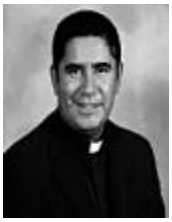
Compassion For Others



The cure of the deaf-mute is a beautiful example of the Lord's compassion for suffering humanity. He has come to help people in soul and mind and body, so that in their amazement the people cried out, "He has done everything well! He makes the deaf hear and the mute speak!" We should imitate this touching compassion by relieving the needs of our neighbor.

Compassion involves the giving of self in all the various ways in which we can help our neighbor in his need, both spiritual and temporal. Selfishness is opposed to compassion. Selfish people do not like to be disturbed. They concentrate their attention upon themselves, their possessions, their projects, their ambitions, their desires. They do not want to be bothered with other people or to have to put themselves out for them. They prefer not to get involved.

Compassion means sympathy with pain or sorrow that prompts one to help or relieve it. It is good to express such sympathy in words at the proper time; but it is far better to show in deeds that we are willing to help others in their needs of body and spirit. Of our Lord it was said that he had compassion on the multitude. He showed this by giving them bread to eat, by curing their diseases, relieving them of the domination of evil spirits, and by proclaiming to them the doctrine of salvation.

Wherever they live, all Christians are bound to show forth by the example of their lives and by the manner of their speech, the goodness, and holiness of the faith which they profess. Our witness to Christ should not be confined to spiritual actions, such as prayer and worship. We must go out in to the world of men and try to transform that world for Christ. The Christian faith is not something static, like a beautiful statue which stands only to be admired. It is as dynamic as a life-giving blood flowing in a man's arteries and veins. If it is allowed to exert its influence, it can reshape society and bring peace and order to this troubled world. Each man has a duty to give generously his time, talent, and treasure to promote their welfare.

We are all stewards of the manifold grace of God. Each of us has received his own gifts and has been given by God a special work to do according to the circumstances of our individual lives. When our lives are done, we will have to render an account as to how we have used these gifts for the glory of God, for our own benefit and for the welfare of our fellow men.

Only in this generous giving of self to noble causes can one find his own fulfillment and happiness.

Fr. Enrique GARCIA

Compasión Por Los Demás

La curación del sordomudo es un hermoso ejemplo de la compasión del Señor por la humanidad que sufre. Ha venido a ayudar a las personas en el alma, la mente y el cuerpo, de modo que en su asombro la gente gritó: "¡Lo ha hecho todo bien! ¡Hace oír a los sordos y hablar a los mudos!" Debemos imitar esta conmovedora compasión aliviando las necesidades de nuestro prójimo.

La compasión implica la entrega de uno mismo en todas las diversas formas en que podemos ayudar a nuestro prójimo en su necesidad, tanto espiritual como temporal. El egoísmo se opone a la compasión. A las personas egoístas no les gusta que las molesten. Concentran su atención en sí mismos, sus posesiones, sus proyectos, sus ambiciones, sus deseos. No quieren ser molestados por otras personas o tener que sacrificarse por ellos. Prefieren no involucrarse.

Compasión significa simpatía por el dolor o la tristeza que nos impulsa a ayudar o aliviarlo. Es bueno expresar tal simpatía con palabras en el momento adecuado; pero es mucho mejor demostrar con los hechos que estamos dispuestos a ayudar a otros en sus necesidades corporales y espirituales. De nuestro Señor se dijo que tenía compasión de la multitud. Mostró esto dándoles pan para comer, curando sus enfermedades, liberándolos del dominio de los espíritus malignos y proclamándoles la doctrina de la salvación.

Dondequiera que vivan, todos los cristianos debemos manifestar con nuestro ejemplo de vida y con la manera de hablar, la bondad y santidad de la fe que profesamos. Nuestro testimonio de Cristo no debe limitarse a acciones espirituales, como la oración y la adoración. Debemos salir al mundo de los hombres y tratar de transformar ese mundo para Cristo. La fe cristiana no es algo estático, como una hermosa estatua que solo se destaca para ser admirada. Es tan dinámico como la sangre vivificante que fluye por las arterias y venas de un hombre. Si se le permite ejercer su influencia, puede remodelar la sociedad y traer paz y orden a este mundo atribulado. Cada hombre tiene el deber de dar generosamente su tiempo, talento, y tesoro para promover bienestar de todos.

Todos somos administradores de la multiforme gracia de Dios. Cada uno de nosotros ha recibido sus propios dones y Dios nos ha dado una obra especial para realizar de acuerdo con las circunstancias de nuestra vida individual. Cuando terminemos nuestra vida, tendremos que rendir cuentas de cómo hemos usado estos dones para la gloria de Dios, para nuestro propio beneficio y para el bienestar de nuestros semejantes.

Sólo en esta entrega generosa de sí mismo a causas nobles puede uno encontrar su propia realización y felicidad.

Padre Enrique GARCIA
