“ They Have No Wine”

This Sunday we celebrate the second Sunday in ordinary time with a profound gospel. The gospel of Jesus and Mary at the wedding feast of Cana. This gospel narrates the miracle of turning water into wine. This is the first miracle Jesus performed and it is also the moment of the manifestation of his glory. The details of this gospel offer us the opportunity to receive divine grace and challenge our Christian response to God’s law.

First of all, we recognize Jesus and Mary are invited guests to the wedding. This detail helps us to realize that the couple and their family intentionally invited Mary and Jesus. This offers us all a challenge to make sure that Jesus and Mary are invited to our life occasions. We should grow our daily devotions to express our welcome of Mary and Jesus. In all that we do, we should always try to realize how Jesus and Mary have been present. We can also ask ourselves, how well we involved Mary and Jesus in our life especially when we are making important life decisions.

Secondly, the Marian maternal care is made evident when Mary notices the lack of wine. She tells Jesus, “They have no wine”. She turns to Jesus and the servants. Mary sees our needs and brings them to her son. She also gives us council that brings redemption. Her council is consistent with the voice of the Father in the heavens when God said, “this is my beloved son, listen to him.” Mary tells the servants “Do whatever he tells you”. Mary herself is obedient to the will of God. Mary commands her children to be obedient to her son. This obedience saves the wedding feast from an embarrassing moment. Also, this obedience to the Marian command initiates the revelation of the glory of Jesus.

As Catholics, let us rejoice and be grateful for our liturgical calendar that helps us navigate through our blessings and challenge us to grow ever closer to God. As we enter this season of Ordinary time, many lessons will come our way from the scriptures we shall proclaim at Holy Mass. As we see in our celebration this weekend, Mary and Jesus are close. They are also willing to be close to those who invite them into their lives. The presence of Mary and Jesus assures us that our needs and concerns will be recognized and resolved for the greater glory of God.

Invite Mary and Jesus into your daily life.

Jesus thy kingdom come! In my heart through Mary!
