Continuing my reflection on the US Bishops' document, Stewardship: A Disciple's Response:

"The Christian vocation is essentially a call to be a disciple of Jesus. Stewardship is part of that. Even more to the point, however, Christians are called to be good stewards of the personal vocations they receive. Each of us must discern, accept, and live out joyfully and generously the commitments, responsibilities, and roles to which God calls him or her" (Stewardship, page 13, The Call). If we patiently listen, God will speak. He 'calls' (vocare = to call) us to different vocations: (1) we are all called to holiness. (2) We may be called to a permanent way of life: marriage or celibacy. And, (3) we are called to respond temporarily to a moment of love or a season of service.

All of us are called to holiness, that is, to be perfected by God's grace into the saint we have the capacity to be. That means, learning how to stop sinning through incremental and sometimes drastic growths in virtuous choices. God speaks in Word, through the scriptures. When we study the bible, we learn of God's revealed love for us and our call as disciples to be "like" God for others. God speaks in Sacrament, through the seven grace-filled sacraments where we encounter this revealed God even now. Holiness is the fruit of letting God in. It is not an automatic transformation. God will not force us to become holy. We have to be devoted to the process, like an athlete or musician devoted to the coach's instruction. Give God the firstfruits (best part) of your day, and quick progress will be made in holiness. The vocations of marriage and celibacy (renouncing marriage for the sake of the kingdom [Matthew 19:12]) are permanent and stable ways of life that foster holiness not only in the individual, but with one's spouse and children, or the community the celibate person serves, precisely because they are permanent structures. The unsettled discernment of "what will I do with my life" is resolved: I will serve my family, or I will serve with Jesus as my central preoccupation.

Temporary opportunities to love show up all the time, and we are called to be Christ in every moment of the day. We may also have a season of life where we feel 'called' by God to act in service of our neighbor for a period of time, not permanently like the above vocations, but still a calling that is unique and a mission from the Lord.

"[Jesus] does not summon disciples as a faceless crowd but as unique individuals... He knows people's personal histories, their strengths and weaknesses, their destinies; he has a purpose in mind for each one" (Stewardship p.13, The Call)

NEWS FOR ALL

Stewardship as a Way of Life: “I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end” (Revelation 22:13).

This is a reminder of how we should live our lives 24 hours a day, 7 days a week: putting God first in all that we do — not only when we are at Mass and parish activities, but when we are in the world, at work or at school. Living gratefully and generously is an intentional lifestyle. Every decision you make either moves you closer to God or farther away. Choose wisely!

Bishop’s Annual Appeal: Believe, Celebrate, Live! Please remember the diocesan ministries that, through your generosity, continue to build the Kingdom of God here in Central Minnesota. Keep them thriving by making a gift at www.stcdio.org/annualappeal.
