...Concerns about Burying the Dead and Cremations (Part 2)

...Continuing from last week's write up about the burying the dead, I now need to touch on cremation. The Church does permit a body to be cremated, though this is not the preference of the Church (the preference is the burial of the body). Over the years in some areas of the world cremation has become necessary because of the limited space of land for burials of a body (this is not the case in the United States). Many have chosen cremation because of the high costs of burials with a body and casket (which can be in the tens of thousands of dollars... which is why we should as a people look at what can we do differently so funerals are not so expensive but still carry out the dignified way of burying our deceased loved ones). But, if one chooses cremation, one should never to choose it as a way of denying the resurrection of the body (if so, one will not receive a Christian burial).

Sadly, some have allowed false understandings of the dead body to influence them in choosing cremation. For example, I have known people to say they don't want to be rotting away in a box as if their soul is still present in their body and they are conscious they are in a box. At the moment of death our soul separates from the body and goes before the Lord to be judged and will not be reunited with the body until the resurrection of the dead. Outside of the times God has willed some bodies to remain incorrupt after death, the natural course of life is our body does decay. When we divorce ourselves from these realities, we tend to adopt concepts that in reality show less respect for the dead. For example, some perceive cremation as this pleasant experience as opposed to the body decaying. The reality is the crematory puts the deceased's body into a roaring fire and then after the body is cremated, they then shovel the ashes into a container. Sometimes they may not have collected every particle and some cremains may end up being mixed in with the next cremated body.

Furthermore, because many people cannot bring themselves to entrust their loved ones to God they do not carry out the corporal work of mercy of burying the dead, but rather they take the cremains home and keep the loved one's remains on a shelf or in a closet. By not burying the cremains this act of entrustment which is essential for us and our loved deceased loved ones does not occur and we not only are not honoring the deceased, but we allow ourselves to be stunted in growing spiritually and emotionally by holding onto the cremains. Worse still is some people are splitting up the cremains among their loved ones and furthermore some people are encasing pieces of the cremains in jewelry. If you are tempted with thinking that is fine, well, let me put it to you this way: instead of cremains, do you think it is ok to divvy up among loved ones the different parts of the deceased's body? The answer is clearly no. Just two weeks ago a football player in the NFL wore on his necklace parts of his father's cremains and the media thought it was wonderful. It is not.

As the Congregation of the Doctrine of the Faith wrote on March 18, 2016: "By burying the bodies of the faithful, the Church confirms her faith in the resurrection of the body, and intends to show the great dignity of the human body as an integral part of the human person whose body forms part of their identity. She cannot, therefore, condone attitudes or permit rites that involve erroneous ideas about death, such as considering death as the definitive annihilation of the person, or the moment of fusion with Mother Nature or the universe, or as a stage in the cycle of regeneration, or as the definitive liberation from the 'prison' of the body.

Furthermore, burial in a cemetery or another sacred place adequately corresponds to the piety and respect owed to the bodies of the faithful departed who through Baptism have become temples of the Holy Spirit and in which 'as instruments and vessels the Spirit has carried out so many good works'. From the earliest times, Christians have desired that the faithful departed become the objects of the Christian community's prayers and remembrance. Their tombs have become places of prayer, remembrance and reflection. The faithful departed remain part of the Church who believes "in the communion of all the faithful of Christ, those who are pilgrims on earth, the dead who are being purified, and the blessed in heaven, all together forming one Church.

The reservation of the ashes of the departed in a sacred place ensures that they are not excluded from the prayers and remembrance of their family or the Christian community. It prevents the faithful departed from being forgotten, or their remains from being shown a lack of respect, which eventuality is possible, most especially once the immediately subsequent generation has too passed away. Also it prevents any unfitting or superstitious practices." In 2016, the Holy Father stressed the importance of burying the cremains in a sacred place (so a place that is officially set aside for honoring the dead) so the faithful can in many years ahead go and pray where our remains are. This is why cremains may never be scattered over some area but always buried (whether in the cemetery or mausoleum, or at sea but their cremains kept together are in a biodegradable urn). Stressing this the Holy Father said that if family has chosen to not bury the cremains then the Church should not offer the burial rites of the Church.

