On Scars and Stories, Doubt and Faith Once More

The story is told of an imaginary conversation that took place between St. Michael the Archangel and Jesus after his ascension into heaven. St. Michael asked, “Jesus, now that you have returned to heaven, what are your plans for reaching the world with the Good News?” Jesus replied, “I’ve given the task to my disciples.” St. Michael, knowing that the disciples were “unlearned and ignorant” people, asked, “What is your back-up plan if they fail?” Jesus replied, “I have no back-up plan!”

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ is the very heart of Christianity. St. Paul tells us that if Christ has not been raised, our preaching is useless and so is our faith. For the disciples, the Resurrection of Jesus was a uniquely divine experience. They were not able to comprehend the fact of Resurrection and grasp the deep inner meaning of it. However, it built up their faith, particularly because of their experience of the presence of Jesus, and made them persons courageous and ready to face any eventuality for their master. After his Resurrection, Jesus stood among them, talked to them, ate with them, and taught them the doctrine. They are now called upon to build the faith of others

Notice that Jesus appears to his disciples in a body that is resurrected but still wounded. Jesus’s wounded body reminds us that some hurts are for keeps. Some markers of pain, loss, trauma, and horror leave traces. For example, a teenager will never become an adult who didn’t spend an amount of his/her adolescence in chronic pain. Some wounds remain, even after resurrection.

The fact is, change and growth occur slowly. Anyone who has battled an addiction, pain, loss, or lived with a chronic illness, will testify that sincere conversion is life-long. The early Christians referred to their new faith as “The Way.” A “way” is not a destination. It’s a road to walk. It’s an invitation to journey.

Jesus’ resurrected body retained its scars. Not old scars. Not neat, but fresh wounds, still raw enough to allow a doubting disciple to place his fingers inside. After all, it is with our bodies that we experience deep trauma, deep anger, deep terror, and deep joy. It’s our chest that hurts when we mourn. It’s our face that burns when we are angry. In his Resurrection, Jesus honored the body. He honored the bruised, broken, wounded, and disabled body. He honored the real-life bodies in which we live. Our wounds aren’t pretty; they don’t tell the whole story of who we are. But the stories they tell are holy, holy ground. If Jesus himself didn’t fear the bloody and the broken, then perhaps those of us walking in his footsteps don’t need to fear them so much, either.

Let us pray – God of mercy, you wash away our sins in water. You give us new birth in the Spirit and redeem us in the blood of Christ. As we celebrate Christ’s resurrection, increase our awareness of these blessings and renew the gift of life within us. We ask this through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Please stay safe and healthy! I love you and I miss you!
