.

God could have created us all to be super-heroes, with no need for help from others. Instead, we were made to need each other, so we could serve each other.

The Giraffes

The Giraffes have been very busy with the arrival of Advent, Christmas and winter weather. We had several advent wreaths and calendars in our classroom to help us prepare for Christmas. We also had the honor of helping to be a part of a school service project. We put together shower kits for those in need at shelters around the Twin Cities. We had many interesting conversations revolving around the question, "if it is Jesus's birthday, why do we get presents?" The Giraffes love the snow. Now we are celebrating a new start with the new year and a return to our classwork and routine!
