FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Jesus exemplifies fortitude, the virtue that enables one to endure difficulties for the sake of good. He was confident in the face of danger and death (Luke 9:51). He was confident and did things with excellence (Matthew 8:23-27). He spoke of building a kingdom greater than that of earthly means (Mathew 28:19). He demanded complete surrender of one's material goods for the sake of discipleship (Matthew 19:21). He endured the passion and cross of crucifixion for our sake (Hebrews 12:2). And he suffered torture and death without complaint (Isaiah 53:7).

When we looked at the virtue of prudence, we saw how there are different ways prudence is lived in different settings: self-direction, home-direction, statecraft, and military operations. Fortitude is not divided in this way, because its object is bravely facing dying in battle for a good cause. Fortitude has to do with adhering steadfastly to what is reasonable and right with respect to what is dangerous, no matter whether one is alone or in groups.

There are integral virtues that help to bring perfection to the acts of fortitude in us, those that help in the suppression of fear and the curbing of recklessness: magnanimity, munificence & magnificence, patience, and perseverance. These are prerequisites to preparing to exercise the virtue of fortitude in the face of severe danger.

Magnanimity is natural confidence and love of excellence in deeds. It seeks greatness and honor for good reason, a greatness of spirit to grow in all the virtues. One who is magnanimous is able to overcome fear of what others will think and to not complain about trials and difficulties.

Munificence is the virtue that inspires one to greatness in the construction of external things. This person is generous and sees the potential of greatness in a circumstance when others are focused on what will fail.

Magnificence is the virtue which moderates the love of money so that man is ready to incur great expense in necessary external works. This person sees money at the service of the good, not the good in itself to be gained. The investment in greatness of the end result is greater than the fear of failure. This person may give up all for the sake of the kingdom.

Patience inclines a person to endure present evils so that he or she may not be unreasonably sorrowful. It helps a person see the hope of some greater good being accomplished from the suffering of the present moment, even in the face of impending death.

Perseverance inclines a person to continue in the exercise of the virtues in accordance with right reason notwithstanding the irksomeness which results from protracted action. Though the struggle carries on, this person is able to endure continued suffering or plight.

These prerequisite virtues, when practiced over time, build up within the soul a readiness to die for what one believes, to be a martyr for the sake of Christ.

STEWARDSHIP AS A WAY OF LIFE:

"After John had been arrested, Jesus came to Galilee proclaiming the gospel of God...." — Mark 1:14

Do you ever think about how difficult it must have been for Jesus to come into Galilee, knowing that John had just been arrested for teaching the same message that Jesus was proclaiming. It must have taken great love and trust for Jesus to do what the Father had sent him here on earth to do. In the same way, following a life of stewardship takes great love and trust from us. We must be willing to surrender completely to God, trusting that God will always give us all that we need to fulfill his plan for us.

VIRTUAL LENTEN RETREAT

Have you ever stopped to think about heaven, and that everyone who is in heaven is a saint? We often think only about the canonized saints. But every one of us was created by God to be a saint! The Saints Within Us annual Lenten Retreat sponsored by the St. Cloud Diocesan Council of Catholic Women is scheduled for Saturday, March 13, 2021. To register for the retreat, go to our website (stclouddccw.org) and click on the link at the bottom of the screen. (You may need to use the scroll bar to get to the bottom.) Once someone is registered, they will receive an email with the links to the virtual retreat and to the live streamed Mass at the end of the retreat. We want to make this easy for people to join us from wherever they are. Women don't need to be Catholic to participate; and the gentlemen are also invited -- all are Welcome! This retreat is free .
