Our Journey with Christ

Dear folks,

Happy Word of God Sunday!

This Sunday Pope Francis has designated as “Word of God Sunday”—a day to celebrate the gift of God’s revelation to the Church. The Bible is one of the most misunderstood elements of Christianity. Allow me to do a short summary of our belief about the Bible. As Catholics, we believe that the Bible is the definitive revelation of God. But who made that decision? We don’t believe that God wrote the Bible on stone tablets or papyrus and gave to Moses or any one else. Rather, through the Holy Spirit, God inspired human authors to write the books of the Bible. In the first centuries of the Church, the Church used the Greek translation of the Old Testament that was in circulation within the Jewish communities. This translation, called the Septuagint, includes the 46 books we still have in the Bible today. As the important figures in the Church including Apostles and Evangelists wrote their books in the first two centuries, the Church accepted the 27 books of the New Testament. In accepting the Gospels, Acts of the Apostles, Letters and the Book of Revelation, the Church made the claim that other books were not divinely inspired and revealed. Fast forward to the time of the Protestant Reformation, many of the Reformers rejected the inclusion of 7 books and parts of other books in the Bible because at the time there were not Hebrew versions of the books available. The Church rejected the Protestant claims that these were not divinely inspired texts because the New Testament authors knew and used these books in their own writings, and the Church had been using these texts for over 1500 years.

We finish this coming Thursday at Saint Boniface the meetings of site councils for each parish, beginning with a forty-five minute open meeting starting at 6:00 PM. The purpose of the open meetings is to simply allow people to share thoughts, ideas, hopes and dreams. If you plan to share at these meetings, I would ask that you prepare your thoughts in the most constructive manner possible. It can be too easy to share negativity which helps no one other than oneself. We are trying to work together to fulfill Christ’s mission that He gave us. Please pray about what you would share and how you can build up this local community. I look forward to our gathering.

COVID is once again changing our realities. This weekend Bishop Kettler is announcing a temporary return to masks and attention to the needs of others as we gather. Once again I beg you to practice basic Christian charity. I beg you to think about what another person might be experiencing—even if you disagree with his/her fundamental approach—and look to see the face of Christ in the other. I encourage you to speak to your medical doctor about what is best for you. We must as Christians act differently from what we see others doing.

Please continue to pray for all of our frontline workers—including our teachers, school staff members and our ministry leaders. During these days of the year, let us welcome Christ’s love and share it with each and every person we meet. We never know what another person is experiencing, so let them experience His love from us. Let’s pray for one another.
—Father Matthew
