LETTER FROM OUR PRIESTS

Friends,

In today's readings we see that God is generous in drawing others into His mission of saving the world. To paraphrase St. Thomas Aquinas: He "delights" in having us collaborate with Him; and in collaborating with Him, we also collaborate with one another. God not only delights in allowing us to be His agents in building up His Kingdom, He delights in us doing it together. This is at the heart of being a community of disciples, of being the Church: by our shared bond in Jesus Christ and His Sacraments, we are bound together and belong to each other.

What a fantastic weekend for these readings to be placed before us! We have the opportunity to take part in Goulash Day, celebrating together after several difficult years and setbacks, we have the opportunity to support those who worship in the Extraordinary Form as it is offered in a new location for the first time in a quite a while, and we have the opportunity to hear about how we might assist brothers and sisters in need in other places through our mission appeal speakers!

Take a few moments this weekend to reflect on how God may be inviting each of us to collaborate with Him, and with one another, in building up His Kingdom. Do we have someone we need to reconcile with? Somewhere is God asking us to volunteer? A new perspective we are being invited to take? We don't have to think too grand, as Jesus assures us that even giving a brother or sister in Him a cup of cold water is enough. We belong to God, and we are our brothers' keepers. May we live that always (but particularly this weekend!).

In Christ through Mary,
Fr. Aaron
