Memorial of St. Katherine Ann Drexel

Dear Parishioners and Friends of Holy Angels,

This letter arrives hoping that everyone is availing themselves of the Sacrament of Reconciliation this Lent or Easter Season. The Church in Her wisdom tells us that each of us must do our Easter Duty which is to have our souls scrubbed completely clean by the Sacrament of Penance and to receive Holy Communion as well sometime in the Lenten or Easter Season which lasts this year through Pentecost Sunday, May 23.

We are very happy to hosting here at Holy Angels Church the William Baker Festival Singers again, this time for their annual spring masterworks concert. For myself, I am particularly excited to hear one of my favorite English Renaissance poet's works — in fact, that of the pre-eminent representative of the metaphysical poets — put to music. In addition to the world premiere of Kansas City composer Ed Frazier Davis' setting of John Donne's poem "At Our Last Awakening" there is much to enthrall listeners. We are singularly blessed in this time of fasting and abstinence from performing arts to have this heaven-sent concert. Listen to our own very own Director of Music, Laura Beeves, rhapsodize about this unique privilege:

The William Baker Festival Singers concert on March 14 will be a wonderful performance and well worth your time to enjoy beautiful music.

In addition to the Festival Singers, there will be an orchestra that includes a harp, cello, timpani, glockenspiel, flute, oboe, trumpet and organ.

One of my favorite pieces on the program is Requiem by John Rutter. This piece alone will include the choir, organ, harp, timpani, glockenspiel, cello, flute and oboe. The Requiem is one of John Rutter's best-loved and most widely performed choral works. The setting has texts from the Missa Pro Defunctis, the Book of Common Prayer, and the Psalms, and the seven sections meditate on the themes of life and death: prayers on behalf of all humanity, personal prayers to Christ, and, in the central Sanctus, an affirmation of divine glory.

This piece is stunning.

I hope that you will take the time to set aside now to reserve on your calendar next Sunday evening to be inspired by such musical beauty that we all need in our lives. If you have never allowed yourself an excursion into sacred classical music just to listen and allow it to soak into your conscience, you need to do so. And this concert is the perfect place to begin.

Blessings to you!

Fr. Richard McDonald

Set Apart

by Fr. Paul D. Scalia

The Church of Christ is holy. And an essential part of holiness is to be set apart. Of course, this separateness can be misconstrued and lead to a “ghetto” mentality – an isolationism and unhealthy self-focus. Nevertheless, that abuse doesn’t eliminate the use. Or the truth. Saint Peter proclaims, “you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people of his own.” (1 Pt 2:9) The Church must be distinct and to a degree separate from the world. The account of the Transfiguration (Mk 9:2-10) outlines for us the how and the why of the Church’s being set apart.

First, “Jesus took Peter, James, and John and led them up a high mountain apart by themselves.” To form His people, the Lord always draws them away from the world. Abraham, Moses, and Elijah were each called up a mountain, apart by themselves. Their apartness on the mountain signaled a deeper, spiritual distinction from the world. They were not like others; they belonged to God. So now on Mount Tabor our Lord’s Apostles and, by extension, the entire Church are set apart.

Of course, separation hurts. Nobody wants to be the odd man out. Abraham, Moses, and Elijah knew very well the temptation not to separate but to conform and fit in. The Israelites repeatedly kicked against their being different and hankered after the things of other nations. They lost their own land as a result. Thus, the constant theme of the prophets: “Be holy – set apart – because the Lord your God is holy.”

The temptation to assimilate to the broader culture is much in evidence today. If Catholics possessed a negative ghetto mentality in the past, we now suffer an almost pathological desire to fit in. We seem more concerned with getting along than proclaiming the truth. We strive to make our words more palatable than convicting. Ironically, we once remained distinct from a Christian culture with which we had much in common. Now we conform ourselves to a culture that abhors our most fundamental beliefs.

We have been set apart. We thus have to push against the temptation to adapt ourselves and our faith to the world. Like the Apostles, we must allow ourselves to be led apart by ourselves, away from the unreality of the world – no matter what discomfort, pain, and persecution that may bring.

And yet, our being set apart is not an end in itself. It is for union with God. As with Abraham, Moses, and Elijah, the Apostles are led up the mountain so that they can encounter God. On a mountain, God calls out to Abraham, gives Moses the Law, and comes to Elijah in a “still small voice.” (1 Kgs 19:12) And for the Apostles on Mount Tabor, our Lord “was transfigured before them, and his clothes became dazzling white, such as no fuller on earth could bleach them.” He brings them from the world to be with Him.

So also we detach ourselves from the world and its allurements so that we can become more attached to God and His promises. Indeed, without this purpose of separation, the detachment and sacrifices involved make no sense and soon become an unreasonable burden. Our being set apart is more for God than from the world.

Now, this applies first to our private prayer. We need to flee from the noise and news of the world in order to encounter the silence and truth of God. Unless we make the difficult ascent up the mountain by turning off the world’s distractions and temptations, our prayer will never take off. Likewise, our manner of worship should be apart from the world and for God. For us to benefit from Christ’s Eucharistic presence, the Mass must not be shaped by any of the world’s noise and superficiality.

But we do not remain at Mass. Which brings us to the final purpose of our being set apart: to return and give witness. When the great men in Scripture come down the mountain, they bring the fruit of their encounter with them. Abraham descends from Mount Moriah able to proclaim that God does not desire barbaric human sacrifice but will Himself provide the Lamb. Moses descends with the tablets of the Law of the Covenant. And Elijah returns to Israel renewed with zeal for that covenant.

The apostolic witness about the Transfiguration would be a little delayed: “He charged them not to relate what they had seen to anyone, except when the Son of Man had risen from the dead.” Still, the Apostles brought to others what they had encountered and received on the mountain. They descend from Mount Tabor able to bear witness to Christ, the Son of God. Peter would later write about “that unique declaration. . . . ‘This is my Son, my beloved, with whom I am well pleased.’” Then he adds, “We ourselves heard this voice come from heaven while we were with him on the holy mountain.” (2 Pt 1:18)

Separation, communion, and witness. These elements of holiness set the trajectory for Lent. By our mortifications and acts of self-denial we separate ourselves and declare our independence from the world. We do so with a view to encounter and be one with Christ, especially in His passion and death. When we conclude at Easter, we hope to give witness along with the Apostles saying, “We cannot help but speak of what we have seen and heard.” (Acts 4:20)

There are a lot of distractions in our lives; kids, sports, school, meetings, ministries, social media, cell phones, work, family, errands, driving, home repairs, shopping, and more! Where is God in all that? Do you take time to find Him?

We're almost halfway through Lent. How is it going for you? Have you had to do a restart? Lots of us have. Take a moment to examine and assess the distractions in your life. What are the things you need to "take a whip to and drive from the temple"?

If you haven't already, please make the Archbishop's Call to Share appeal part of your Lenten almsgiving.
