DEACON'S PEN ...a word from the heart of Dcn. Vic Quiason

Isolation, even in paradise, does not get any easier. Just this past Memorial weekend, we embarked on a long-awaited family vacation. There were 12 of us headed to the garden isle, Kauai, Hawaii. My wife and I, our three sons, their wives, and the 4 grandkids. This trip was postponed from 2020, the year

COVID 19 put the world on lockdown. People have been asking if I was ready. I try not to get too excited, so I don't usually pack until the day before. I trusted that I had all the things I needed, besides if I forgot to bring it, there is a Costco and a Walmart on the island. I can always buy it when I get there.

Travel day began early Friday morning. There was a long layover in Vegas, "Sin City". Temptation abounds even in the airport. Slot machines are ever-present with their lights and sounds, enticing bored travelers awaiting their flights. With a good book, the time went by, but by the time our flight landed in Lihue, it took over 15 hours. If it's been a while since your last car rental experience, that's another story. We reserved a Camry or its equivalent but ended up with a white Camaro convertible. When I was young, I longed for a Hawaii 5-0 island-driving experience, but at our age, climbing in and out of a car is more important than the coolness factor. All these inconveniences paled in comparison to the real challenge before me. During our travel, I developed a persistent cough. Our first stop was at a 24-hour drug store for some cough medicine. When morning came, I tested positive for COVID.

For almost two and a half years, we dodged this disease, vaccines and boosters, vigilant mask-wearing, hand washing, and sanitation protocols without fail. The number of cases and mortality rate had dropped significantly since it began. Church and social gatherings resumed while a sense of normalcy, perhaps even complacency, relaxed the world's guard and cases began to creep again. COVID news fatigue has set in and people stopped listening.

Being a health care provider and ministering to people in their homes, I continued wearing a mask. Hospital and rehab facilities required it, but individuals preferred that I not wear one, and still, I insisted. I explained that I come in contact with so many people, I would not be able to forgive myself if I brought COVID to them, many of whom have medical conditions. Thanks be to God, I avoided it, until now.

Why did it happen now? I thought I did everything right and I still got it. I was mad, angry with God. How can God let this happen to me? I couldn't let those thoughts last long. I had to be strong for my family. The first two days were spent in bed. I had a bad headache, body aches, and a lack of energy. When Cathy brought nourishment, I was grateful that I did not lose my sense of taste and smell. I enjoyed a glass of POG (Passion fruit, Orange, and Guava) juice. It has a distinct aroma and flavor, part of the island experience.

By day three, my fever broke, and I was on the mend. Still, I stayed in my room. It was the primary bedroom at the house we rented. The ocean view was amazing. The island breeze kept the humidity low, and the temperatures mild, as pleasant as they could be in isolation. At first, I avoided my prayers, like a child in protest. Somehow I would relent and say them anyway. From the bed, I could hear a cacophony of different bird calls, clicking sounds of small reptiles, the gentle rain falling on the roof, the rustling leaves of the Jurassic-sized tropical plants, and the competing crows of the roosters that can't tell time.

As I started to get better, I began to witness God's goodness that was there all along. My granddaughter would sneak a wave now and again from outside my room, an unsolicited sign of love that warmed my heart. My view of the deck gave a preview, a la "A Christmas Carol", of my family when I'm gone. I usually man the grill and in my absence, my oldest son ably took charge. A sense of pride came upon me knowing how well he turned out, consoled that all will be well. My wife was my faithful caretaker who nursed me along, my contact with the outside world. As I got better, she came down with it. I now have the opportunity to reciprocate the loving care she gave me.

You can wallow in self-pity, or you can make lemonade out of life's lemons. I so looked forward to this time away. A treasured time with my family, filled with memories yet to be made. God knows us far better than we think. He knows what we need, not just what we want. It took COVID to slow me down, and take time to rest and reflect. I needed COVID to let me appreciate His presence even in darkness. God is good. All the time.

Inspiration for the week

Good dietitians will remind us that we are not only the product of what we eat but the disciplines we undertake. Many people spend a great deal of time and effort eating a healthy diet, getting a sufficient amount of rest, and engaging in regular exercise. Experts tell us that attending to these increases our chances for a longer life. While this is certainly a worthy pursuit, is our earthly life really the one that requires the most attention and effort? Faith kicks in to remind us that we are meant to live forever with God. Hence, isn't it our eternal destiny that requires most of our effort and attention? The food and nourishment we need to achieve this goal and fine tune our souls for this promised inheritance are the Body and Blood of Christ. Only this heavenly sustenance will unite us with God and our brothers and sisters, strengthen us to do what the Gospel asks us to do and prepare us for life eternal. Through the discipline of prayer, our desire to receive our Lord is deepened. It is this yearning, above anything else, that we want clearly seen and front and center when we close our eyes in death. God loves us so much that he gave us his only begotten Son. Let us rush to receive him!

SAINT OF THE WEEK

Sir Thomas More was a humanist and statesman in Tudor England. He is still widely known today as the author of Utopia. More was a prolific writer and theologian. A true martyr of the Church, he was beatified by Pope Leo XIII in 1886, and canonized by Pope Pius XI on May 19, 1935.

More was born in London in 1478, the son of Sir John More, a lawyer and judge. He attended Oxford where he studied Latin and Greek, as well as formal logic. He left Oxford in 1494 to train as a lawyer in London. After attaining the Bar, he spent time discerning a call to the priesthood. Though attracted to the Franciscan order More remained a lay Christian, continuing to fast, pray, and wear a hair shirt. He was married twice, the loving father of three daughters, a stepdaughter by his second marriage, and one son. More wrote many letters to his children when he was away on business and his daughters were known for their academic abilities, as they received the same education as his son, an anomaly at the time.

More rose to the Privy Council in 1514. He became the good friend and advisor to Henry VIII, and in 1521 he was knighted. In 1529 he was made Lord Chancellor of England. However, this appointment was the beginning of the end for the saint. He could not support the break with the Church in Rome when Henry failed to receive from the Pope the annulment of his first marriage to Katherine of Aragon to wed Anne Boleyn. More resigned as Lord Chancellor and continued to refuse to accept Henry as the head of the Church in England. Eventually he was imprisoned, tried, and sentenced to a traitor's death, to be hanged, drawn, and quartered. Henry commuted the sentence of his former friend to the more humane beheading. More was executed at Tower Hill, on July 6, 1535, before his death he famously proclaimed that he was "the king's good servant, but God's first."

Blessing of Fathers

God and Father of all creation,
we come before you today with humble hearts.

You are our model of a loving father.

When we fail and fall short of your expectations,
you are always there at the end of the day with open arms,
ready to heal the cuts and scrapes of the day and to encourage us to try again and not to give up.

We hold up these men in our midst who act in the world as fathers to their children or models of fathers for others.

Bless them in their moments of doubt and frustration with their children.

Give them warm and open hearts to forgive failures.
Provide them with the words needed for encouragement and perseverance.

We ask all this in the name of Jesus.

Amen.

The Gabriel Project KC will soon open St. Mary's House for Mothers. St. Mary's is a two-story, 15,000-square-foot house on 13 acres east of Liberty, Missouri, modeled after successful maternity homes in other cities. In March 2021, it was purchased by generous benefactors to be turned into a home for homeless, pregnant mothers and their children in the Kansas City metro area.

The Gabriel Project helps pregnant women in need and is a ministry of the Pro-Life Office in the Archdiocese of Kansas City, Kansas, and the Respect Life Office in the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph. More than linking mothers to community resources, they provide emotional, material, and spiritual support for her choice to parent or place her baby for adoption.
