LIVE THE LITURGY

It's important to keep our eyes open. Otherwise, we can easily dismiss things that truly require our attention. Whether it is someone needing care, a wrong that must be rectified, and injustice that must be addressed, or someone in need of a helping hand, the lens through which we view life (and even the rules by which we live) can prevent us from stopping and acting. Whether it's an obsession with being on time, a compulsion to complete tasks according to a schedule, or a rigidity with no breaking a law or fear of taking a risk, we miss daily opportunities to show mercy. We often fail in our duty to be a good neighbor, especially when it involves brothers and sisters remote from us whom we have never met. The pain of the world is our pain. God's law of love, mercy, and compassion is not something remote. It's already within us and very near. All we have to do is open our eyes and carry it out.

GOSPEL MEDITATION

We can learn a great deal from Mister Rogers. Remember him? He was the gentle soul who found his way into living rooms worldwide starting as far back as 1968. Mister Rogers' Neighborhood was beloved program that celebrated and exalted people, especially children. He taught us that we are neighbors and that everyone has a place. Everyone matters. He had a vision, born of his relationship with God that highlighted every human life's innocence, beauty, and uniqueness. To that end, he called us to be responsible for each other, saying nothing different than what Jesus said. Viewers quickly learned that life is not just about me. "We live in a world in which we need to share responsibility. It's easy to say, 'It's not my child, not my community, not my world, not my problem.' Then there are those who see the need and respond. I consider those people my heroes (Fred Rogers)." It is so easy to look the other way. After all, I'm not the one who needs to leave home out of fear and try to find somewhere safe. I am not the one who is hungry and without shelter or food. I am not the one being threatened with violence or unable to find meaningful work. The distress and agony of our neighbors are our distress and agony. We cannot walk by it with an attitude of indifference, especially if we call ourselves believers. When we no longer care, we have suffocated our souls. This is a great sin. God's law "is something very near to you, already in your mouths and in your hearts; you have only to carry it out." We all have a need to for love and acceptance. That's why Mister Rogers' television show was so popular. It spoke to something deeper, something sacred about humanity. God didn't give us his law in a book. He wrote it on our hearts. We know what we need to do. It's a matter of choice. Love is sacred. When we love another human being, especially without regard for ourselves, it is a holy moment. These moments are often missed due to our self-serving agendas and rules.

FROM FATHER STARMAN

Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

The parable of the Good Samaritan is a “shocking” story, intended to make us think about alternatives in our relationships with God and one another. It is introduced with the lawyer’s determined effort to justify himself with regard to the two great commandments: love of God and love of neighbor. Self-justification is centered on “I” and “my”: “What must I do to inherit eternal life?” he asks, and Jesus responds with two questions of his own: “What is written in the law? How do you read it?” The lawyer is quick to answer; he has all the right and holy words, can quote his source documents perfectly, and adopts the faultless theological stance of Deuteronomy 6:4-5 and Leviticus 19:17-18. But Jesus urges him from right answering to right living: “Do this and you will live.” But the lawyer continues to seek self-justification rather than truth, responding: “And who is my neighbor?” Everything is in reference to himself. But discipleship does not start with myself, with asking whom I shall or shall not love or what are the boundaries of my responsibility. At the end of the parable, Jesus will ask the lawyer another question that banishes self from center stage: “Which of these three, in your opinion, was neighbor to the robbers’ victim?” This is how our commitment to Jesus is to be defined: from the perspective of the half-dead, the fallen, the wounded, the abandoned ones, the person with whom every other character in the parable comes into either negative or positive contact.

After being ignored and avoided by the priest and the Levite, the abandoned man is approached, shockingly, by a Samaritan, a “corrupted” and despised Jew. The Samaritan is the one who did mercy. In the New Testament, “mercy” is a remarkable verb; one does mercy. In Luke’s gospel, it is used only in reference to Jesus in this parable and that of the Prodigal Son. In Hebrew, “mercy” derives from the word for “womb,” and in Greek it has the sense of the gut feeling that embraces the situation of another. The implication of these gospel references is that we can be compassionate only in Jesus, who makes flesh the creating, sustaining, and birthing love of God. This is what the Samaritan does.

To go on to Jericho or back to Jerusalem to find lodging for himself and the half-dead traveler was a further act of the Samaritan’s brave compassion. Palestinian inns hardly offered five-star accommodation, especially if you arrived with a battered body slung over your donkey’s back! Jesus’s listeners might well imagine that the morning after the Samaritan’s vigil with the patient there could be a thankless awakening when the traveler found himself ministered to by a Samaritan. After all, how would we feel about being helped by someone whose sexual, racial, political, or social status we find extremely distasteful? And are we, ourselves, ready for the sometime thankless responses after long nights of our ministries?

The innkeeper is told to take care of the man and given the resources to do so until the Samaritan returns, when the innkeeper will be repaid for anything he has spent on the care of the wounded one. In this sense, Jesus is telling us, as well as the lawyer, that we are all innkeepers, entrusted by Jesus with the care of the wounded, asked to respond to the prophetic call that sounds through the centuries. Jesus shouts most loudly at us — “I desire mercy, not sacrifice” (Matt 9:13)—until his return at the end of human history when we will be repaid for our compassion, or lack of it.

Ad multos annos!

Pastor

Natural Family Planning Awareness Week is July 24th - 30th this year! This is a national educational campaign. In the upcoming weeks we will be sharing basic supportive materials. The dates of Natural Family Planning Awareness Week highlight the anniversary of the papal encyclical Humanae Vitae (July 25) which articulates Catholic beliefs about human sexuality, conjugal love, and responsible parenthood. The dates also mark the feast of Saints Joachim and Anne (July 26), the parents of the Blessed Mother. Pope Francis has designated that feast as World Grandparents Day, a fitting commemoration during National NFP Awareness Week!
