HE HAS RISEN! WHAT ABOUT US?

A week before Easter, a CCD teacher was teaching her class of little children about the seven last words of Jesus on the cross. She asked the children "What was the last thing Jesus said before he died?" A little boy raised his hand and answered: "Jesus said: I will be back." "Early in the morning, while it was still dark..." That's where Easter really begins. It begins in darkness. It begins with fear, confusion, pain, and a profound loss of certainty. In our Gospel story, Mary Magdalene sees Jesus first because she chooses to remain in the darkness. Peter and the beloved disciple leave when they see the empty tomb, but Mary stays, confused and mourning. Mary Magdalene remains present to what is real, to what is actually happening. She does so even when what is real feels agonizing.

Jesus comes in the darkness, and sometimes it takes a long time to recognize him. He doesn't look the way we expect him to look. He doesn't let us cling to our old ideas. He disappears again just as we grab hold of him. But he comes, he calls our name, and in that instant, we recognize both ourselves and him.

Have we encountered the risen Christ? The encounters of Mary Magdalene, Peter, and the beloved disciple don't look identical. When Peter sees the empty tomb, he runs away. When the beloved disciple sees it, he believes without understanding. When Mary sees it, she weeps and waits for more.

In other words, we come to the empty tomb as ourselves, for good or for ill. What matters is encountering the risen Jesus in the details of our own messy lives. What matters is finding in the empty tomb the hope we need for our own struggles, losses, traumas, and disappointments. On Easter Sunday we must begin with a willingness to remain in the garden, desolate and alone, listening for the sounds of our own names, spoken in love. How has the risen Christ revealed himself to us?"

This Easter may the Christ who rose in the darkness lead us into new life, new light, and new hope. May we know Christ in the dark places, the shadowy places, the hard places. May we dare to stay until Christ calls our names and sends us forth to share his good news with the world. Happy Easter! Christ is risen! He is risen indeed.

Please stay safe and healthy! I love you and I miss you!
