MESSAGE FROM THE PASTOR

BLESSED ARE THEY WHO FOLLOW
THE LAW OF THE LORD

Today's Gospel continues Jesus' "Sermon on the Mount." Like other teachers (Rabbis) in his day, he comments on the Law of Moses, the heart of which we know as "The Ten Commandments." Moses had received the Law from God and no part of it was to be changed. Jesus teaches with the authority of God himself: "But I say to you..." His comments on what we know as the fifth, sixth and eighth commandments take us beyond the mere letter of the law to the values each one enshrines: human life and dignity, sexual purity in thought and action and the indissolubility of marriage, honesty and the integrity of one's word.

Monsignor
Michael J. Gorman

Today is World Marriage Day. This observance is meant to highlight the fundamental importance of marriage in the life of the Church and society in general. The Church defines marriage as a "covenant by which a man and a woman establish between themselves a partnership of the whole of life...which is ordered by its very nature to the good of the spouses and the procreation and education of offspring." (Cf. Canon 1055, §1) Pope Francis, in his 2016 Post-Synodal Apostolic Exhortation Amoris Lætitia, states: "With inner joy and deep comfort, the Church looks to families who remain faithful to the teachings of the Gospel, encouraging them and thanking them for the testimony they offer. For they bear witness, in a credible way, to the beauty of marriage as indissoluble and perpetually faithful." (n. 89)

Although the secular culture seems to have abandoned this marriage ideal, Pope Francis goes on to say: "In order to avoid all misunderstanding, I would point out that in no way must the Church desist from proposing the full ideal of marriage, God's plan in all its grandeur." (n. 307) If the Church were to abandon this ideal, knowledge of God's plan for marriage would soon be forgotten.

Probably no marriage is ideal. This is because human beings are not perfect. Nevertheless we are bound by the law of Christ. Pope Francis says: "For the law is itself a gift of God which points out the way, a gift for everyone without exception; it can be followed with the help of grace." (n. 295) Grace is the key, which is why Christ raised marriage to the dignity of a sacrament.

Sometimes, however, marriages fail. This is always sad and affects every member of the family. When a husband and wife can no longer live together, the Church even permits divorce in order to protect the civil rights and obligations of family members. Nevertheless, in keeping with Christ's teaching in today's Gospel, divorce does not dissolve a valid marriage bond and the parties are not free to enter another marriage. However if the marriage is found to be "unlawful"—to use Jesus' words in today's Gospel—or "invalid" according to the Church's criteria today, the parties can be free to enter another marriage. The process for making this determination is the responsibility of a diocese's matrimonial tribunal and the result may be a declaration of nullity.

The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops has a website called, "For Your Marriage." You can find it at <foryourmarriage.org>. I invite you to check it out. A page that is helpful regarding the Church's teaching on the indissolubility of marriage, separation, divorce and declarations of nullity is at <foryourmarriage.org/divorce-and-healing-ministry>.

Pray the Rosary this week for the families of our parishes, especially those who are experiencing any kind of turmoil. As always pray for peace and the safety of military personnel serving abroad.

May God bless his people with peace.
Monsignor Gorman

Hello Everyone!

Alexis Pomietlo

Between our two parishes last Saturday, a group of 16 children received their first ever absolution in the Sacrament of Reconciliation. This occasion led me to reflect upon my own experience with this sacrament, and how my understanding and approach to it has evolved since that first confession at age seven.

For the majority of us, the idea of uttering our sins aloud to someone else is probably right up there with public speaking. It can be tempting for us as Catholics to see Confession as a once-a-year responsibility that we have to check off around Easter or Christmas. There's a natural sort of resistance to making ourselves vulnerable. But we know that vulnerability is a necessary component of any genuine relationship, be it romantic, familial, or otherwise. I challenge you to come at this sacrament with fresh eyes, and see it as the great gift that it is.

We have been given such an incredible opportunity to receive God's resurrecting grace, and hear those psychologically healing words: "I absolve you from your sins". Shortly before my own first reconciliation, my mother performed a demonstration for me involving a string. She told me to imagine myself on one end, and God on the other. "When we sin", she said as she pulled up the scissors, "it's like you're cutting the string between you and Him. God still loves you just as much as He ever did, but sin damages your relationship with Him, and cuts you off from His life-giving grace. However", she continued, "when we go with a humble heart to the sacrament of confession and ask for God's forgiveness we re-tie that string". As she knotted the string, she pointed out that now the two ends of the string were actually closer together. It's through our vulnerability and trust in the Lord's providence in giving us this sacrament, that we strengthen our relationship with God. Holding yourself accountable by scheduling a monthly confession is a wonderful way to take a gut-check on where you stand in relationship to Him, and to grow in trust as you embrace vulnerability.

Peter's Patter

St. Peter Catholic School

Hello from the third-fifth classroom.

Now that the fun of Catholic Schools week is behind us for another year, we were back to our normal routine. In math the third graders finished a chapter learning the last of the basic division facts. The next topic they will be learning about is fractions. The fourth graders worked on factors. They realized this week that the better they know their multiplication facts the easier this concept was. In fifth grade math, they practiced multiplying mixed numbers and finding the area of a rectangle.

Religion class had the third graders reading about the birth of Jesus. We reviewed the Annunciation and the Nativity. The fourth graders read about John the Baptist and the Baptism of our Lord.

Finally, in Wisconsin history the third and fourth graders read about the different treaties that were written between the US government and the Native Americans living in our state and even tried their hand at writing their very own treaties. The fifth and sixth graders read about the Ancient Indus Valley civilization in India and the caste system they developed. In science the third and fourth graders learned about the moon and its phases and the fifth graders reviewed matter, its states and its many properties.

Have a good week!

Teacher Heather Weimert

Soup in the Gathering Space, Mission talks in the church.

Many of the greatest spiritual questions (and the hardest to answer) revolve around the struggle to maintain faith in a loving God, or God at all, in the midst of suffering. Perhaps there is no greater factor in how our relationship with God develops than our struggle to make sense out of our pain and suffering.

Pam comes to us from Birchwood, WI, by way of Menomonie, where she served for 20 years in parish ministry as Youth Director and then Adult Formation Director. She and her husband Gary have two adult children, Sean-Patrick and Meghan.

Eucharistic Revival - A minute with Jesus

We can always deepen our understanding and devotion to this great mystery of Jesus' true Presence in the Eucharist.

17) Jesus wants to strengthen our faith that He is the “living Bread from Heaven.” Sometimes, my mind begins to wander at Mass because I only see bread and wine. Jesus, reveal to my heart the truth that this is really You present, under the appearance of bread and wine. Let's pray this right now and every day this week: Jesus, help me to believe the truth that You are truly present in the Holy Eucharist.

This week, read the explanation that Jesus gives that He is the “living Bread from Heaven” in John 6: 48-51.
