

PASTOR'S MESSAGE

Share generously and sacrificially your blessings with others around you to ease their spiritual and physical hunger. God lavishly blesses the big hearted who generously and sacrificially shares their resources with others. Jesus is asking each of us, "You give them something to eat." Today's readings tell us that God really cares about his people and that there is enough and more than enough for everybody. Studies show that the world today produces enough food grains to provide every human being on the planet with 3,600 calories a day, not counting such foods as tuber crops, vegetables, beans, nuts, fruits, meats, and fish. "The problem in feeding the world's hungry population lies with our political lack of will, our economic system biased in favor of the wealthy, our militarism, and our tendency to blame the victims of social tragedies such as famine. We all share responsibility for the fact that populations are undernourished. Therefore, it is necessary to arouse a sense of responsibility in individuals, especially among those more blessed with this world's goods." (Pope John XXIII, Mater et Magistra (1961) 157-58). It is too easy to blame God, too easy to blame governments, too easy see these things as other people's problems. But they are also our problems. That is the meaning of the Eucharist we celebrate here today. In other words, as Christians we have to commit ourselves to share and to work with God in communicating his compassion to all. God is a caring Father but He wants our co-operation. That's what the early Christians did, generously sharing what they had with the needy. They were convinced that everything they needed to experience a fulfilling life was already there, in the gifts and talents of the people around them. People of our time have to be encouraged to share, even when they think they have nothing to offer. Whatever we offer through Jesus will have a life-giving effect in those who receive it.

A Big Thanks to Céline Boisvert

It takes a special kind of person to care enough to take the time for others, to do whatever it takes to help somebody out ...so for everything you have done, for everything you have given, the cluster thanks you. Thank you for being our Faith Formation Coordinator and serving with continued faithfulness. God has touched many lives through you. With Much Appreciation.

Fr. Sunil and Cluster
