

PASTOR'S MESSAGE

The common theme of this week's readings is that our membership or belonging to the Church is the belonging to a community of brothers and sisters in Christ and consequently we are the "keepers" of our brothers and sisters and each one is important to all others in our faith community. It means that we have to be meaningfully present to and take responsibility for other people. That is why the whole of Matthew chapter 18 is a discourse on mutual relations within the Christian community and, especially, what to do when divisions arise, as must inevitably happen. The inhuman behavior against defenseless people like child abuse or spouse abuse is something about which we need to be really concerned, to the point of taking appropriate action to protect the victims. This individual responsibility in a Christian society includes, as today's readings remind us, our responsibility for each other, including the most painful obligation of watchful love of fraternal correction and the generosity to forgive and forget.

In the first reading, God tells Ezekiel that he is a "watchman for the house of Israel" to warn Israel of moral dangers. If Ezekiel refrains from speaking the word intended to convert the wicked, God will hold Ezekiel responsible for the death of the wicked. In the second reading, St. Paul points out that the love we should have for one another should be the reason for admonishing the sinner. Love seeks the good of the one who is loved. Therefore, we should admonish one another so that we may repent and grow in holiness.

In today's gospel, Jesus teaches that true Christian charity obliges a Christian not only to help his neighbors in their temporal and spiritual needs by material help and by prayer but also to correct an erring brother if his sins are public. If the erring brother refuses a one-to-one loving correction by the offended party, then try to involve more people: first, "one or two others," eventually "the church." Finally Jesus mentions the efficiency of community prayer in solving such problems because Christ is present in the praying Christian community. The whole thrust of the passage is that we should all work towards reconciliation rather than punishment.
