Dear Parishioners,

As human beings, wealth is a great temptation. It can fuel greed. The more we have the more we think we deserve. Wealth can convince us the rules of justice don't apply. It can convince us that we are better than others, especially the poor. The rich man in this Sunday's Gospel reading did not even notice the hungry Lazarus at the foot of his table. And even in death, even in torment, the rich man still treated Lazarus like he was a servant. He demanded Lazarus come to him with water. He demanded the Lazarus go to his bothers and warn them. He could not comprehend that Lazarus was in the bosom of Abraham. Death itself could not convince the rich man that he was no longer rich. We always must ask ourselves if we are just. Do I take advantage of people? Do I think I deserve more than some people? Do I work hard at being FAIR? Do I give when I have more than we need? Do I ask for what I need when I am in need? Do I work hard to believe that each person is no better than another and that each person has a right to respect, recognition, and courtesy, no matter what they possess?

Rev. Greg Wiest, C.Ss.R.

¡Gracias por su generosidad!

Queridos feligreses,

Como seres humanos, la riqueza es una gran tentación. Puede alimentar la codicia. Cuanto más tenemos, más creemos que merecemos. La riqueza puede convencernos de que las reglas de la justicia no se aplican. Puede convencernos de que somos mejores que los demás, especialmente los pobres. El hombre rico en la lectura del Evangelio de este domingo ni siquiera notó al Lázaro hambriento al pie de su mesa. Incluso en la muerte e incluso en el tormento, el hombre rico todavía trató a Lázaro como si fuera un siervo. Exigió a Lázaro que viniera a él con agua. Exigió a Lázaro que fuera a sus hermanos y les advirtiera. No podía comprender que Lázaro estaba en el seno de Abraham. La muerte misma no pudo convencer al hombre rico de que ya no era rico. Siempre debemos preguntarnos si somos justos. ¿Me aprovecho de la gente? ¿Creo que merezco más que algunas personas? ¿Trabajo duro para ser JUSTO? ¿Doy cuando tengo más de lo que necesitamos? ¿Pido lo que necesito cuando lo necesito? ¿Trabajo duro para creer que cada persona no es mejor que otra y que cada persona tiene derecho al respeto, reconocimiento y cortesía, sin importar lo que posea?
