Update of Archbishops' Annual Appeal

Updated 9/21/21

Parish Goal: $110,000.00
Total Pledges: $84,338.00
Total Paid: $81,232.00
Total Gifts:319
Average Gift: $264.38
Percent of Goal: 76.67%
Participation Rate: 15.98%
Total Number of Parishioners: 1996

As we approach the fourth quarter of this year, I know that many of you make your charitable contributions during this period as final tax planning measures are taken into account. I'm pleased to report that the Archbishop's Annual Appeal is now within just $25,000 of its final goal. Typical of our Archdiocesan parishes, to date about 20% of our St. Margaret parishioner base has contributed so far to the Appeal, an so we ask the rest of you to please take us over the finish line during this final fourth quarter period. No amount is too small to give, and we realize that the covid situation has compromised many of our parishioner's charitable giving plans. Again, just please give what you can, as it won't take much to bring us to the additional $25,000 if those who have not given yet just give their fair share. And I know that some of you would also be interested in a "match" campaign to then double what is brought in over the next few weeks. Please contact us if you'd like to pursue that strategy.

Thank you for your support of our St, Margaret's community

Our Church Hall, located directly below St Margaret's Church, is now available for all parishioner groups to utilize again. While a recent rain storm flood has created the need to replace the entire floor this coming January, and a lighting installation issue will delay the final ceiling light replacement in all ceiling areas until mid November, the hall is otherwise fully functioning, and can be reserved by contacting the parish office and completing the Parish Facilities Request Form.

Over the past year, many parishioners had contacted me asking for the re-creation of a Church Hall that could accommodate many functions other than simple base, utilitarian use venues for lectures and such. When I showed the hall to prospective users seeking spaces for receptions after funerals, baptisms, etc., comments surfaced that the outdated, aging interior would not work for their events.. With the spruce up of the woodwork and paint completed in the upper Church, it became apparent that a spruce up of the lower Church Hall was also due.

We at St Margaret's are indeed blessed with a solid, sizeable Church Hall space. It simply needed a review of the space, and a fresh spruce up utilizing the physical attributes of the existing premises. The birch wood columns and ceiling beams had not been polished in years, along with the side wainscot paneling along the outer walls. The kitchen was in excellent shape along with the restrooms. What was clearly needed was a redefinition of the space into a multifunctional room that could accommodate receptions, retreats, lectures, meetings, dinners, special events and varied parishioner functions. In essence, a space needed to be established that our St Margaret's community would be glad to hold functions in, and where our outside visitors would find an attractive environment for their visits here.

Early in the review, the concept of a contemporary translation of a medieval abbey surfaced due to the space dynamics, and the expanse of the column system that was in close proximity to the exterior walls of the Church Hall. The space's solid linkage to the upper Church was imperative, as the Church Hall is not just a meeting space, but the extension of the sacred environment above. While the ceiling was uniform in height throughout the space, it was felt that it would be advantageous to have the center portion appear higher. This would further enhance the concept of a medieval abbey courtyard open to the sky. A variegated white and pale blue coloration was applied to the existing ceiling tiles, and in November, new pendant lighting of varying heights will be installed into the ceiling system in the central portion of the space. The cloister outer perimeter areas of the space were painted a dusty purple, along with the ceiling areas of the space, in order to facilitate the illusion of a lower ceiling area here. Lighting infrastructure within all ceiling components can be dimmed as the function venue dictates. One can now walk completely around the room, enveloped within the overall feel of a lower cloistered area, as one views objects found there that help to recreate the image of a past, sacred parsonage.

I then went completely through all of our parish properties and found old reminders of the past in attics, basements, store rooms, etc. And in addition, parishioners had given St Margaret's a number of sacred objects that could be placed within the cloister side areas. Next, art work for the walls would be needed. We are indeed blessed to have Bob Vissers here in our parishioner community who enjoys photography a great deal, and has a top notch professional camera to work with. Bob worked with me to take photos of many of our sacred stained glass window vignettes in the upper Church, and to also capture images of the sacred statues found throughout the Church and outer garden areas. They can now be viewed on permanent display along the room's periphery walls above the wainscot base areas. New downlights will be placed in the ceiling areas above the photo art, helping to propel the images into the room for a stronger effect.

Requests have now been arising for retreats, dinner functions, and other parish events to be held within the new Church Hall environment that also includes the adjacent plaza garden outdoor seating area. Simply call the parish office to discuss your group needs and timing. We do ask each group to respect the new space, by not taping anything to the newly painted and wood refurbished walls, or moving any of the furnishings around other than the foldable tables and seating arrangements in the central space area. And please leave the space as you found it, so that the next group holding a function there can also have a clean and orderly environment to start with. If you do need vertical hanging space for some of your materials, easels will be available for your use by contacting the parish office. Tables and chairs are located in adjacent storage areas of the Parish Hall. The library is also available for parishioner use, and that space will be re-organized in the coming week.

We hope that you enjoy our newly refurbished Church Hall areas, and we all look forward to seeing the space in full splendor when the new floor is installed in mid January.