"For the reasons given above, the conservation of the ashes of the departed in a domestic residence is not permitted. Only in grave and exceptional cases dependent on cultural conditions of a localized nature, may the Ordinary ... concede permission for the conservation of the ashes of the departed in a domestic residence. Nonetheless, the ashes may not be divided among various family members and due respect must be maintained regarding the circumstances of such a conservation. In order that every appearance of pantheism, naturalism or nihilism be avoided, it is not permitted to scatter the ashes of the faithful departed in the air, on land, at sea or in some other way, nor may they be preserved in mementos, pieces of jewelry or other objects."

For those who perhaps have the cremains of loved ones still, one really must take steps as soon as possible to rectify the situation and have your loved one's cremains buried. Please contact the local cemetery to obtain a burial plot, and coordinate with them and me a day and time to perform the committal rites so our loved ones may be honored as they should be, entrusting them finally to the mercy and love of the Lord as they await the resurrection of the body.

Please Keep in Your Prayers

This Sunday September 26th and next Sunday, Oct. 3rd we will have 40 young parishioners receiving the sacrament of Confirmation. Bishop DaCunha will be coming to give the sacrament. Through this beautiful sacrament they will receive the Gifts of the Holy Spirit. As they receive Confirmation, having already received Baptism and the Eucharist they complete receiving the sacraments of initiation and therefore sacramentally receive the fullness of the faith. Let us pray they will response to all these graces and seek to grow in their love for Christ and radiate the truth of the faith to others.

PLEASE KEEP IN YOUR PRAYERS
John Egan

John Egan died last week and his funeral Mass was held last Saturday, September 25th. Let us pray for the great mercy of God to be showered upon him, praying that he may rest in peace and experience the eternal glory of God in heaven. Please keep his family in your prayers during this difficult time.

R.C.I.A.

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (R.C.I.A.) is the process offered for adults to become full members of the Roman Catholic Church.

The program is for adults, 18 & over, who have:

- (1) Never been baptized at all, in any denomination
- (2) Have been baptized in another Christian denomination (non-Roman Catholic), for example, Methodist, Episcopalian, Lutheran or some other Christian community and wish to be welcomed into the full communion of the Catholic Church and receive the Sacrament of Confirmation and their 1st Holy Communion.

Those inquiring about the Faith learn more about God, Jesus and the Church and share their developing Faith in a group of adults meeting every week. This is a time of instruction, prayer, Scripture-sharing, and reaching out to others. Participants who complete the R.C.I.A. requirements generally receive their Sacraments and are welcomed into the full communion of the Roman Catholic Church at the Easter Vigil, celebrated on Holy Saturday evening, the night before Easter Sunday.

Baptism

Congratulations to Quinn Margaret Brennan, daughter of
Daniel and Elizabeth Brennan

Quinn was baptized last Sunday, September 26th. Please pray for Quinn that she will truly know and fully live the new life in Christ as a daughter of God. Please pray she will live the gift of faith she has received, as well as grow in the gift of sanctifying grace so as to become a great saint. Please keep her parents and godparents in your prayers as well, praying that they will be the best instruments of fostering the faith of Quinn.

Day of Recollection for Women

Saturday, October 9th @ 9:00a.m.

The Day of Recollection for Women begins with Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament at 9:00am. There will be two preached meditations by Fr. Kevin, an opportunity for Confession, a talk by a lay woman or praying of the Rosary, Examination of Conscience, and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

With the Day of Recollection beginning at 9:00am, our daily Mass will be celebrated @ 8:00am this Saturday (which is open for everyone).

Practical Ideas for Family Faith

On Wednesday, Oct 6 @ 7pm, Katie Warner, author of the book Head & Heart: Becoming Spiritual Leaders for Your Family, will be hosting a virtual talk for the Diocese. This talk is especially relevant for parents, grandparents, and parish leaders.

To register for FREE, visit: <https://bit.ly/Warner21>
Katie Warner is a Catholic wife, homeschooling mom, and author who loves creating and sharing resources for Catholic families. Katie received her graduate degree in theology from the Augustine Institute. She is a Catholic speaker, an EWING TV segment host, and a correspondent for the National Catholic Register. Katie has authored several prayer journals and bestselling Catholic children's books. She is also the part-time Communications Manager for the national evangelization apostolate: Catholics Come Home. Katie, her husband Raymond, and their four young children live in Georgia.
