As you probably know, we are currently without a staff person for Religious Education and/or Youth Ministry, as well as being a 2-priest parish instead of 3. The importance of the youth & children ministries cannot be overstated. Our youth and children are the future of the Church, and they need loving, faith-filled adults who show up and invest in their lives on a consistent basis.

We are looking to find a volunteer coordinator for religious education, and one for youth ministry. The volunteer coordinator could be more of an organizational role, rather than a hands-on one, if you preferred. For youth ministry, it could be something that a couple of people step into and lead. If you would like to see a "job description" of what we are looking for, please contact the parish office or email Jennifer at jmwallwey@archomaha.org In addition to this – if you would be interested in being a youth sponsor (help with youth group & events for our 7th-12th graders) and/or a religious education teacher, we need those roles as well!

Thank you for your prayerful consideration.

18TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FROM FATHER STARMAN

Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

Failures in big business enterprises, ups and downs on the stock exchange, court cases about disputed family inheritances: economic issues hit the headlines in our mass media and so often intrude tragically into the lives of hardworking, hard-saving people. When the annual lists of the world's richest individuals and nations are published, the discrepancy between the top and bottom rungs of the economic ladder may raise our eyebrows if not, unfortunately, our consciences. It is often said that it would profit us if we read the Scriptures with a Bible in one hand and the daily newspaper in the other, discerning how the words and deeds announced by both are related.

The gospel this weekend begins with a question to Jesus from a man in the crowd who tries to draw him into an inheritance dispute with his brother. The Mosaic teaching of Numbers and Deuteronomy is clear (Num 27:1-11; Deut 21:15-17), and Jesus refuses the role of interpreter, only cautioning his questioner about greed. Nor does Jesus refer to the tough words like that of the Preacher (Qoheleth) in the first reading from the wisdom book of Ecclesiastes. Only once every three years do we hear this sobering voice proclaim, "Vanity of vanities! All things are vanity!" "Vanity" in Hebrew can mean "vapor," a transitory, fleeting breath—and material wealth is like this. Jesus chooses to make his point as a storyteller, putting imaginative flesh on wisdom teaching with the parable of the Rich Fool.

The man is introduced as already rich, with a surplus harvest. He does not see that this blessing is from God, nor of the Jewish religious tradition and human prudence that demanded he make provision for himself and his whole community in case of any famine that might follow years of plenty. His "retirement plan" is a self-centered recital of "I will, I will, I will," well-punctuated by references to "my." The rich man considers that he owns everything: crops, barns, grains, and even his own soul. In a culture where a transaction at a street stall involved long and animated discussion between buyer and seller, the inappropriateness of such self-talk would not be lost on Jesus's audience. Likewise, it was expected that important decisions would be made in community, but this man has no one with whom he can or wants to talk—no family, cronies, advisers. His calculated option is to make and live in an isolated and alienating vacuum. This cannot be the option of Jesus's disciples.

Ironically, the parable uses the prophetic language of "tearing down" and "building up" (Jer 1:10), but in a sadly cheapened context. The rich man is the opposite of the courageous prophet who does this in the name of and for the purposes of God. Tithes and offerings were set aside in landowners' barns for the priests and Levites to collect, but for this man, barns are just for hoarding. For the early Christians, the storage barns of the community were to be the mouths of the poor (Rom 15:25-28) and the collection for the poor of Jerusalem. A contemporary and tragic irony persists with the silos that are stocked with nuclear "abundance" or "deterrence" while many of those living almost in their destructive shadows are hungry and disadvantaged. Closer to home, perhaps our Christian families, parishes, or communities need to have annual "disciple-ship garage sales" to dispose of our surplus and give the profits to those in need.

Ad multos annos!

Fr. Bernard Starman
Pastor

Anointing of the Sick

In the Church's Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick, through the ministry of the priest, it is Jesus who touches the sick to heal them from sin – and sometimes even from physical ailment. His cures were signs of the arrival of the Kingdom of God. The core message of his healing tells us of his plan to conquer sin and death by his dying and rising. The Rite of Anointing tells us there is no need to wait until a person is at the point of death to receive the Sacrament. A careful judgment about the serious nature of the illness is sufficient. The Pre-Vatican II teaching was different in that the Sacrament of Extreme Unction was to be administered as close to the point of death as possible. Vatican II doesn't completely reverse the previous teaching, but it does provide the opportunity for individuals to experience God's grace and mercy earlier in their physical, mental or spiritual struggles. When the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick is given, the hoped-for effect is that, if it be God's will, the person be physically healed of illness. But even if there is no physical healing, the primary effect of the Sacrament is a spiritual healing by which the sick person receives the Holy Spirit's gift of peace and courage to deal with the difficulties that accompany serious illness or the frailty of old age. The point of all this is we are asking people to not wait until the last minute to call for a priest to come and anoint them or a family member or friend.

WORD OF LIFE: JULY 31, 2022

"A woman with an unexpected pregnancy may have any number of fears and challenges: facing judgment from her friends and family, losing her job or housing, or being abandoned by the father of her child. Following Mary's example, we can ask ourselves how to better know these mother, listen to them, seek understanding, and help them obtain the necessities of life for themselves and their children."
