Patron Saint of St. John Vianney Church

Saint John Vianney (Saint Jean Vianney), is also known as the Curé d'Ars. He is considered the patron saint of parish priests and is known for his deep devotion to the Church and dedication to the sacrament of confession. His life inspires all priests, as he exemplified a genuinely holy man through his humility, selflessness, and unwavering faith.

On this Feast of St. John Vianney may we pray for all priests, especially Fr. José and Fr. Ricardo, that God will continue to protect and encourage them.

PROCESSION IN NEW HAVEN CELEBRATES CATHOLIC FAITH, ITALIAN-AMERICAN CULTURES

Several hundred Italian-Americans marched in a procession three blocks long in honor of St. Trofimena, a fourth century virgin martyr, whose statue was held aloft on a platform and carried through New Haven's Wooster Street neighborhood of Little Italy.

The procession, held on the saint's feast day, July 13, was sponsored by the St. Trofimena Society and was preceded by a Mass at St. Michael Church.

It included a marching band, a Knights of Columbus honor guard and representatives from the St. Catello Society and other Italian-American organizations from St. Michael and St. Anthony churches, which are part of the Blessed Michael McGivney Parish in the Elm City.

David Kelley, one of the organizers, said it was the first time in 40 years there has been a procession for the saint, who is patron of Minori, Italy, and the first time in 70 years for the St. Catello Society.

Kelley, who is co-president of the St. Trofimena Society with his cousin, Richard Biondi, says, "This is beyond belief. This is more than we ever anticipated or dreamed of doing."
Only two years ago, the co-presidents revived the society, which was founded in 1908. It now boasts some 120 members.

"The Mass and procession mean a great deal to me and the members of the societies," Biondi says.

"For the older members to celebrate a Mass in Italian brings back cherished memories of their youth and family members who are no longer alive."

Biondi adds that the procession was also an opportunity for unity among the Italian-American religious organizations in the New Haven area and "an occasion to celebrate our Catholic faith, as well as our Italian-American culture and traditions."
The procession included delegations from societies that honor St. Trofimena, St. Catello, St. Anthony, St. Andrew, St. Anne and St. Maria Maddalena.

Father Joseph MacNeill led the procession and celebrated Mass in Italian earlier that morning. The priest, who is chaplain of St. Thomas More Chapel & Center at Yale in New Haven, traces his ancestry on his mother's side to the Abruzzi region of Italy.

"I'm here to continue to give witness to our passion, faith, culture and saints for the next generation of Italian Americans," he says.
Founded in 1901, members of the St. Catello Society carried a statue of the ninth century bishop of Castellamare di Stabia, a city southeast of Naples.

Gene Avino, whose grandfather began the society to help immigrants from his home, says the group will celebrate its 125th anniversary next year.

The president, Paul Criscuolo, says there has been a renewed interest in Italian heritage and that 14 new members have enrolled, some of them from Ireland, Italy, California and Florida.
Around the turn of the century, immigrants established Italian societies at St. Michael's, the oldest Italian church in Connecticut, to offer assistance to one another, honor their traditions and share their devotion to the patron saints of their hometowns.

According to tradition, St. Trofimena was a young woman who was killed by her father for refusing to marry a pagan because she was Christian.

Kelley said the day was a testament to the enduring presence of Italian-American culture and faith.

"I grew up at St. Michael's Church as a child and spent a lot of time with my grandparents," he recalled. "I love our Italian traditions, so we hope this is a kind of revival."

A Fool and His Money

By Deacon Frank Bevvino

The 18th Sunday in Ordinary Time focuses on urging believers to seek spiritual nourishment instead of material possessions. The readings emphasize that earthly goods are fleeting, while the love and grace of God offer enduring satisfaction and eternal life. The challenge is to discern what satisfies our deepest needs and to align our priorities with God's will.

Our first reading from Ecclesiastes reminds us that earthly pursuits, even those that seem to promise lasting satisfaction, ultimately lead to vanity and emptiness. The accumulation of wealth, the pursuit of pleasure, and the striving for worldly achievements are all temporary. While material possessions and success are not bad in themselves, we must recognize them as gifts from God but not make the gods unto themselves.

St. Paul urges believers to focus on heavenly things and to minimize earthly desires. He encourages us to set our mind on things above, not on earthly things.

In Luke's gospel, Jesus tells the parable of the rich man who focused on accumulating wealth and possessions while neglecting his relationship with God and others. He stored up treasures for himself but was poor in spiritual matters. The parable serves as a warning against greed and a reminder that true wealth lies in spiritual riches and our relationship with God. Jesus' message is clear: our lives are not defined by what we own or our success or fame, but by how we live in relationship with God and others.

These readings challenge us to examine our priorities and remind us that earthly possessions and achievements are fleeting, while a relationship offers lasting joy and fulfillment. The parable of the rich man serves as a cautionary tale, urging us to avoid the trap of greed and to focus on what truly matters in the eyes of God. As we reflect on these readings, we are called to examine our lives, to assess our priorities, and to make choices that align us with God's will and lead us to God's forgiveness.
